JURY GETS POPE CASE

Verdict Sought On Six Charges

. . . TRIAL LASTED MONTH

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The fate of Duane Pope was placed in the hands of Federal District Court jurors Wednesday at 5:15 p.m., one month from the day the trial for the accused bank robber-killer's life began.

After receiving instructions from Judge Robert Van Pelt the ten men and two women filed out of the high ceilinged courtroom and down the long third floor hallway in Lincoln's main post office building to deliberate Pope's guilt or innocence in connection with the June 4 Big Springs hold-up for which he is charged.

Following a short session, presumably to choose a foreman, the jury panel left the federal building for an evening meal before retiring to hotel rooms for the night Deliberations will resume at 9 a m Thursday

The jury will reach a verdict on each of six federal charges, three of which can result in the death penalty. And in accord with Judge Van Pelt's instructions, two decisions will be made:

First, the question of Pope's defense of insanity. If the jury finds the defendant was insane at the time of the robbery, the verdict will be not guilty. If the weight of evidence proves him sane. Pope will be found guilty.

Decide Penalty

If guilty, the jury's other duty will be to decide whether the penalty for the three capital offenses will be death. Should there be no recommendation for death, Judge Van Pelt will decide on Pope's term of imprisonment.

Judge Van Pelt said in his charge that if Pope is found not guilty by reason of insanity, consideration by the jury of the form or term of Pope's committment is forbidden. This will be carried out by the court, the judge commented.

What has been termed a "classic" case went to jurors following final arguments by the defense and prosecution—one a plea for the jury to consider the robbery the act of a "terribly, terribly sick young man," the other a forceful demand for the maximum sentence.

Met Its Burden

U.S. Attorney Theodore Richling argued that the government had met its burden to prove Pope sane, claiming "all the evidence is more conclusive that he went to the bank at Big Springs to get money at the point of a gun."

"An eyewitness left alive by the providence of God and not by the design of the defendant can testify to that," Richling said.

Since he took charge of the case, Richling has consistently maintained that the tragic journey to Big Springs, far from an act of compulsion, was a rational decision based on Pope's free choice. "I still don't understand all that ethereal psychiatry that got him there", he tol' jurors

The 54-year-old chief prosecutor told the jury that he must "submit to you humbly and sorrowfully that revenge is something to consider."

"In America we do not seek revenge," he said, his powerful voice trembling with emotion, "but justice is justice. Let it be announced to all America that he who lives by the gun takes his chances."

Richling reiterated his call for the death penalty by telling the jury that the crime—in which three persons were shot to death and a fourth left paralyzed — "certainly does not call for less than the maximum."

The defense was equally adamant that the government has not proved Pope sane beyond a reasonable doubt, the legal standard for mental competency.

"The facts defy any explanation other than mental illness", said defense attorney Robert Crosby, who time and again told the jury that by virtue of the "terrible nature" of Pope's acts it would be "impossible not to have a reasonable doubt".

Crosby in his summation told jurors that "unless you are convinced to a moral certainty that Duane was able to control his impulses, you should find him not guilty."

'Unearthly'

"There is something kind of unearthly, robot-like about what he did — it just doesn't add up," Crosby said, adding that "this boy was desperately ill in his mind."

The former Nebraska governor argued that psychiatric testimony has proved Pope to be a "classic example of a person who could not control the impulse that was driving him."

Government Failed

In other final arguments. associate defense attorney Wallace Rudolph declared that the government had failed to prove a motive for the bank robbery and killings. Why, he asked, should Pope have shot the four people in the bank after successfully getting the money?

The answer, he said, is that Pope was mentally sick and went to the bank under a compulsion to kill. Rudolph said the bank robbery was a cover-up for the more deep-seated desire in Pope's subconscious.

"Does schizophrenic illness explain why a kind, shy, obedient boy who was never in trouble could suddenly explode into violence? We believe it does," Rudolph concluded.

Members of the jury are: Richard W. Agee, Kenneth Barr, Kaye D Bowers, Mrs Karl C. Brinkman, Jack J. Caldwell, I. J. Devoe, Mrs. R. B. Felton, Curtis D. Kimball, Ferdinand J. Lintel, Cecil F. Metzger, G. L. Oglesby and Carlton C. Rohrer.

Statehouse Mural: Snow Job Or Art?

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Blizzard of '88 — the first of six mosaics to be placed in the Capitol's great hall — is in place.

Or out of place (depending upon one's artistic tastes).

This black-and-white-plus-a little-glittering-gold concept of Nebraska's most famous snowstorm may provoke the greatest art tempest since the "square bull" mural.

(The "controversial" square bull in the Capitol rotunda is still pointed out in daily guided tours. It raised Uni-cameral and other eyebrows when hung in the mid-fifties.)

Full Impact

This week, workmen removed the scaffolding from the "Blizzard," leaving the 6,500 pounds of art to have its full impact upon all who pass underneath.

Some stand and look. Some sit and look. The comments overheard have been varied.

"I like it very, very much," one teen-ager giggled to a companion. "But what is it?"

"The murals commission should be charged with defacing a public building'," snorted one Statehouse official. "Where was the governor whe. this happened?"

"It's a snow job I couldn't buy," quipped another onlooker, "but apparently somebody did. Wait till the Legislature sees it."

Another suggested, 'It looks like that plaster-of-Paris art that's sold at county fairs."

Chairman Fred N. Wells said the Capitol Mural Commission was unanimous in its selection of the blizzard scene.

"I like it very much," Wells told a reporter. "You must look at it remembering the suggestion made to the commission that all murals or mosaics should be symbolic."

Symbolism the Key

"It's the symbolism of the blizzard," he continued. "To put into mosaic a realistic picture would be trite."

Wells conceded there's been "some criticism of the grouping" of the mosaic's 13 sections, but said he personally doesn't find the "seams" objectionable when viewed from a distance

However, Wells said the artist must come to Lincoln to approve the mounting before being paid her commission of $9,324.

"If something's wrong with the mounting it will be her responsibility to correct it," he said.

Wells said the artist, Jeanne Reynal of New York City, is internationally-known

The second work, "Spirit of Nebraska," will be personally mounted sometime between Christmas and New Year's Day by its creator, Reinhold Marxhausen of Concordia College in Seward.

Wells said the third mosaic (centered between the first two) will symbilize the "Building of the First Railroad," and Artist F. John Miller of Montreal, Canada, plans "to put it up shortly after the first of the year."

The remaining three mosaics are still to be selected by the nine-member commission. Wells said final selection from the sketches of four artists will be made after next Feb. 1.

The Legislature appropriated more than $50,000 to complete the art work for the Capitol.

Big Changes Looming In Food Aid Programs

Washington (AP)—Events appear to be pushing the United States toward significant changes in food and farm programs that could have far-reaching effects at home and abroad

James G. Patton, retiring president of the National Farmers Union, predicted in an interview Wednesday that big government farm programs, currently involving federal payments to farmers of upwards of $4 billion a year, are on their way out.

This forecast from a vigorous supporter of government farm aid programs came at a time when the United States is weighing future policies to help meet food needs of the world's expanding population. Few officials and farmers now consider this country's stocks of grain and other foods to be excessive.

Of immediate concern to the government is the matter of supplying wheat and other foods to India and Pakistan. President Johnson arranged to confer Thursday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L Freeman at his ranch near Johnson City, Tex., on this matter

(Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan is scheduled to visit Johnson later this month. A visit to the President by Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri may also be forthcoming.)

The United States limited shipments to a month-by-month basis after these two food-shortage countries became involved in military conflict—now halted by a truce—over an area claimed by both. India in particular has been appealing for greater food assurances from this country. Shipments to the two countries may well be increased this winter.

India's food minister, Chidambaram Subramaniam, told the New Delhi parliament Wednesday that India's only hope of averting widespread starvation is in continued huge imports of grain under America's Food for Peace program.

Meanwhile, U.S. authorities may declare that, for the present, no big step-up in disposal of farm surpluses abroad is in sight.

The total wheat and other foods which may go abroad will continue next year at recent levels. But less will be made available for soft currencies.

Red China Stepping Up Aid To Hanoi Sharply

Washington (UPI) — The United States has solid evidence of a major expansion of Communist Chinese military and economic aid to North Viet Nam, authoritative sources said Wednesday.

Peking has stepped up the flow of both war materials and industrial supplies to the North Vietnamese, they said. In addition, Red Chinese engineering troops have been sent to help repair the rail line linking Hanoi with Southern China.

At the same time, North Viet Nam has undertaken a major program to improve the series of jungle paths known as the Ho Chi Minh Trail, by which war materials and troops are sent through eastern Laos and then into the Viet Cong-held areas of South Viet Nam.

Over $500 Million

The State Department, commenting on reports from intelligence sources on the intensified Peking assistance, said Red China has extended "more than $500 million in economic aid to Hanoi." The assumption is that it is continuing, the department said.

Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said Communist Chinese personnel had been in North Viet Nam in connection with economic as well as military aid.

He said it was likely that the Red Chinese had been helping repair the bomb-damaged railroad line "extending northwest from Hanoi to Lao Cai, since this line in the past has transhipped freight from south central China to the important terminal point of Kunming, which has no other rail line as a source of supply."

This line dips south to Hanoi as it runs from Nanning to Kunming, the two Chinese points. It has been under repeated U.S. air attack along the portions lying within North Viet Nam.

Intelligence sources here said the stepped-up Peking military and industrial aid to Hanoi, plus assistance in repairing the rail line, apparently was designed to speed up the dispatch of regular North Vietnamese units to South Viet Nam.

Evidence was reported that additional regiments of North Vietnamese troops had been discovered in the recent fierce fighting against American and South Vietnamese troops in the central highlands, as well as other places.

In addition to military equipment, Peking was said to be sending trucks and construction materials to repair bridges and other installations damaged by the continuing American air offensive.

However, there has been no evidence that Peking might be preparing to intervene directly in the Viet Nam fighting, authorities here said.

. . . FRIDAY NIGHT COURT TO END

By DICK BUDIG

Revisions which will end Friday night court sessions and will allow speedier disposition of cases in Lincoln Municipal Court were spelled out in a joint statement Wednesday by Lincoln's two Municipal Court judges.

Under the new system, which goes into effect Jan. 1, traffic court will be divided into four 1½-hour sessions beginning at 9 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m., Municipal Judges Thomas J. McManus and Richard O. Johnson said.

Police officers will be assigned certain days and hours in which each will appear in court. Citations issued by the officer will be pre-dated for his day in court."

In most cases, this will allow persons who wish to plead not guilty to have their trial immediately, the judges said.

Under the present system, all traffic cases are set at 9 a.m. If a person wishes to plead not guilty, his case has to be set for trial at a later date.

Cases which are continued under the new system will not be continued for more than a week or two, they said.

The Friday night sessions, which were given largely to teen-age traffic violators and traffic violators under 21, will be integrated into the revised daily traffic court system.

When the new system goes into effect, Judge McManus will be assigned to the civil docket and State Safety Patrol cases. He will also process all jail cases, including those arrested for intoxication, at 9 each morning.

Johnson, who expressed a desire Wednesday that the Legislature give municipal courts of cities of the primary and metropolitan class the power to revoke drivers' licenses, will be assigned city traffic cases Jan. 1.

Municipal court judges today may revoke operator licenses only when a state law has been broken under which the penalty calls for revocation of the license, or when a person is guilty of driving in such a way as to endanger life, limb and property, he said

McManus and Johnson will trade assignments every January, May and September

Astronauts Borman, Lovell Hale, Hearty, Rarin' To Go

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. underwent a five-hour medical examination Wednesday and doctors pronounced them hale, hearty and rarin' to start their two-week space adventure on Saturday.

The final major physical check provided baseline data for the most extensive medical survey ever planned on a U.S. man-in-space flight.

Hopefully, the study will answer such questions as: do bones grow old during long exposure to weightlessness? Can man be protected from developing a "lazy heart" in space? How deep does an astronaut sleep? Can man survive well enough in space to make a 14-day flight to the moon, the longest planned in the Apollo program?

The Gemini 6 astronauts, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, underwent a less extensive physical Wednesday. They will receive a final exam three days before their scheduled Dec. 13 blastoff.

The double Gemini shot calls for a rendezvous and formation flight of the two spaceships 185 miles above the earth — perhaps within inches of each other.

Astronauts Borman, Lovell Hale, Hearty, Rarin' To Go

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. underwent a five-hour medical examination Wednesday and doctors pronounced them hale, hearty and rarin' to start their two-week space adventure on Saturday.

The final major physical check provided baseline data for the most extensive medical survey ever planned on a U.S. man-in-space flight.

Hopefully, the study will answer such questions as: do bones grow old during long exposure to weightlessness? Can man be protected from developing a "lazy heart" in space? How deep does an astronaut sleep? Can man survive well enough in space to make a 14-day flight to the moon, the longest planned in the Apollo program?

The Gemini 6 astronauts, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, underwent a less extensive physical Wednesday. They will receive a final exam three days before their scheduled Dec. 13 blastoff.

The double Gemini shot calls for a rendezvous and formation flight of the two spaceships 185 miles above the earth — perhaps within inches of each other.

RHODESIA WARNED BRITISH WILL FIGHT

. . . To Defend Zambia's Kariba Power Supply

London (AP) — Britain set up forces Wednesday to operate within reach of Rhodesia and warned rebellious Rhodesian leaders it will fight, if necessary, to defend neighboring Zambia's power supplies.

Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda gave Britain the all-clear to move air units into Zambia. Government informants reported British planes and airmen will fly in Thursday.

The sources said the Zambian and British governments have not yet reached agreement on the terms under which a battalion of ground forces will move into Zambia which lies on white-ruled Rhodesia's northern frontier.

Command Issue

The issue dividing Kaunda and Prime Minister Harold Wilson at the moment is understood to center on the question of the control of these British troops. Wilson wants command to remain British, while Kaunda is believed to want at least a share in the command forces will move into Zambia structure.

Wilson said his government is resisting demands for Kaunda for a British military attack on Rhodesia.

Wilson told a solemn and silent House of Commons that Britain is tightening the screw of economic and fiscal sanctions to bring about a "quick and sharp" end to Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's breakaway regime.

Blunt

Wilson addressed this blunt warning to Smith's government, which he claimed, has been blackmailing successive British governments with threats to cut off power supplies to Zambia from the giant Kariba Dam:

"If he (Smith) uses his illegitimate control over this international project, the Kariba Dam, to destroy the economy, we cannot stand idly by . . .

"If that did mean a limited (military) operation — we should be prepared to take that operation."

Smith has insisted repeatedly that Rhodesia has no intention of shutting off power to the copper mines and industries of Zambia. The Kariba Dam lies across the Zambezi River on the Zambian-Rhodesian frontier, but the power plant is inside Rhodesia.

OAU Pressure

Pressure on Kaunda is coming from the Organization of African Unity (OAU). Its council of ministers is scheduled to meet Friday in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, to consider the Rhodesian situation.

President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania sent Kaunda a message saying Britain's offer of military aid was "an insult in the face of your need" and he pledged to help.

Wilson said it was a British, as well as a Zambian, interest to insure that electricity from Kariba continues to feed into Zambia. If the flow of Zambian copper to British factories were to stop, up to 500,000 British workers stand to lose their jobs.

Strike Shuts Down Olin's Bullet Line

East Alton, Ill. (UPI) — A machinists strike at an Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. plant Wednesday closed down a production line that made bullets for American fighting men in Viet Nam.

The strike, over working conditions and job rules, also shut off production of metal compounds used in the new silverless coins.

The International Association of Machinists (IAM) was joined in the walkout by four other unions. Production was halted only at the East Alton plant. Olin officials said most of the bullets produced by the firm are made at the factory here.

The United Mine Workers (UMW), representing plant guards, agreed to stay in indefinitely, but members of other unions walked out. Their contracts expired at midnight together with that of the machinists.

Olin officials would not disclose the size of the firm's current total ammunition contract with the government. They said some production will go ahead at the New Haven, Conn., plant.

Olin received a $12.6 million ammunition contract last month and a $3.1 million assignment for production of mortar shells this week. Last year's total contracts to Olin were $49.4 million, but this was before the big buildup in Viet Nam. Olin made 15 billion rounds of ammunition in World War II.

The IAM was joined in the walkout by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the International Chemical Workers, the pipefitters, and the Western Employes Trades Council. The IAM represents more than 3,800 workers and the others represent a total of about 700.

The IAM struck two weeks ago at McDonnell Aircraft Corp. in nearby St. Louis, Mo., and held up production of Gemini spacecrafts and Phantom jet fighter planes.

The dispute was settled Nov. 24, six days after the strike began.

Two Nudist Camps Forbid Photography

Sioux City, Iowa (AP)—A federal court jury hearing charges that obscene literature was shipped into Iowa received testimony Wednesday from two nudist camp operators that they prohibited photography in their camps.

The government witnesses were W. F. Nilson, who said he operated a camp near San Juan Capistrano, Calif., and Mrs. Georgia Zehner, of El Cajon, Calif.

Mrs. Zehner said photographers were barred from a nudist camp she and her husband operated near El Cajon from 1955 to 1964.

She testified that the camp was sold last year to Milton Luros, Los Angeles magazine publisher, leading defendant in the obscenity trial against his magazines and 10 employes.

The trial is in its seventh week. The government indicated it would end its case this week.

RUSK CALLS U.S. COMMITMENT 'PRINCIPAL PILLAR OF PEACE'

Washington (AP)—The "principal pillar of peace in the world," Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Wednesday, is the American commitment in Viet Nam and elsewhere. If it is not kept, he said, it could lead the communists to "monstrous miscalculations."

Rusk spoke quietly and extemporaneously to a windup luncheon of a three-day White House Conference on International Cooperation. His audience — more than 2,000 men and women leaders in dozens of fields of international affairs — listened with absorption. There was hardly a clink of a glass in the vast hotel ballroom.

The secretary defended U.S. policy in Viet Nam as one of toughness, coupled with patience and prudence. He said the United States is in touch with "the other side" regularly, "every week," and has found no sign of willingness to take the conflict out of the battlefield and to a conference table.

Answer and Disarm

In both his speech and his replies to written questions from panelists, Rusk attempted to answer and disarm criticism of the administration's war policy in Viet Nam and the continued U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam.

The questions were phrased politely, but they reflected deep misgivings among this gathering of intellectuals about the role of the Central Intelligence Agency in foreign affairs, the wisdom of the Viet Nam war, and the bombings.

The question, he said, is "how best to establish peace," and added:

"This is a question that makes pygmies of everyone."

As to a halt in the bombings as a means of inducing the communists to open peace negotiations, Rusk said, "I am not now excluding the possibility of stopping the bombing."

No Speculation

But the secretary said, "When you sit where I sit it is not necessary to speculate" about what the results would be. He said there is adequate contact with the other side to know what the reaction would be.

Rusk said, "The CIA does not make policy and does not initiate actions unknown to the high policy leaders of the government."

He added, "There is a tough battle going on in back alleys all over the world. It is not a field that can be left entirely to the other side."

RUSK . . . addresses cooperation conference.

Cavalryman Under Yule Tree? Handle With Care

An Khe, Viet Nam (AP)—Mothers, wives, sweethearts: if among your Christmas presents this year Santa Claus is sending you a serviceman back from Viet Nam, take care in how you unwrap the merchandise.

To avoid shattering the psyche of the family circle and to ease the withdrawal syndromes from this war zone, the 1st Air Cavalry Division has sent an operational bulletin to the loved ones of all returning GIs.

The bulletin explains in great detail how these highly prized Christmas gifts have undergone certain changes, due to war and whatnot, and how they are to be carefully unraveled so as not to burst forth like a grenade under the Christmas tree.

Readjusting

"This notification," the bulletin explains, "is intended primarily to inform you of a period of adjustment which is inevitable for all souls returning from this operational theater, and to ease the transformation of a curious creature back to the familiar personage you knew.

"It will be necessary to ignore certain curious habits which the returnee will almost certainly conform to for several months.

"Don't be alarmed, for example, if he picks up the downstairs telephone extension and screams 'are you working?' (a question military operators keep asking when a phone is in use) or if you hear him asking the operator for Sky King (the 1st Cavalry's switchboard).

"Show a little tact when he appears for lunch bearing his own silverware. Remain calm when he takes a curious device which is really a can opener and opens an assortment of canned foods, which he proceeds to eat cold from the can.

"Display serenity when he mashes his soup, hamburger, mashed potatoes and chocolate cake into one large comglomeration before wolfing it down while standing next to a garbage can.

"Don't call the police or get unduly excited when at the first sign of a thunderstorm he heads outdoors with soap and towel, naked except for shower shoes. Show tolerance when he sprays half a bottle of insect repellant on his bed before retiring.

"When outside the immediate circle of family or friends he is likely to show annoyance for small children and display his anger by screaming, "Dee! Dee!" (go away, in Vietnamese).

"If he feels that a salesman is overcharging him, he is likely to shout, 'Much wah!' (too expensive), and attempt to bargain by displaying a number of fingers.

Tolerate Sandbags

"Apply self-control when he piles thousands of sandbags on the front lawn and forms them in a hollow triangle in the back yard, or even insists on placing several of these on the floor and outside fenders of the family automobile."

Handled carefully, the 1st Cavalry bulletin assures its readers, that long-awaited Christmas present from Viet Nam will turn out to be all they ever hoped for and more.

"Remember," the military advisers conclude, "all these peculiarities will eventually disappear leaving the same lovable human being you once knew. Light the lamp, heat the hearth, hide the family car, lock the refrigerator, warn your neighbors: your man is on the way home from Viet Nam."

Big Blue Basin's Future Plans Outlined

Proposals Recommend Five Dams

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

York—A panel representing eight government agencies laid out the results of their studies concerning the Big Blue River basin here Wednesday.

Over 300 people with interests in the basin, which carries into part or all of 18 southeast Nebraska counties, listened receptively as the exposition unfolded over more than two hours.

5-Year Study

The agencies, coordinated by the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission, have conducted a concurrent investigation over the last four years in efforts to bring about a total, optimum plan of development, explained Warren Fairchild, executive secretary of the commission.

Although large structures usually get the most attention from the laity, Fairchild noted, the program "starts at the top of the hill and goes all the way down."

Some opposition has come particularly from the areas that would be affected by the proposed building of reservoirs, but little was voiced at the forum with most appearing receptive to the information that was presented.

A call by one man in the audience for a show of hands of those who are opposed to the proposals brought positive reaction from about 30.

Dam and reservoir structures have been proposed in a preliminary report by the Bureau of Reclamation for the North Branch of the Big Blue near Surprise, Lincoln Creek northwest of Seward, Turkey Creek in the Crete-Dorchester area and the largest on the West Branch of the Big Blue near Beaver Crossing. A separate study also proposes one on the Little Blue River near Angus.

Ken Kauffman of McCook, planning engineer for the Bureau, said that these sites had been recommended as "representative of the better sites that are available."

He said the evaluation study on 200,000 acres found that of 125,000 acres that could be irrigated, about 35,000 acres are now under irrigation and water is available, if development plans go through, to irrigate an additional 56,000 acres.

The panel of speakers pointed out the need for basin study and development for flood control, soil and water conservation, irrigation, recreation, wildlife and the other fringe benefits.

Cites Denver Disaster

Henry Klosterman of David City, chairman of the Big Blue River Watershed Planning Board, opened the meeting by warning, "The worst flood on the Blue probably has not happened yet," and pointed to Denver's disaster of the past summer.

"Almost all reclamation projects in the state have proven themselves or are doing so," he added.

Floods in the Blue basin, Fairchild told the group, cause about $2 million damage annually.

The need for land treatment to "soak up the water where it falls" was stressed by several panel members.

Other points made in the general session covered:

—The assurance that fish, wildlife and recreation developments would come in conjunction with storage structures.

—The usage of water, which is presently being used faster than it is being replaced by nature.

—The commendable job of treatment of city waste water entering the river, although better land treatment is needed.

The basin, concluded Fairchild, has "a predominance of very fine land," and irrigation could be a $33 million industry.

First CROP Carload Of Milo Sent Overseas Shipped From Carleton

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Carleton—Among all of India's million, there may not be a man who knows of this "Milo Center of Nebraska."

Yet famine-stricken families there will soon be sharing in Thayer County's harvest and the first CROP carload of milo ever sent overseas for human consumption. Carleton's choice for the historic first shipment was admittedly "not quite by coincidence."

"It's renowned as a milo center, but is also appropriate because of the concentration of interest here," explained field representative Richard Staple of Lincoln. He and Col. Ralph Reed head this state's efforts for the Christian Rural Overseas Program.

Most of it grown within sight of Carleton's grain elevator, the 1,875 bushels were given an official shove toward India by nearly a dozen participants in the Thayer County drive. The same day Fillmore neighbors Ohiowa, Shickley and Grafton consigned three other carloads—approximately $5,000 worth—to the Archer Daniels Midland Company of Kansas City.

Taking a conventional course, the Fillmore milo will be exchanged for a protein-rich soybean food destined for any of several hungry nations. The Carleton grain will be bagged in Houston, Tex., for eventual doling in family quantities.

'Somewhat Experimental'

"Shipping the kernel milo is somewhat experimental, but the people of India are familiar with the food," explained national representative Dale Ferris of Elkhart, Ind. "It will end up as flour made by hand from stone grinders as in Bible times."

To be followed by ceremonies in several other counties, the grain is a good start toward an anticipated $55,000 worth from this state CROP emphasizes the giving of actual grain, but does accept cash as well.

Thayer County Chairman Ellsworth Nippert noted that several farmers donated 50 bushels, valued currently at $1.66 a bushel. Most of the contributions were from the county's four northern precincts, but plans are already brewing for pushing out next year.

Backgrounded by Thayer's 105,000-pound carload, campaign treasurer Leo Lang of Carleton also presented the Rev. Mr. Staple with a $1,000 check. Other participants included Frank Bringewatter of Bruning, Lonnie Priefert of Belvidere, Myron Currey of Belvidere, the Rev. LaRoy Seaver of Hebron, and John Gerdes of Bruning.

Jury Acquits Lee Boden In Fatal Shooting

Plattsmouth (UPI) — A District Court jury Wednesday night acquitted Lee James Boden of Omaha in the Sept. 14 fatal shooting of a South Bend, Neb., man.

The panel of six men and six women reached a decision about 9:30 p.m., after beginning deliberations some five hours earlier.

The jury announced the verdict in the courtroom of Judge Walter Smith soon after 10 p.m.

Boden, 25, 744 Cole Creek Drive, was charged with second degree murder in the death of Samuel J. Long, 43, rural South Bend.

Cass County Sheriff Fred Tesch testified that Boden told him he shot Long after Long threatened to kill him. Boden said that Long then attacked him.

According to testimony, Long's 37-year-old wife, Delores, and Boden were employed at the Western Electric plant at Millard. They left the plant together in separate cars shortly after midnight that night and Boden was following Mrs. Long home.

Near South Bend, the testimony continued, Mrs. Long stopped and told Boden that it appeared someone was following them in a car. Then she continued home and the third car, carrying Long, caught up with Boden's and blocked the road.

The fight and shooting followed.

Winnebago Tribe Claim Is Due Soon

Washington (AP)—Winnebago Indian Tribal members in Nebraska and Wisconsin will share in an Indian Claims Commission award expected in the near future, aides of Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., were told.

Callan's office was advised that the commission has issued an order in a pending case involving claims by the Winnebago Tribe for compensation for lands in Wisconsin and Illinois ceded to the federal government under three treaties in the 1800s.

The order stated these estimated values for the three tracts at the time they were ceded—for 2,702,444 acres ceded under a Jan. 2, 1830 treaty, $2,025,000; for 2,101,455 acres, ceded under a Feb. 13, 1833 treaty, $1,575,000; for 2,981,303 acres, ceded under a June 15, 1838 treaty, $1,500,000.

Callan's aides said they were told by a commission official that a final decision was expected to be issued soon and that the award likely would be the amounts determined to be the values of the land at the time ceded less various offsets.

The Winnebago tribesmen now are located generally in Wisconsin and in Nebraska. Nebraska Tribal Headquarters is located in Thurston County where the Nebraska Winnebago Tribe was given land in 1860, Callan's aides said.

They were told by the commission official that since the treaties involved were entered into before 1860, the Nebraska tribe would share in the expected award.

Big Blue Basin's Future Plans Outlined

Proposals Recommend Five Dams

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

York—A panel representing eight government agencies laid out the results of their studies concerning the Big Blue River basin here Wednesday.

Over 300 people with interests in the basin, which carries into part or all of 18 southeast Nebraska counties, listened receptively as the exposition unfolded over more than two hours.

5-Year Study

The agencies, coordinated by the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission, have conducted a concurrent investigation over the last four years in efforts to bring about a total, optimum plan of development, explained Warren Fairchild, executive secretary of the commission.

Although large structures usually get the most attention from the laity, Fairchild noted, the program "starts at the top of the hill and goes all the way down."

Some opposition has come particularly from the areas that would be affected by the proposed building of reservoirs, but little was voiced at the forum with most appearing receptive to the information that was presented.

A call by one man in the audience for a show of hands of those who are opposed to the proposals brought positive reaction from about 30.

Dam and reservoir structures have been proposed in a preliminary report by the Bureau of Reclamation for the North Branch of the Big Blue near Surprise, Lincoln Creek northwest of Seward, Turkey Creek in the Crete-Dorchester area and the largest on the West Branch of the Big Blue near Beaver Crossing. A separate study also proposes one on the Little Blue River near Angus.

Ken Kauffman of McCook, planning engineer for the Bureau, said that these sites had been recommended as "representative of the better sites that are available."

He said the evaluation study on 200,000 acres found that of 125,000 acres that could be irrigated, about 35,000 acres are now under irrigation and water is available, if development plans go through, to irrigate an additional 56,000 acres.

The panel of speakers pointed out the need for basin study and development for flood control, soil and water conservation, irrigation, recreation, wildlife and the other fringe benefits.

Cites Denver Disaster

Henry Klosterman of David City, chairman of the Big Blue River Watershed Planning Board, opened the meeting by warning, "The worst flood on the Blue probably has not happened yet," and pointed to Denver's disaster of the past summer.

"Almost all reclamation projects in the state have proven themselves or are doing so," he added.

Floods in the Blue basin, Fairchild told the group, cause about $2 million damage annually.

The need for land treatment to "soak up the water where it falls" was stressed by several panel members.

Other points made in the general session covered:

—The assurance that fish, wildlife and recreation developments would come in conjunction with storage structures.

—The usage of water, which is presently being used faster than it is being replaced by nature.

—The commendable job of treatment of city waste water entering the river, although better land treatment is needed.

The basin, concluded Fairchild, has "a predominance of very fine land," and irrigation could be a $33 million industry.

First CROP Carload Of Milo Sent Overseas Shipped From Carleton

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Carleton—Among all of India's million, there may not be a man who knows of this "Milo Center of Nebraska."

Yet famine-stricken families there will soon be sharing in Thayer County's harvest and the first CROP carload of milo ever sent overseas for human consumption. Carleton's choice for the historic first shipment was admittedly "not quite by coincidence."

"It's renowned as a milo center, but is also appropriate because of the concentration of interest here," explained field representative Richard Staple of Lincoln. He and Col. Ralph Reed head this state's efforts for the Christian Rural Overseas Program.

Most of it grown within sight of Carleton's grain elevator, the 1,875 bushels were given an official shove toward India by nearly a dozen participants in the Thayer County drive. The same day Fillmore neighbors Ohiowa, Shickley and Grafton consigned three other carloads—approximately $5,000 worth—to the Archer Daniels Midland Company of Kansas City.

Taking a conventional course, the Fillmore milo will be exchanged for a protein-rich soybean food destined for any of several hungry nations. The Carleton grain will be bagged in Houston, Tex., for eventual doling in family quantities.

'Somewhat Experimental'

"Shipping the kernel milo is somewhat experimental, but the people of India are familiar with the food," explained national representative Dale Ferris of Elkhart, Ind. "It will end up as flour made by hand from stone grinders as in Bible times."

To be followed by ceremonies in several other counties, the grain is a good start toward an anticipated $55,000 worth from this state. CROP emphasizes the giving of actual grain, but does accept cash as well.

Thayer County Chairman Ellsworth Nippert noted that several farmers donated 50 bushels, valued currently at $1.66 a bushel. Most of the contributions were from the county's four northern precincts, but plans are already brewing for pushing out next year.

Backgrounded by Thayer's 105,000-pound carload, campaign treasurer Leo Lang of Carleton also presented the Rev. Mr. Staple with a $1,000 check. Other participants included Frank Bringewatter of Bruning, Lonnie Priefert of Belvidere, Myron Currey of Belvidere, the Rev. LaRoy Seaver of Hebron, and John Gerdes of Bruning.

Jury Acquits Lee Boden In Fatal Shooting

Plattsmouth (UPI) — A District Court jury Wednesday night acquitted Lee James Boden of Omaha in the Sept. 14 fatal shooting of a South Bend, Neb., man.

The panel of six men and six women reached a decision about 9:30 p.m., after beginning deliberations some five hours earlier.

The jury announced the verdict in the courtroom of Judge Walter Smith soon after 10 p.m.

Boden, 25, 744 Cole Creek Drive, was charged with second degree murder in the death of Samuel J. Long, 43, rural South Bend.

Cass County Sheriff Fred Tesch testified that Boden told him he shot Long after Long threatened to kill him. Boden said that Long then attacked him.

According to testimony, Long's 37-year-old wife, Delores, and Boden were employed at the Western Electric plant at Millard. They left the plant together in separate cars shortly after midnight that night and Boden was following Mrs. Long home.

Near South Bend, the testimony continued, Mrs. Long stopped and told Boden that it appeared someone was following them in a car. Then she continued home and the third car, carrying Long, caught up with Boden's and blocked the road.

The fight and shooting followed.

Must Be Something Better

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

One wonders if government spokesmen have their hearts in the defense they make of use of federal anti-poverty funds for support of a Harlem arts school that is said to play upon Negro nationalism and hatred of whites. Heading the school, part of a much broader anti-poverty program in the New York Negro section, is Negro playwright LeRoi Jones. Jones is a devotee of Negro superiority and violent conquest over the white race.

The aim of the school, said Jones, is to re-educate the nearly half a million Harlem Negroes to find a new pride in their color. Toward this end, Jones said he saw nothing wrong with hating white people. Some of the productions in his school have featured low moral standards among the white people and superior behavior on the part of Negroes. The aim to establish Negro pride in their race is one with which all people can and should agree. It is generally agreed that this is one thing that must be accomplished before the segregation and discrimination problem is to be truly eliminated.

Downgrading Whites

But to build pride in the way advanced by Jones is a method with which few could or should agree. Jones proposes Negro progress at the expense and suffering of someone else, namely the white man. Also, he substitutes for the moral and social evil of discrimination the equivalent evil of hate. Both are wrong and two wrongs still do not make a right.

If Jones merely proposed separation of the races on an equal basis, it would be a philosophy with at least no moral liabilities, even though its social consequences might be highly questionable. He could also believe in and propose Negro superiority in terms of their personal achievements.

It is, after all, just as possible for a Negro to succeed as a white, if both are given the same opportunity. Many Negroes, in fact, already have achieved much more in life than some white people. Certainly, the Negro is and ought to feel the equal of the white man. But to argue some inherent superiority on the part of the Negro is to give credence to one of the basic principles that have been the cause of Negro difficulties in the past. It is because some white men believed in an inherent superiority of their race that the Negro was sold into and kept in slavery for so long. When slavery was abandoned, the feelings of white supremacy were not extinguished and social, economic and political injustices against the Negro were continued.

Jones cannot take the position he does today without supporting the roots of discrimination as established through the process of slavery and human injustices, that followed. In other words, Jones would have to say that the white man has been correct in his treatment of the Negro for the past 150 years and the Negro should now do the same thing to the white man. This, of course, is an obvious contradiction since Jones would have no case if he had no issue or disagreement with the past Negro history. Jones is a proponent of the kind of violence that can only hurt the Negro cause and give aid and comfort to the few militant whites who also think violence is the answer to integration.

As to hatred, it goes well with the rest of Jones' philosophy but also does equal harm to the cause of Negro freedom and equality. It is inconceivable to any thoughtful person that pride should be built on hatred. This is a destructive rather than constructive approach and tears down more than it builds up.

It is doubtful that the person with hatred really can ever find true pride in himself. What he does with hatred is lower someone else but he does nothing to raise himself. With hatred, the individual becomes no better himself and, in fact, loses ground in the advancement of his own personal well-being.

Nor is hatred an easy or pleasant thing with which to live. Hate is an upsetting thing that destroys one's peace of mind. It does nothing to contribute to the kind of satisfaction gained through a personal performance in keeping with one's ability. If Jones is really interested in developing pride in Negroes in their race, which is doubtful, he has chosen a very poor means of doing so. He will never get the job done but will only bring along a generation of young Negro people who find it impossible to get along in the world, not because of their color, but because they have social concepts foreign to the society in which they live.

Destructive Force

For the government to condone Jones and his school as better than violence in the streets is merely to substitute one wrong for another. We fail to see how this is progress and if that is any example of the best in the anti-poverty program, we are sadly disillusioned with that part of the Great Society.

DeGaulle Pro-French Not Anti-American

Editor's Note: On the eve of the French elections, Drew Pearson draws on his recent trip to France to diagnose President De Gaulle.

WASHINGTON — In Paris this fall I had occasion to talk to many Frenchmen about Charles de Gaulle, now running for re-election; also about relations between those two ancient allies, France and the United States.

De Gaulle, I was assured, is not anti-American. He is simply pro-French. He has given France its most unparalleled period of prosperity, a period in which French factory workers, who used to eye with envy the cars owned by American factory workers, now have their own. The cars are a little smaller than American autos, but they have them.

Furthermore, L'Humanite, the communist newspaper, carries a more detailed description than any Paris newspaper of new cars, their virtues and defects. Aware that French communists own their own cars, L'Humanite strives for circulation.

De Gaulle's friends say that he has achieved prosperity partly by ending civil war in Algeria, partly by operating a socialist state.

In 1945 De Gaulle nationalized the bigger French insurance companies, something which would have brought cries of "communism" in the United States. He also nationalized the major bank. In both respects he has gone further than the British labor party.

De Gaulle also follows the same American system of subsidizing farmers, which some people call socialism. The annual subsidy to French farmers is $700,000,000, as against around $4 billion of farm subsidies in the United States.

And this is one reason for friction between the United States and De Gaulle. He objects vigorously to the importation of American farm products by Common Market nations. He wants other Common Market nations to reserve the European market for higher-priced, subsidized French and German wheat. After all, 18 per cent of the French population is on the farm as compared with only 8 per cent in the United States. And French Farmers vote. American farmers don't vote in France.

Le Grand Charley (Big Charley), as the Parisien taxi-drivers call him, has a memory like an elephant's. He remembers a lot of things that happened during the war when he was in exile in London, head of the Free French.

He remembers especially that slurring speech of Secretary of State Cordell Hull regarding the "so-called" Free French, and the fact that the man who wrote the speech was Sam Reber, intimate friend of Charles Bohlen, now U.S. ambassador in Paris. This has not helped relations with the United States.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: Cancer seems to attack nearly every part of the body except the heart. Is this true?—B.D.

The heart is not entirely immune to cancer, although it is relatively rare. Both malignant and benign tumors of the heart can occur.

The heart is composed of highly specialized tissue, largely muscle, which is not strongly subject to cancer.

In addition, because of the heart's situation in regard to lymph drainage, it is relatively free of cancer spreading to it from some other site.

Dear Dr. Molner: My baby is six months old, weighs 20 pounds, and has bowed legs. He has been exceptionally strong since birth and loves to "stand" and "walk" with our help. He has done so for three months now.

We were told that supporting his own weight would not cause bowed legs, that all babies have bowed legs until they walk, so we let him continue to exercise. Now I am in doubt. We have taken pains to see that he has the proper food and vitamins.—J.M.

You have been given correct information. Keep on tending to his nutrition. The apparent bowing will disappear. (The same is true of "knock knees" and "flat feet" in very young babies.) It takes time for the bones to harden and strengthen. As long as babies get the right food, moderate exercise will help, not harm the bones.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, aged 12, is going to start an insect collection and will use formaldehyde to preserve the specimens. Would spilling formaldehyde on the skin or the fumes from it be harmful? What precautions should be observed?—MRS. E.W.

Formaldehyde is an ancient preservative, used for centuries. In a water solution, it is a powerful antiseptic. In too strong a concentration, it is poisonous. The fumes of formaldehyde (since, in its pure state, it is a gas) are irritating to the nose and eyes. If there's enough to cause irritation, you automatically avoid it. Or if some is spilled on the skin, it will be irritating unless washed off immediately.

Therefore the rules of safety are these: Use it in a room that has good ventilation. Have a bowl of water (or a nearby bathroom) to wash the skin if any of the formaldehyde is spilled.

Obviously, don't get any of it in the mouth or swallow it.

Dear Dr. Molner: Six years ago I had surgery for breast cancer and am thankful for good health since then. For the last 18 months, however, I have been bothered by swelling in my arm. The doctor says that elevating the arm is the answer, but with a job and a family to care for, there is little time for that except when I am asleep and that is difficult. I am not complaining but have you any suggestions? —MRS. W. W.

Usually such swelling occurs sooner, if at all. Scar tissue and interference with the flow of lymph in the armpit causes the trouble.

Yes, elevation of the arm is important, but good results also come from physiotherapy (baths, massage, etc.) and use of a long elastic sleeve.

If there is a rehabilitation center nearby, it would be worthwhile for you to seek treatment there. If not, discuss the other suggestions with your doctor and point out to him your difficulty in keeping the arm elevated.

Dear Dr. Molner: I want to thank you so much for an article about five years ago. My son, then nine, had Legg-Perthes disease. After two years of wearing a brace on one leg, he is now okay and taking sports in school — track, wrestling and baseball. Your article was so helpful to me in going through those years.—MRS. M.P.

Your letter will encourage parents of other youngsters with this bone condition. It takes time, but if weight and strain are kept off the affected region, new bone grows and the child recovers.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had a successful operation for detached retina, but later I developed deterioration of the retina. My doctor tells me there is no treatment for this. My family would like me to see another doctor, but I feel I can take my own doctor's word for it. I would appreciate your opinion.—MRS. J.S.

I have no reason to doubt your doctor's diagnosis, either, but if the opinion of another specialist will make your family feel better, tell your doctor that you (or they) want a second opinion.

A conscientious doctor doesn't resent calling in a consultant. He welcomes it. Sometimes another specialist may detect something else that may help.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a seven-year-old. At birth he weighed 11 pounds 11 ounces and now he is 4 feet 10 and weighs 150. He had a thyroid test taken recently which was normal, but since there is diabetes on both sides of the family I am concerned about his excessive weight. Can you help me?—MRS. A.K.

You are wise in keeping tab. His birthweight, his weight now, and the presence of diabetes in both families make the lad a prime target for the disease.

He should also have a sugar tolerance test (a series of blood tests, showing how the sugar level behaves over a period of two or three hours), which will give a much more illuminating idea of his condition and prospects.

Then a program of weight reduction should be started.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner answers readers' questions in his column whenever possible.

A Fortune In Cobs

Don't let the cynic tell you that all new merchantable ideas now come from laboratories and scientists. There is still lots of opportunity and room for the individual with a resourceful mind and the time to use it.

We have learned of an Iowa man who has built quite an industry grinding corncobs. For years the cob was about the most useless row crop remnant. In the earlier days there was some use for them in the kitchen stove. But it took a pretty active person to keep the fire going.

But now the cob has shown up as a wanted item in any number of ways. Ground up in small chunks they help tone the farmer's soil. Grind them up a little finer and they make good roughage for stock feed.

Then along comes this Iowa man with ingenuity enough to multiply the cob's use. He grinds them both coarse and fine. In little bits they make an excellent floor covering in chicken houses. Ground fine they make a good carrier for pesticides. Ground into a flour like powder and dehydrated (and this will surprise you) they contribute to some of the finest face powders.

They also substitute for molding sand in metal foundries. They are also valuable as a polishing agent for the metal coating industry.

The only trouble right now is that they are harder to get. Modern farm machinery scatters the cobs around the harvest field while delivering shelled corn to the farmer. But the Iowa manufacturer gets around that by giving free service to clean up the fields.

He asserts that his company has only scratched the surface in developing all of the cob's commercial worthiness.

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing in publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. An Appeal

Beatrice, Neb.

Each year at this season, the Beatrice State Home Association for Retarded Children makes an appeal for toys, gifts and money for gifts for patients at the State Home. There are more than 2,000 residents at the home, and about one-third do not have families to visit them or send gifts.

In the past, the generosity of church groups, service clubs and individuals has done much to make Christmas a pleasant one at the home. We hope this year many more will contribute to this project. Gifts may be sent directly to Beatrice State Home, Beatrice, Nebraska.

War And Taxes

Lincoln, Neb.

Those persons in administrative posts seem to think their word is the only law instead of the people they are supposed to be representing. There should be a referendum on big issues like war and taxes and it should be referred to the people! If this were the case, there would be no war since it is only the leaders of our nation and the military brass who want to keep it going for strictly personal benefits. The voters don't want it as expressed on the street, in groups and everywhere. The press is so controlled that it is allowed to show only the beatniks marching for peace and puts the large number of marchers in small print in the middle of the article.

But, what is the purpose of sending our boys into a filthy, disease-ridden swamp and jungle where the people have been fighting for three decades and will sell their souls for a bag of rice? If the boys are lucky, they will have dysentery only twice a week, malaria not too badly and jungle rot leaving them with not too many scars—just eating away at their boots and clothing and of course the ones who are captured won't have it this good. The rats who are as big as cats will bite them occasionally and maybe they will die.

And then there is the military incompetence of which we are pointing an accusing finger at France but which is happening to our boys in ambush slaughter and bombings of our own installations. Actually it gives the experimenters a chance to try out all their new inventions in actual combat. We are pouring millions into the U.N. whose function is to mediate, protect and negotiate peace and who is it that is breaking the rules and trying to play big shot—the United States.

Now, about taxes! If our state government would stop sending the governor's wife and her friends and the governor and his friends on ridiculous missions labeled "business" when it is only a pleasure trip on the taxpayers' money and time, and if there were a little less manipulating of the tax money already in the coffers, we wouldn't need all the extra high tax levies such as income tax, which will go higher all the time; gas tax, and we'll never get the roads finished; and property tax, of which the additional funds will just go into someone's pocket.

On Evolution

Lincoln, Neb.

I have been teased for weeks by The Star editorial on evolution.

Every year since Darwin declared this great principle a century ago, it has extended itself to cover more and more in the realm that explains the physical and moral universe. It is not too much to say that the law of evolution does more to make the universe tolerable and logical than any other idea ever proposed by human thought. And yet our prejudice against the idea has been so strong that we have been telling our young people that it was a mere hypothesis, a theory.

Nonsense. It's a great law that men and stars and social institutions alike move through evolving cycles. Men who fly over the earth at twice the speed of sound are aggregations of cells that came out of the briny sea a billion years ago. The stars that shine in the depths of space are classed as the giant young red stars or the small violent white stars moving toward their end as exploding nuclear bombs.

As the editorial stated, it is all change but we should add change that is getting somewhere, change with a purpose. It is the name of a veritable passion in the universe for growth and development into more complex and higher things. If our religious thinkers had had a little imagination, faith, call it what you will, they would have said that the evolutionary habiliments of the universe were the very visible and palpable means by which the grand design was being accomplished.

Headway On Antibodies

Foremost research men, working in the field of antibodies, have finally raised their heads to announce they are on the verge of the great discoveries which will reveal what they are, what each does, and how to synthesize them.

This should be the most hopeful news of the day, for we all have antibodies which most often protect us and sometimes assault us.

Antibodies are believed to be the key to successful implanation of organs. If they are hostile to the new tissue they won't let it join up. The trick is to find ways of changing their minds. This is not impossible but it will be hard to do, because antibodies are not sociable. They will do battle with any foreign thing at the drop of the hat. Name an infectious disease and they rush to the battle line to win or else. Sometimes they get quarrelsome with one another and this misbehaviour gives one distressing symptoms which we miscall diseases. Examples are allergies, rheumatic fever and even possibly arthritis.

They are disputacious enough that we should know much more about them and now that research is closing in on them we have reason to be much more hopeful.

There is only one trouble in the manufacture of synthetic antibodies. There are so many different kinds—probably a million. And even then there will be the difficult task of selecting the right antibody for the right infection.

The symptoms of the common cold are produced by a variety of viruses. We would have to know exactly which one was the offender if we were to send the right antibody after it.

Prisoners Are Freed

Viet Cong release of two American prisoners of the Viet Nam war has suddenly become quite easy to understand. The release came with the Red announcement that the action was in demonstration of support for anti-war sentiments being expressed in the U.S.

It was more than this, however. The two soldiers released have now held a press conference in which they advocated that the U.S. withdraw from Viet Nam. Thus, the Reds did nothing humanitarian but only furthered their own propaganda objectives.

An explanation of the behavior of these soldiers is not so important as other circumstances of their release. The action by the Viet Cong does show the confidence of the communists in the anti-war opinion that has been so strongly voiced recently.

Obviously, the Viet Cong are placing more faith and confidence in this minority public point of view on the part of the U.S. than is justified. The Red Chinese simply fail to comprehend the difference or distinctions that exist in a free nation.

They do not understand that such a minority view can be loudly proclaimed and still represent such a small segment of our people. They consider it a sign of American weakness when it is a mark of our strength, an example of the freedom enjoyed by all people of this country.

Unfortunately, the release of the prisoners strengthens the view that anti-war demonstrations in this country hurt our national efforts in Viet Nam. Such demonstrations obviously are giving the communists a mistaken and dangerous attitude as to the determination of the U.S. to resist aggression when and where it is found. Our discussion of Viet Nam policy is quite another thing from our commitment to carrying it out.

Song About Rudolph Made Writer A Merry Christmas

NEW YORK — I just received a letter which begins:

"Dear Friend of Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer—"

For openers, this may be a bit presumptuous. In theory, Rudolph is a fine beast but in practice, there are those of us who prefer Blitzen. A record about the shiny-nosed one already has assaulted the family eardrums a few dozen times. Admittedly, he is a notch above "I Caught Mommy Kissing Santa Claus," but to call him a friend? I'd rather not.

The unusual aspect of this scarlet-sniffered denizen of Tin Pan Alley is that he was placed into history by a gentleman who possesses a Phi Beta Kappa key. Johnny Marks, creator of "Rudolph," could be mistaken in strong light for a successful bank president — but he is far more financially successful than that.

And all because he made Rudolph his life's work.

Marks struggled along for 40 years before the day in 1949 when, while strolling a New York street, he suddenly conceived the first bars about a deer with a titian schnozz.

"I knew immediately," he told me, "that here it was. My life would be entirely changed. I could give up playing the piano in joints. I was going to be one of the very few people in this business with security."

He rushed home on the wings of self-security — his home was in Greenwich Village — and wrote "Rudolph." Then he set up his own music publishing business, because he knew his song was going to be a great hit, and he wanted to own it.

That was 16 years ago. Since then his song has been recorded by hundreds of artists, published in more than 100 different arrangements, translated into countless languages and lingos, and made Johnny Marks a very wealthy man.

Even Marks, however, could understand the point of view of an adult who writes at hearing it 200 times in one short holiday season.

"I'm awful sick of hearing it," he conceded, "especially in those rock and roll versions that are such a horror. But I've got to be honest — no false modesty now — it's a great song."

Well, anyway, it's made Marks' reputation great in the song business. Several years ago, for example, he wrote a pop tune to go with Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's "I Heard The Bells on Christmas Day."

A record company executive, after hearing the song, called to ask seriously, "Who is this guy Longfellow who did the lyrics?"

Johnny told him. The exec was undaunted. "Drop Longfellow," he suggested. "Your stuff is better."

Johnny Marks had an illustrious intellectual career at Colgate and Columbia Universities, then traveled to Paris for awhile—"why didn't I think of "I Love Paris"?—and returned to New York, where he played piano in night clubs while hoping to invent a hit.

Then came Rudolph and success.

Must Be Something Better

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

One wonders if government spokesmen have their hearts in the defense they make of use of federal anti-poverty funds for support of a Harlem arts school that is said to play upon Negro nationalism and hatred of whites. Heading the school, part of a much broader anti-poverty program in the New York Negro section, is Negro playwright LeRoi Jones. Jones is a devotee of Negro superiority and violent conquest over the white race.

The aim of the school, said Jones, is to re-educate the nearly half a million Harlem Negroes to find a new pride in their color. Toward this end, Jones said he saw nothing wrong with hating white people. Some of the productions in his school have featured low moral standards among the white people and superior behavior on the part of Negroes. The aim to establish Negro pride in their race is one with which all people can and should agree. It is generally agreed that this is one thing that must be accomplished before the segregation and discrimination problem is to be truly eliminated.

Downgrading Whites

But to build pride in the way advanced by Jones is a method with which few could or should agree. Jones proposes Negro progress at the expense and suffering of someone else, namely the white man. Also, he substitutes for the moral and social evil of discrimination the equivalent evil of hate. Both are wrong and two wrongs still do not make a right.

If Jones merely proposed separation of the races on an equal basis, it would be a philosophy with at least no moral liabilities, even though its social consequences might be highly questionable. He could also believe in and propose Negro superiority in terms of their personal achievements.

It is, after all, just as possible for a Negro to succeed as a white, if both are given the same opportunity. Many Negroes, in fact, already have achieved much more in life than some white people. Certainly, the Negro is and ought to feel the equal of the white man. But to argue some inherent superiority on the part of the Negro is to give credence to one of the basic principles that have been the cause of Negro difficulties in the past. It is because some white men believed in an inherent superiority of their race that the Negro was sold into and kept in slavery for so long. When slavery was abandoned, the feelings of white supremacy were not extinguished and social, economic and political injustices against the Negro were continued.

Jones cannot take the position he does today without supporting the roots of discrimination as established through the process of slavery and human injustices, that followed. In other words, Jones would have to say that the white man has been correct in his treatment of the Negro for the past 150 years and the Negro should now do the same thing to the white man. This, of course, is an obvious contradiction since Jones would have no case if he had no issue or disagreement with the past Negro history. Jones is a proponent of the kind of violence that can only hurt the Negro cause and give aid and comfort to the few militant whites who also think violence is the answer to integration.

As to hatred, it goes well with the rest of Jones' philosophy but also does equal harm to the cause of Negro freedom and equality. It is inconceivable to any thoughtful person that pride should be built on hatred. This is a destructive rather than constructive approach and tears down more than it builds up.

It is doubtful that the person with hatred really can ever find true pride in himself. What he does with hatred is lower someone else but he does nothing to raise himself. With hatred, the individual becomes no better himself and, in fact, loses ground in the advancement of his own personal well-being.

Nor is hatred an easy or pleasant thing with which to live. Hate is an upsetting thing that destroys one's peace of mind. DeGaulle Pro-French Not Anti-American

Editor's Note: On the eve of the French elections, Drew Pearson draws on his recent trip to France to diagnose President De Gaulle.

WASHINGTON — In Paris this fall I had occasion to talk to many Frenchmen about Charles de Gaulle, now running for re-election; also about relations between those two ancient allies, France and the United States.

De Gaulle, I was assured, is not anti-American. He is simply pro-French. He has given France its most unparalleled period of prosperity, a period in which French factory workers, who used to eye with envy the cars owned by American factory workers, now have their own. The cars are a little smaller than American autos, but they have them.

Furthermore, L'Humanite, the communist newspaper, carries a more detailed description than any Paris newspaper of new cars, their virtues and defects. Aware that French communists own their own cars, L'Humanite strives for circulation.

De Gaulle's friends say that he has achieved prosperity partly by ending civil war in Algeria, partly by operating a socialist state.

In 1945 De Gaulle nationalized the bigger French insurance companies, something which would have brought cries of "communism" in the United States. He also nationalized the major bank. In both respects he has gone further than the British labor party.

De Gaulle also follows the same American system of subsidizing farmers, which some people call socialism. The annual subsidy to French farmers is $700,000,000, as against around $4 billion of farm subsidies in the United States.

And this is one reason for friction between the United States and De Gaulle. He objects vigorously to the importation of American farm products by Common Market nations. He wants other Common Market nations to reserve the European market for higher-priced, subsidized French and German wheat. After all, 18 per cent of the French population is on the farm as compared with only 8 per cent in the United States. And French Farmers vote. American farmers don't vote in France.

Le Grand Charley (Big Charley), as the Parisien taxi-drivers call him, has a memory like an elephant's. He remembers a lot of things that happened during the war when he was in exile in London, head of the Free French.

He remembers especially that slurring speech of Secretary of State Cordell Hull regarding the "so-called" Free French, and the fact that the man who wrote the speech was Sam Reber, intimate friend of Charles Bohlen, now U.S. ambassador in Paris. This has not helped relations with the United States.

A Fortune In Cobs

Don't let the cynic tell you that all new merchantable ideas now come from laboratories and scientists. There is still lots of opportunity and room for the individual with a resourceful mind and the time to use it.

We have learned of an Iowa man who has built quite an industry grinding corncobs. For years the cob was about the most useless row crop remnant. In the earlier days there was some use for them in the kitchen stove. But it took a pretty active person to keep the fire going.

But now the cob has shown up as a wanted item in any number of ways. Ground up in small chunks they help tone the farmer's soil. Grind them up a little finer and they make good roughage for stock feed.

Then along comes this Iowa man with ingenuity enough to multiply the cob's use. He grinds them both coarse and fine. In little bits they make an excellent floor covering in chicken houses. Ground fine they make a good carrier for pesticides. Ground into a flour like powder and dehydrated (and this will surprise you) they contribute to some of the finest face powders.

They also substitute for molding sand in metal foundries. They are also valuable as a polishing agent for the metal coating industry.

The only trouble right now is that they are harder to get. Modern farm machinery scatters the cobs around the harvest field while delivering shelled corn to the farmer. But the Iowa manufacturer gets around that by giving free service to clean up the fields.

He asserts that his company has only scratched the surface in developing all of the cob's commercial worthiness.

Headway On Antibodies

Foremost research men, working in the field of antibodies, have finally raised their heads to announce they are on the verge of the great discoveries which will reveal what they are, what each does, and how to synthesize them.

This should be the most hopeful news of the day, for we all have antibodies which most often protect us and sometimes assault us.

Antibodies are believed to be the key to successful implanation of organs. If they are hostile to the new tissue they won't let it join up. The trick is to find ways of changing their minds. This is not impossible but it will be hard to do, because antibodies are not sociable. They will do battle with any foreign thing at the drop of the hat. Name an infectious disease and they rush to the battle line to win or else. Sometimes they get quarrelsome with one another and this misbehaviour gives one distressing symptoms which we miscall diseases. Examples are allergies, rheumatic fever and even possibly arthritis.

They are disputacious enough that we should know much more about them and now that research is closing in on them we have reason to be much more hopeful.

There is only one trouble in the manufacture of synthetic antibodies. There are so many different kinds—probably a million. And even then there will be the difficult task of selecting the right antibody for the right infection.

The symptoms of the common cold are produced by a variety of viruses. We would have to know exactly which one was the offender if we were to send the right antibody after it.

Prisoners Are Freed

Viet Cong release of two American prisoners of the Viet Nam war has suddenly become quite easy to understand. The release came with the Red announcement that the action was in demonstration of support for anti-war sentiments being expressed in the U.S.

It was more than this, however. The two soldiers released have now held a press conference in which they advocated that the U.S. withdraw from Viet Nam. Thus, the Reds did nothing humanitarian but only furthered their own propaganda objectives.

An explanation of the behavior of these soldiers is not so important as other circumstances of their release. The action by the Viet Cong does show the confidence of the communists in the anti-war opinion that has been so strongly voiced recently.

Obviously, the Viet Cong are placing more faith and confidence in this minority public point of view on the part of the U.S. than is justified. The Red Chinese simply fail to comprehend the difference or distinctions that exist in a free nation.

They do not understand that such a minority view can be loudly proclaimed and still represent such a small segment of our people. They consider it a sign of American weakness when it is a mark of our strength, an example of the freedom enjoyed by all people of this country.

Unfortunately, the release of the prisoners strengthens the view that anti-war demonstrations in this country hurt our national efforts in Viet Nam. Such demonstrations obviously are giving the communists a mistaken and dangerous attitude as to the determination of the U.S. to resist aggression when and where it is found. Our discussion of Viet Nam policy is quite another thing from our commitment to carrying it out.

Song About Rudolph Made Writer A Merry Christmas

NEW YORK — I just received a letter which begins:

"Dear Friend of Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer—"

For openers, this may be a bit presumptuous. In theory, Rudolph is a fine beast but in practice, there are those of us who prefer Blitzen. A record about the shiny-nosed one already has assaulted the family eardrums a few dozen times. Admittedly, he is a notch above "I Caught Mommy Kissing Santa Claus," but to call him a friend? I'd rather not.

The unusual aspect of this scarlet-sniffered denizen of Tin Pan Alley is that he was placed into history by a gentleman who possesses a Phi Beta Kappa key. Johnny Marks, creator of "Rudolph," could be mistaken in strong light for a successful bank president — but he is far more financially successful than that.

And all because he made Rudolph his life's work.

Marks struggled along for 40 years before the day in 1949 when, while strolling a New York street, he suddenly conceived the first bars about a deer with a titian schnozz.

"I knew immediately," he told me, "that here it was. My life would be entirely changed. I could give up playing the piano in joints. I was going to be one of the very few people in this business with security."

He rushed home on the wings of self-security — his home was in Greenwich Village — and wrote "Rudolph." Then he set up his own music publishing business, because he knew his song was going to be a great hit, and he wanted to own it.

That was 16 years ago. Since then his song has been recorded by hundreds of artists, published in more than 100 different arrangements, translated into countless languages and lingos, and made Johnny Marks a very wealthy man.

Even Marks, however, could understand the point of view of an adult who writes at hearing it 200 times in one short holiday season.

"I'm awful sick of hearing it," he conceded, "especially in those rock and roll versions that are such a horror. But I've got to be honest — no false modesty now — it's a great song."

Well, anyway, it's made Marks' reputation great in the song business. Several years ago, for example, he wrote a pop tune to go with Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's "I Heard The Bells on Christmas Day."

A record company executive, after hearing the song, called to ask seriously, "Who is this guy Longfellow who did the lyrics?"

Johnny told him. The exec was undaunted. "Drop Longfellow," he suggested. "Your stuff is better."

Johnny Marks had an illustrious intellectual career at Colgate and Columbia Universities, then traveled to Paris for awhile—"why didn't I think of "I Love Paris"?—and returned to New York, where he played piano in night clubs while hoping to invent a hit.

Then came Rudolph and success.

An Appeal

Beatrice, Neb.

Each year at this season, the Beatrice State Home Association for Retarded Children makes an appeal for toys, gifts and money for gifts for patients at the State Home. There are more than 2,000 residents at the home, and about one-third do not have families to visit them or send gifts.

In the past, the generosity of church groups, service clubs and individuals has done much to make Christmas a pleasant one at the home. We hope this year many more will contribute to this project. Gifts may be sent directly to Beatrice State Home, Beatrice, Nebraska.

War And Taxes

Lincoln, Neb.

Those persons in administrative posts seem to think their word is the only law instead of the people they are supposed to be representing. There should be a referendum on big issues like war and taxes and it should be referred to the people! If this were the case, there would be no war since it is only the leaders of our nation and the military brass who want to keep it going for strictly personal benefits. The voters don't want it as expressed on the street, in groups and everywhere. The press is so controlled that it is allowed to show only the beatniks marching for peace and puts the large number of marchers in small print in the middle of the article.

But, what is the purpose of sending our boys into a filthy, disease-ridden swamp and jungle where the people have been fighting for three decades and will sell their souls for a bag of rice? If the boys are lucky, they will have dysentery only twice a week, malaria not too badly and jungle rot leaving them with not too many scars—just eating away at their boots and clothing and of course the ones who are captured won't have it this good. The rats who are as big as cats will bite them occasionally and maybe they will die.

And then there is the military incompetence of which we are pointing an accusing finger at France but which is happening to our boys in ambush slaughter and bombings of our own installations. Actually it gives the experimenters a chance to try out all their new inventions in actual combat. We are pouring millions into the U.N. whose function is to mediate, protect and negotiate peace and who is it that is breaking the rules and trying to play big shot—the United States.

Now, about taxes! If our state government would stop sending the governor's wife and her friends and the governor and his friends on ridiculous missions labeled "business" when it is only a pleasure trip on the taxpayers' money and time, and if there were a little less manipulating of the tax money already in the coffers, we wouldn't need all the extra high tax levies such as income tax, which will go higher all the time; gas tax, and we'll never get the roads finished; and property tax, of which the additional funds will just go into someone's pocket.

On Evolution

Lincoln, Neb.

I have been teased for weeks by The Star editorial on evolution.

Every year since Darwin declared this great principle a century ago, it has extended itself to cover more and more in the realm that explains the physical and moral universe. It is not too much to say that the law of evolution does more to make the universe tolerable and logical than any other idea ever proposed by human thought. And yet our prejudice against the idea has been so strong that we have been telling our young people that it was a mere hypothesis, a theory.

Nonsense. It's a great law that men and stars and social institutions alike move through evolving cycles. Men who fly over the earth at twice the speed of sound are aggregations of cells that came out of the briny sea a billion years ago. The stars that shine in the depths of space are classed as the giant young red stars or the small violent white stars moving toward their end as exploding nuclear bombs.

As the editorial stated, it is all change but we should add change that is getting somewhere, change with a purpose. It is the name of a veritable passion in the universe for growth and development into more complex and higher things. If our religious thinkers had had a little imagination, faith, call it what you will, they would have said that the evolutionary habiliments of the universe were the very visible and palpable means by which the grand design was being accomplished.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Grandmother Launches Nursery For Preschoolers

By ROBERT PETERSON

While driving down a residential street in Phoenix, Ariz. recently I saw a neat, well-painted dwelling with a sign saying, "Grandmother's House." There was a high fence decorated with Mother Goose characters, and a playground sporting swings, slides and sand boxes.

It appeared to be an ingenious nursery venture, so I stopped and met Mrs. Viola Miller, an authentic grandmother who said she launched the operation not only as a means of supplementing family income but to pamper maternal instincts

"I've always loved children," said this cheerful, brown-eyed woman in her 50's, "and felt crushed when ours grew up and left home. My husband who's a truck driver suggested that I might enjoy working so I took a job as a bookkeeper for awhile. But I never really enjoyed it. The work was so impersonal and I found myself wishing I could turn back the clock and be at home with my babies again.

"I did some babysitting occasionally, and one day a young mother who worked asked why I didn't start a nursery. It was the first time I'd thought of it. This house was available near our home. So I quit my job, leased the place, and started this nursery caring for preschool children.

"We're open from 7 in the morning until 6 at night. Most of the mothers who use us have jobs. They leave their tots here when they go to work and pick them up on the way home. It wasn't long after starting that I needed more room — as I couldn't care for more than 20 children in this house. So I rented another house just three doors away to take care of the overflow."

What about rates? "I charge $2.50 a day for the older children, and $2.75 for those in diapers. Or it's 50c an hour if parents want to leave a child for a short stay while they're shopping or visiting."

Is it hard to get help? "No, there are lots of wonderful grandmothers within walking distance who are glad to help out. We try to have one grandmother on duty for each eight to 10 children."

Is it difficult keeping the children occupied? "No, they entertain themselves and make their own pleasures from the simplest things. They have all the materials here they would have in kindergarten. Small children are so eager to learn and show such quick response to interest and affection. My chief problem is that I hate to see them reach school age and leave me. But then there are always new ones coming along to take their place.

"Running this nursery has certainly been the solution to my middle-aged boredom. There's not a lot of money in it, but there's enough to compensate me for my time. More important, I feel I'm offering a useful service to working mothers of small children, and I'm doing the kind of work I enjoy most."

Here's an idea for active grandmothers everywhere. If you yearn for the innocent prattle and chatter of small youngsters, consider starting a private nursery. It may add more fun and purpose to your routine than anything you've experienced since you were a young mother yourself.

Herrington May Visit Capital

. . . TO LEARN GROUND RULES OF DEACTIVATION

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Opportunity Team (LOT) members Wednesday voiced interest in sending their new consultant, Fred A. Herrington, to Washington, D.C., to learn the ground rules of his position and get acquainted with Department of Defense officials dealing with the deactivation of the Lincoln Air Force Base.

Herrington, as an employe of the Defense Department representing city interests in the base phase-out, would inform the federal government about the city's position concerning deactivation and future use matters as the department makes its decisions about the base.

Herrington's trip would not come until after the week of Dec. 13, according to Mayor Dean Petersen, since Col. George Kelly and a supply officer of the Department of Defense will be in Lincoln at that time to discuss the base.

It was reported that the two federal officials are coming to discuss the save lists of property requested by local agencies planning to use the base after deactivation.

In Case

State Education Commissioner Dr. Floyd Miller and LOT education committee chairman Art Danielson attended the meeting Wednesday to discuss future educational uses of the base in case a Job Corps is not approved for the site or after a few years to work with or replace the Job Corps.

The Mayor's Advisory Committee agreed that Cecil Stanley of the Education Department and LOT education committee members should consider technical education for the facility and kinds of federal aid available to finance programs.

Miller offered his Education Department's services to help develop educational programs at the base, commenting on previous experience the department had with the Sioux Ordinance Depot acquisition for a vocational education facility.

Herrington presented a suggested method for using LOT committees once acquisition of the base and planning is under way.

The committees primarily will be fielding ideas, suggestions and recommendations for the advisory committee and considering problems assigned to the committees, including research, study and reports.

Other meeting highlights included:

—Staff authorization. The Mayor's Advisory Committee approved staff help for Herrington in his First National Bank Building office.

—Housing. LOT's committee on housing will meet with base officials and Job Corps promoters to discuss plans for using base housing. It has been suggested that at least part of the housing could be used for families of military men serving overseas.

—Job Corps. Vice Chancellor G. Robert Ross of the University of Nebraska reported that Job Corps staff will fully review the University of Nebraska and Northern Natural Gas proposal Thursday morning. It previously had been announced that a decision on placing a Job Corps site at Lincoln would be forthcoming in the next week.

—Advertising. Mayor's Advisory Committee members discussed the desirability of nationally advertising facilities available at the base which could be used by industrial or educational groups.

Job Corps Plan To Be Reviewed

The director of the proposed urban Job Corps center for men at the Lincoln Air Force Base said Wednesday that he expects to participate in a program conference with Job Corps officials in Washington before Christmas.

"We are awaiting a call from Washington to go back and review our program with them," J. O. Grantham of Omaha said.

Grantham is manager of long-range manpower planning for Northern Natural Gas Co., and would serve as director of the Job Corps center.

Northern officials involved in planning for the center will continue to "polish up" the program while awaiting word from Washington, he said.

The center was proposed jointly by Northern and by the University of Nebraska.

Buffet To Feature World Cookbook

Nebraska International Association's annual buffet supper Sunday will feature, in addition to the unusual and delicious dishes from many countries, an answer to the numerous questions of "How is this prepared?"

An international cookbook, compiled and edited by Mrs. Edelgard Epp of 2910 So. 11th, a former resident of Germany, will be on sale at the buffet for the first time.

The cookbook contains 217 recipes from 52 different countries. Most of the recipes were contributed by foreign students on the University of Nebraska campus, Mrs. Epp said.

Stuffed Grape Leaves

Recipes of such delicacies as stuffed grape leaves not only tell how to prepare the food, but also include notes on development and how to eat it.

Mrs. Epp, who tested about one-third of the recipes in the book, gathered instructions for making coffee from 13 countries. Some of them vary quite a bit, she noted.

Schlagkaffee from Austria is made with coffee, cold water and whipped cream. Gaelic coffee from Ireland also calls for whipped cream, along with whisky and sugar. Cinnamon sticks are added to a coffee recipe from Egypt.

Indexed By Country

The book, with recipes indexed by country, has instructions for breads, salads, main dishes, cookies, cakes, desserts and even traditional Christmas dishes. "I have meatballs from around the world," Mrs. Epp added.

Mrs. Epp, a member of the foreign student association although she has never been a student at NU, is chairman of the international buffet scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the First Christian Church, 16th and K.

"Many of the recipes in the cookbook will be served at the supper," Mrs. Epp pointed out, including stuffed grape leaves, a Turkish dish, and koenigsberger klops, German meatballs.

Nearly half of the 300 reservations already have been taken, according to the chairman, commenting that this year's response has been "very good."

International association students prepare the food for the buffet which this year will feature dishes from nearly 15 countries.

Inmate Appealing Court's Decision In Burglary Case

A Penitentiary inmate Wednesday served notice he is appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court from a State Supreme Court decision upholding his conviction on charges of burglary and possession of burglary tools.

Jerry Sheldon, 42, of Lincoln, was sentenced to a total of 13 years imprisonment after the Butler County jury conviction in connection with the Nov. 26, 1964, burglary of the Wachs Implement Co. store in David City.

He contended the circumstantial evidence was not sufficient to sustain the conviction and the sentence was excessive, but the state Supreme Court Friday rejected his contentions.

Herrington May Visit Capital

. . . TO LEARN GROUND RULES OF DEACTIVATION

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Opportunity Team (LOT) members Wednesday voiced interest in sending their new consultant, Fred A. Herrington, to Washington, D.C., to learn the ground rules of his position and get acquainted with Department of Defense officials dealing with the deactivation of the Lincoln Air Force Base.

Herrington, as an employe of the Defense Department representing city interests in the base phase-out, would inform the federal government about the city's position concerning deactivation and future use matters as the department makes its decisions about the base.

Herrington's trip would not come until after the week of Dec. 13, according to Mayor Dean Petersen, since Col. George Kelly and a supply officer of the Department of Defense will be in Lincoln at that time to discuss the base.

It was reported that the two federal officials are coming to discuss the save lists of property requested by local agencies planning to use the base after deactivation.

In Case

State Education Commissioner Dr. Floyd Miller and LOT education committee chairman Art Danielson attended the meeting Wednesday to discuss future educational uses of the base in case a Job Corps is not approved for the site or after a few years to work with or replace the Job Corps.

The Mayor's Advisory Committee agreed that Cecil Stanley of the Education Department and LOT education committee members should consider technical education for the facility and kinds of federal aid available to finance programs.

Miller offered his Education Department's services to help develop educational programs at the base, commenting on previous experience the department had with the Sioux Ordinance Depot acquisition for a vocational education facility.

Herrington presented a suggested method for using LOT committees once acquisition of the base and planning is under way.

The committees primarily will be fielding ideas, suggestions and recommendations for the advisory committee and considering problems assigned to the committees, including research, study and reports.

Other meeting highlights included:

—Staff authorization. The Mayor's Advisory Committee approved staff help for Herrington in his First National Bank Building office.

—Housing. LOT's committee on housing will meet with base officials and Job Corps promoters to discuss plans for using base housing. It has been suggested that at least part of the housing could be used for families of military men serving overseas.

—Job Corps. Vice Chancellor G. Robert Ross of the University of Nebraska reported that Job Corps staff will fully review the University of Nebraska and Northern Natural Gas proposal Thursday morning. It previously had been announced that a decision on placing a Job Corps site at Lincoln would be forthcoming in the next week.

—Advertising. Mayor's Advisory Committee members discussed the desirability of nationally advertising facilities available at the base which could be used by industrial or educational groups.

Job Corps Plan To Be Reviewed

The director of the proposed urban Job Corps center for men at the Lincoln Air Force Base said Wednesday that he expects to participate in a program conference with Job Corps officials in Washington before Christmas.

"We are awaiting a call from Washington to go back and review our program with them," J. O. Grantham of Omaha said.

Grantham is manager of long-range manpower planning for Northern Natural Gas Co., and would serve as director of the Job Corps center.

Northern officials involved in planning for the center will continue to "polish up" the program while awaiting word from Washington, he said.

The center was proposed jointly by Northern and by the University of Nebraska.

Buffet To Feature World Cookbook

Nebraska International Association's annual buffet supper Sunday will feature, in addition to the unusual and delicious dishes from many countries, an answer to the numerous questions of "How is this prepared?"

An international cookbook, compiled and edited by Mrs. Edelgard Epp of 2910 So. 11th, a former resident of Germany, will be on sale at the buffet for the first time.

The cookbook contains 217 recipes from 52 different countries. Most of the recipes were contributed by foreign students on the University of Nebraska campus, Mrs. Epp said.

Stuffed Grape Leaves

Recipes of such delicacies as stuffed grape leaves not only tell how to prepare the food, but also include notes on development and how to eat it.

Mrs. Epp, who tested about one-third of the recipes in the book, gathered instructions for making coffee from 13 countries. Some of them vary quite a bit, she noted.

Mobutu Regime To Rule By Decree 'When Necessary'

Leopoldville, the Congo (UPI)— The government of strongman Gen. Joseph Mobutu, who seized power in a bloodless coup last week, announced Wednesday it will rule by the decree when necessary.

An announcement broadcast over Radio Leopoldville said the government will not seek prior parliamentary approval for such measures.

At the same time, Mobutu moved to tighten control further by removing the national security police administration from the interior ministry and attaching it directly to the presidency.

The action weakened the hitherto important ministry which went to a supporter of ex-Premier Moise Tshombe in the political bargaining to form the new government under Mobutu.

Mobutu declared a five-year "regime of exception" when he ousted President Joseph Kasavubu last Thursday and had himself proclaimed president for the next five years. Kasavubu himself had ruled by decree for two years after suspending parliament in August 1963, until it met again for the first time last September.

The Radic Leopoldville broadcast said Mobutu's regime had taken its decision to rule by decree "to assure the rapid recovery of the country in various sectors of national activities."

The announcement said the presidential decrees will be deposited with one of the two chambers of parliament and will remain in force as long as parliament refrains from abrogating them by legislative act.

The Congo constitution provides for such presidential decrees during a state of emergency.

At the same time, Secretary of State Joseph Kulumba said the "present government is not a government of political parties but one of national union."

Kulumba denied there was any "misunderstanding" between Tshombe's Congolese National Convention Party (Conaco) and the government.

He also said there was no truth to reports published abroad that the coup was staged in Tshombe's interest.

Equalization Board Action Rapped

Kimball County Atty. Thomas D. Bowers Wednesday argued in a State Supreme Court brief that the State Board of Equalization erred in August when it raised the valuation of Kimball's rural and urban land and improvements for tax purposes.

He said the 29% increase ordered in rural valuation should have applied only to land and not improvements, and the seven per cent urban increase places Kimball urban property at a higher valuation than that of urban property in neighboring Cheyenne County.

Bowers asked the State Supreme Court to void the state board action and authorize the requested changes.

Kimball County is the first to file a written brief of arguments in the dispute over the Board of Equalization action.

Nine other counties — Lancaster, Garfield, Box Butte, Brown, Blaine, Loup, Holt, Keith and Nemaha — also have appealed the action to the Supreme Court.

The state board made sweeping changes in county valuation levels on Aug. 9 for equalization purposes before setting the state property tax mill levy.

Bowers said the state board ordered a 29% rural valuation increase for Kimball County because the county board had reduced by 20% the valuation of rural lands in the county in 1957.

However, he said the state board increase covered rural land and improvements, although the valuation of rural improvements had never been reduced by the county board.

The seven per cent urban increase was based on a sales-assessment ratio study which the state board failed to apply equally to all counties, Bowers argued.

The result, he said, was that urban property in Kimball County was placed at a higher valuation than was Cheyenne County urban property.

Reds Caught In Laotian Emergency

Vientiane, Laos (UPI) — The Loatian government Wednesday declared a state of emergency in two provinces near the Vietnamese border and publicly presented 13 North Vietnamese regular soldiers captured fighting in the area.

A government spokesman read a statement accusing North Viet Nam and the Communist Pathet Lao of "flagrant violations of the Geneva agreements" guaranteeing Laotian neutrality.

The government announcement said a state of emergency had been declared in Thaket and Savannakhet provinces in southern Laos. The Ho Chi Minh Trail, famed supply route for guerrillas operating in South Viet Nam, winds through both of these provinces.

Newsmen were summoned to Laotian government offices to hear the announcement and view the 13 captives. The spokesman said they were captured in fighting in the two provinces last month.

Both the provinces are situated on the Vietnamese border near the frontier separating North and South Viet Nam.

U.S. planes have bombed areas in the two provinces, which comprise a main supply corridor from the north to guerrillas operating in the south with tacit approval of the Laotian government.

There has been some talk by U.S. military planners in Saigon about putting U.S. troops into Laos to halt the flow of supplies, but apparently no decision has been reached on this.

DOMINICAN VOTING SET JUNE 1, 1966

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — The provisional government Wednesday night fixed June 1, 1966, as the date for the next general elections.

This was the first major step taken by the provisional government toward establishing the basis for the second fully free general elections the Dominican Republic has had since 1924. The first was in 1962.

G&T Protests Platte Line

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative Wednesday filed a formal protest opposing proposed construction of a 230-kilovolt electric transmission line by Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District.

The protest was laid before the Nebraska Power Review Board, which must rule on Platte's application for authority to construct the $3,670,000 facility from Grand Island to North Platte.

Board Chairman William Norton of Osceola indicated at a pre-hearng conference that the Platte request is likely to receive conditional approval.

Norton requested all power districts interested in the application to file with the board by Dec. 15 all information which they believe the board should consider relating to financing, routing, timing and use of the line.

Conditional Order

The board, he said, will then prepare for their consideration a conditional order based on that information.

If all parties can agree, Norton noted, the board can avoid a long and costly formal hearing on the matter.

Both Norton and another board member, Tom Eason of North Bend, acknowledged that there is need for the line.

Consumers Public Power District filed a petition intervening in the case, arguing that value of the facility is dependent on its interconnection with 230-KV lines reaching from North Platte to Stegall.

But Norton noted that "this board would not approve the line unless there is interconnection."

Envisions Interconnection

Platte attorney Jess Nielsen of North Platte said the application envisions interconnection with 230-KV facilities to the west in order to complete a high-voltage transmission loop through Nebraska.

Platte's wholesale partner in the Nebraska Public Power System, Loup River Public Power District, has informed the board that NPPS funds will not be available to finance construction of the line.

Nielsen said he believes the financing problem will disappear with the completion of studies showing the need for the line and when it should be completed.

Platte now believes construction should be finished by May 1969.

G&T, which represents rural customers of NPPS, based its protest on a lack of wheeling rights for rural districts, financing problems, lack of engineering studies and the fact that the proposed route of the line would not provide for this connection with the Canaday steam plant near Lexington.

Agree on Need, Value

However, G & T attorney Kenneth Olds of Wayne noted, rural districts "agree with the general need and ultimate value" of such a facility.

Nielsen told the board that he believes all G&T objections can be met except for a guarantee of wheeling rights which would permit rural districts to transport over the line power purchased from sources other than NPPS.

Details over financing, routing and timing can all be worked out, Nielsen said.

Power Agencies To Testify On Surplus Fund Spending

Representatives of nine public power agencies will parade before the Legislative Council's power study committee Thursday and Friday to testify on the spending of surplus power funds.

The committee will also meet with members of the Nebraska Power Review Board.

The legislative committee has sent questionaires to the districts requesting full disclosure of expenditures for advertising, lobbying, public relations and industrial development.

Also requested was information on the names and salaries of attorneys for the agencies and the agencies' policies concerning payment of costs to send representatives to national and regional power meetings.

The chairman of the legislative committee, Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City, has deplored when he considers "harassment" activities in the courts by power districts.

He also says surplus power funds should be used to reduce power rates to the consumer whenever possible.

Scheduled to testify before the committee Thursday were representatives of the Omaha Public Power District, Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District of Holdrege, Loup River Public Power District, Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District and the Consumers Public Power District.

Scheduled for Friday appearances were representatives of the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative, Custer Public Power District of Broken Bow, Polk Public Power District of Stromsburg, Fairbury Municipal Public Power District and the Power Review Board.

Collins Is Signed For 1966 Fair

Nebraska State Fair Manager Henry Brandt Wednesday said W. T. Collins Shows, Inc., has again been signed for the midway show at the 1966 State Fair.

However, Brandt said the new contract with Collins has certain safeguards regarding insurance risks.

The State Board of Agriculture has a suit pending against Collins Shows and Supreme Rides, Inc., in connection with the tragedy which occurred when a ride collapsed at the 1965 State Fair.

Four persons were killed and about 50 others injured when the ride collapsed on the crowded midway.

It will be the 14th consecutive year Collins Shows has provided the midway rides for the fair.

BIDS TO BE OPENED ON FAIR TRACK

Bids will be opened Dec. 10 on a proposed car racing track to be built inside the existing horse racing track at the Nebraska State Fairgrounds, according to Fair Manager Henry Brandt's office.

The two-track system has been recommended as a means of keeping race cars off the horse track. The bids will be opened at a Fair Board meeting.

Nebraska Gives More Road Funds For Local Use

By The Associated Press

A U.S. Bureau of Public Roads study Wednesday showed Nebraska is allocating more of its state highway-use funds to local governments than are most other states.

The report said that 42% of the funds available in Nebraska from state gas and motor vehicle taxes, which totaled $56.7 million, went to city and county governments. The average nationwide was 29.3%.

Allocation of the funds in Nebraska is spelled out by state law.

The federal report did not deal with federal aid money to states.

Gas Consumption Up 2 Per Cent

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak Wednesday reported gasoline consumption in Nebraska during the first eleven months of this year was nearly two per cent greater than the total for the same period in 1964.

Dworak said 616,764,550 gallons of gasoline were imported into the state from January through November of this year, an 11.4 million increase from the 1964 importation figures through November.

Revenue collected from motor fuel taxes totaled $47,437,067 through November, a more than $2.8 million increase from the 1964 collection total for the same period. The increase was due primarily to a half-cent-per-gallon increase in the state gas tax authorized by the last Legislature.

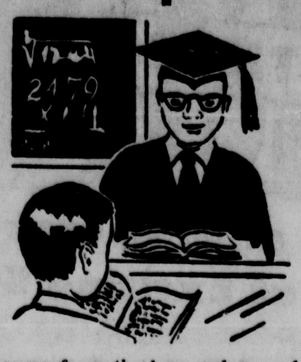
Excessive Help Can Smother Initiative

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON



A child's interest in learning can be smothered by well-intentioned parents.

A father saw his eight-year-old son sailing a small piece of board with a nail in the end, to which was attached a piece of string. An upright stick in the middle of the board held a small white rag representing a sail. The boat was being dragged through a puddle left by a heavy rain.

The boy was happy and talked about the boats he was going to build and sail.

The next day his father brought home a 16-inch model sailing craft, complete with sails and keel. They spent the twilight hours sailing the craft in a nearby lagoon. Father directed the activity. Thus, he took the initiative away from the boy and moved the project ahead faster than the child could accept it.

Do Not Realize

The boy neither asked to sail this boat again nor did he attempt to build another. His interest was smothered.

This is as true of learning as it is of any other activity. It goes on continuously in regard to schoolwork in some homes. The parents little realize what they are doing. Their intentions are the best.

For example, John, now a sophomore in high school, was enrolled in kindergarten when he was only four. He seemed ready for formal education and his parents wanted him to get as early a start as possible. They hoped to guide him to outstanding success throughout his school life.

Like all good parents they wanted to give him every advantage, but try as they would, it did not work out as they hoped.

By the eighth grade, with one of the highest IQ's in the school, John's grades were only average. Now, as a sophomore in high school, his grades have dropped below average even though his parents have dwelled quite consistently on the need for higher grades.

Has Everything

Their home is equipped with encyclopedias; there are "space" wall maps and telescopes. The boy has a personal library in his room and a public library card and is in no way limited in his means of acquiring knowledge. Yet this boy puts forth no real effort in his schoolwork except during those times when he is pressured by his parents.

His parents are at a loss to understand what more they can do to motivate their son to apply himself and to understand the wonderful realization of real accomplishments. They fail to realize they have consistently provided too much.

This boy has been continuously smothered in his learning experiences. Each time he started to learn something about a new situation, the information and ideas regarding it were fed to him faster than his mind could assimilate and organize them. From an educational standpoint, he is a poor little rich boy.

Klansmen's Case To Jury Thursday

Montgomery, Ala. (AP) — Government and defense attorneys finished testimony and closing arguments Wednesday in the civil rights trial of three Ku Klux Klansmen, but the case will not go to the all-white jury until Thursday morning.

U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. said he will make his charge to the jury starting at 9 a.m. CST and then the fate of the three defendents on trial as a result of the slaying of civil rights worker Viola Gregg Liuzzo will be turned over to the 12 jurors.

As they had throughout the three days of the trial, Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 22, of Fairfield, Ala., and Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer, Ala., sat quietly as the attorneys appealed to the jury on the one hand for a verdict of guilty and on the other for an acquittal.

Responsibility Proven

In his closing argument, Asst. Atty. Gen. John Doar told the jury the government had proved without question that the three defendants were responsible for the slaying of Mrs. Liuzzo, whose body was found in her car in nearby Lowndes County the night of March 25. She had taken part in the historic civil rights march from Selma to Montgomery.

Doar told the jury that the Detroit woman, the mother of five children and wife of a Teamsters Union official, Anthony Liuzzo, was killed because "some members of an organization are dedication to the preservation of segregation by any means necessary."

He said the three Klansmen drove to Montgomery and later left for Selma on the last day of the civil rights march "for no other reason except their animosity and their hatred for those people who were exercising the same rights that they enjoyed."

He said members of the Klan "believe they have to take the law into their own hands and can do anything they please."

Hanes Contends

Defense attorney Arthur J. Hanes contended that the government had failed to prove any conspiracy to violate any federal law.

He tried to discredit the testimony of the government's key witness, FBI informer Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., by describing him as "a man who by his own admission was a silver merchant. He worked for pay."

To emphasize his point, Hanes read from the book of Matthew in the Bible about Judas' betrayal of Christ for money.

Hanes, a former Birmingham mayor, argued to the jury that Rowe was paid for information and suggested that "if he had none in the warehouse, he could fabricate information so he could sell it."

He even suggested that Rowe may have stirred up racial trouble himself in order to get information to pass on to the government.

The defense attorney conceded that Mrs. Liuzzo had a right to be in Alabama and to take part in the civil rights protest. "But," he added, "her murderers are not in this courtroom. I don't know where they are . . . I wish I did . . . but I suspect they are somewhere laughing at the people of Alabama and looking for their next victim."

Earlier, Hanes sought to counteract the testimony of Rowe with other witnesses. He brought statements from other Klan members that the hooded organization does not advocate lawlessness.

Anniston Jury Can't Decide Strange Fate

Anniston, Ala. (AP)—Twelve white jurors failed to reach a verdict Wednesday night in the first-degree murder trial of Hubert Damon Strange, a white man charged with the highway slaying of a Negro foundry worekr.

After more than five hours of deliberation, interrupted by a doctor' visit to an ailing juror, the jury went to dinner before being locked up for the night in a third-floor room of the Calhoun County Courthouse where they slept on bunks.

"You can answer only to your God and conscience," Judge Robert M. Parker told the jurors before they began deliberating.

A service station attendant, Strange, 23, was indicted for first degree murder in the slaying of 38-year-old Willie Brewster, who was wounded fatally by gunfire the night of July 15 while driving along a highway near Anniston. Brewster died three days later.

Strange's attorney, J. B. Stoner, told the jury that the state had failed to prove its case and was relying on the testimony of a witness who wanted leniency on criminal charges and a big reward.

80 & 100 PROOF. DISTILLED FROM GRAIN. STE. PIERRE SMIRNOFF FILS, DIVISION OF HEUBLEIN, HARTFORD, CONN.

The jolly season of the Christmas Card is upon us. "Greetings! God rest ye merry gentlemen! Let nothing you dismay."

This is a noble thought. For a noble time.

The fact is, Christmas cards are dismaying.

Playing Christmas cards is something like baseball. It's not the windup that counts. It's the delivery.

I keep my Christmas card list in a separate notebook. Loose leaf. This is very executive. And, as a matter of fact, I got the idea out of Fortune Magazine.

I forget which tycoon used this system. He had to be good enough to get in Fortune. I am a system player. As soon as I read about this successful man, I got a loose leaf notebook and entered all the names.

Somewhere else I read about a successful man who put unusual stamps on his Christmas card envelopes.

"The recipient got not only a thoughtful message bearing season's greetings. On the envelope he also had a small treasure of philately."

This year I have decided to put on those green and red stamps that say "Drive Carefully."

It would show I was in favor of careful driving — a good thing to be in favor of. Also the receiver could start a stamp collection.

The only thing about this is that we are all executives around my scatter. We keep several Christmas card lists.

Mine is in a handsome leather loose leaf notebook.

But we also have a random list that is kept on backs of envelopes. Also on sheets that somebody thoughtfully typed up one executive day.

While typing this sheet, the typist made several carbons.

Therefore, we sometimes send out one card. Two cards. Or if the going is good and we hit all the lists, somebody might even get five cards. Bank night!

I think that the mailmen will get a raise. They earn it the way I mail Christmas cards.

People have given me some good advice on this:

"Why don't you check off the people on the list when you send the card?"

Well, bless your hearts, I do just that.

"That boy was not behind the door when the brains were passed out," my grandmother used to say.

I check them. And other people check them. But we also checked them last year. And now I can't tell whether the check is for this year or last year. See?

The only thing I am sure of is I got mad at a couple of people this year and I struck them off. Drew a big pencil line right through the names.

Last year, I did that with a loose leaf I was typing. The paper slipped a little. And I struck out a friend on the carbon copy.

I wrote him in again. He got three cards that year.

A lot of people got two. Some people didn't get any—I forgot to put stamps on one batch. I saw that just as I was dropping them in the box. I made a grab for them but missed. And if you go fishing in mail boxes, the post office people get you on a rap that makes you very sorry.

I don't think Fortune went into how that executive handled such problems. Probably they just figured once you had a loose leaf Christmas card list, everything took care of itself like one of those brain machines.

People have given me some good advice on this:

"Why don't you check off the people on the list when you send the card?"

Well, bless your hearts, I do just that.

"That boy was not behind the door when the brains were passed out," my grandmother used to say.

I check them. And other people check them. But we also checked them last year. And now I can't tell whether the check is for this year or last year. See?

The only thing I am sure of is I got mad at a couple of people this year and I struck them off. Drew a big pencil line right through the names.

Last year, I did that with a loose leaf I was typing. The paper slipped a little. And I struck out a friend on the carbon copy.

I wrote him in again. He got three cards that year.

A lot of people got two. Some people didn't get any— I forgot to put stamps on one batch. I saw that just as I was dropping them in the box. I made a grab for them but missed. And if you go fishing in mail boxes, the post office people get you on a rap that makes you very sorry.

I don't think Fortune went into how that executive handled such problems. Probably they just figured once you had a loose leaf Christmas card list, everything took care of itself like one of those brain machines.

AMERICAN NIGHT OWL RAIDS HURT RED SUPPLY

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — American Night Owl jets cruising over North Viet Nam are increasingly sinking their talons into communist troop and supply columns headed for South Viet Nam.

A record of 109 North Vietnamese trucks were smashed in one recent week. This compared to the average of about 20 a week earlier in the air war over North Viet Nam.

A specialized U.S. Air Force F4C Phantom squadron has developed new night attack tactics to check the flood of men and war material rolling down the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The airmen wear special black flying clothes to symbolize their job which calls for steely nerves and precision flying skill. Flak is less at night, but flying at low levels in mountainous terrain has obvious hazards.

Red Increase

Until recently U.S. intelligence estimated about 1,500 North Vietnamese troops were infiltrating through communist-controlled territory of eastern Laos into South Viet Nam each month. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said after his latest inspection trip this week the figure is expected to go to 4,500 in the current dry season.

The focus of the air war, once directed mostly at bridges, roads, rail junctions and fixed installations, has switched to the long lines of trucks heading mostly by night toward Laos and the mouth of the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The U.S. high command is determined to hit as severely as possibly any south-bound units before they can reach this country and be thrown into battle against American and allied troops.

No Hope

Top strategists say there is no hope of completely cutting off the flow short of sending thousands of ground troops to Laos, theoretically neutralized by the 1962 Geneva accords.

Capt. Dave Wilson, 27, of Greenwich, Conn., and Lt. Bill Wilson, 25, of Trafford, Pa., make up one of the F4 crews that specialize in Night Owl missions.

"Sometimes we catch the trucks on the road with their lights on," Bill said. "Sometimes we know where they park at night. But we're getting more and more secondary explosions all the time."

Secondary explosions come from detonation of fuel or ammunition.

Dave described the Night Owl tactics this way:

Two Phantoms each with a two-man crew, take off after dark and push into North Viet Nam. The lead plane has four bombs and a heavy load of flares of two million candlepower. The second has eight bombs.

Trucks must use their lights on the twisting mountain roads and the jets can be on them before the drivers realize it. The first plane drops 50 flares, enough to turn the night into day over the selected hunk of landscape.

The second plane screams in behind, usually as the trucks are trying to get off the road. He spreads his bombs down the center of the highway, sending hunks of steel into the trucks on both sides of the road.

The leading plane by this time has rolled around and makes its bombing run. The raiders always try to crater the road in front and behind the convoy to hold it in place for possible successive flights.

Sandstedt Will Meet Senators; Base On Agenda

State Aeronautics Director James Sandstedt is scheduled to meet with the Legislative Council's budget committee Saturday, with discussion of Aeronautics Department improvements on farm land at the former Fairmont Air Base expected.

Budget Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings has said the Aeronautics Department was never authorized to make $22,000 worth of improvements at the old base, but Sandstedt has contended the project was included in the department's approved budget.

Also expected to be discussed is the possibility of the Aeronautics Department's moving from the Capitol to quarters at the Lincoln Municipal Airport to ease a space shortage in the Statehouse.

Such a move would require a deficit appropriation approved by the budget committee.

LBJ Has No Undue Concern About Potential Inflation

Johnson City, Tex. (AP) — The Texas White House said Wednesday the administration has no "undue concern" about potential inflation.

It refused to deny, however, that President Johnson plans new efforts to promote stable prices.

In an obvious effort to play down concern over rising living costs, acting Press Secretary Joseph Laitin said Johnson plans to meet with top economic advisers within a week but he said it would be "to discuss the general economc picture."

Asked whether he would deny Johnson wants his economic advisers to map a campaign against rising prices. Laitin replied.

"I am not denying anything."

Laitin went to some length to stress the meeting would not reflect any undue concern about rising prices.

Johnson's advisers have told the President, Laitin said, that wages have risen faster than living costs. He described this as a healthy relationship, and added that living costs during the past four months have gone up at an annual rate of less than one per cent compared with the average for the past five years of 1.3%.

The Labor Department's consumer price index announced Tuesday was 110.4, up 1.8% over October 1964, compared with annual increases of 1.2% over the past five years.

"We're still all right, but it's very important that the rate not accelerate," commented Assistant Commissioner Arnold Chase of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Over the weekend, a source close to Johnson who declined to be quoted by name said inflation is not considered a major threat at the moment, "but the President and the administration and his advisers are always watching the picture, and will continue to study it very carefully."

Members of the so-called "quadriad" with whom Laitin said Johnson will meet are Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board, Budget Director Charles Schultze, and Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Money Markets Boost Interest, Ignore Plea

New York (AP)—Money markets apparently have rebuffed—at least for the time being—the U.S. government's hold-the line plea on interest rates.

Though the trend could be reversed Thursday, the flow of money turned negative Wednesday as far as U. S. Treasury securities were concerned. Treasury bond prices skidded. That had the effect of boosting interest yields on some issues to their highest levels in 40 years—4.5% or more.

No policy statement was issued by financiers. No major financial institutions announced boosts in their basic interest rates.

But the significance of Wednesday's bond price developments is that treasury bond yields now have hit the level charged by a bank for a loan to its most credit-worthy customer—the so-called prime rate.

Treasury securities are considered the bluest of all blue-chip investments. They are regarded as next only to U.S. currency as an asset.

From interest levels on treasury securities are scaled prices and yields of all other kinds of debt.

President Johnson's administration has been debating with banks since late last year the feasibility of boosting interest rates, particularly the prime rate.

Under heavy persuasion from the government last year, several banks rescinded boosts they had made in the prime rate.

But Wednesday's development puts the government in the position of asking banks to maintain a basic interest rate which the government is unable to enforce on its own bonds.

Put another way: Banks would be more inclined to buy treasury bonds yielding 4.53% than lend the money to corporations at 4.5%.

Brinks Suspect Eating, Arrested

Montreal (AP) — Police walked into a Montreal steak house early Wednesday and arrested Joel Singer, 22, a Montrealer wanted in connection with the burglary of a Brinks, Inc., branch office in Syracuse, N.Y. The burglars blasted the safe with an anti-tank gun and made off with $423,421 in October.

A spokesman for the Montreal police said Singer was spotted by two officers in a patrol car as he went into the steak house.

The spokesman said Singer will be questioned by police from Syracuse.

Klan Ordered To Halt Terror

New Orleans (AP) — A federal court ordered Ku Klux Klansmen Wednesday to halt "acts of terror and intimidation" aimed at preserving white supremacy in Bogalusa, La.

In a strongly-worded injunction requested by the Justice Department, the court said further interference with the civil rights of Bogalusa Negroes would not be tolerated.

The three-judge opinion listed as defendants the Original Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, "its dummy front, the Anticommunist Christian Association," and 38 individuals, including the top Klan officials at Bogalusa.

Second Issued

The injunction is the second issued by federal courts in recent months in an effort to aid civil rights demonstrators at Bogalusa, a papermill town of 25,000 persons 70 miles north of New Orleans. The earlier order directs police officials to provide adequate protection to peaceful Negro demonstrators.

Bogalusa erupted in racial turmoil last spring when Negroes began a drive to desegregate public facilities and secure better job opportunities. In the months that followed, Negroes were beaten and their homes fired on.

One Negro deputy sheriff was slain from ambush and another wounded.

Bogalusa has been quiet in recent weeks, although Negro picketing and periodic street marches continue.

"We have been having marches and picketing with no incidents," said Police Chief Claxton Knight. "We had 13 pickets this morning. There was no trouble and no problems."

Charges On Sheriff

Knight declined to comment on the court's injunction against the Klan. He explained he must appear in federal court here Dec. 8 to answer charges that he violated the court order requiring him to protect civil rights demonstrators.

Robert Hicks, vice president of the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League—which spearheads the civil rights movement here — expressed pleasure at the court's order against the klan.

But Hicks added:

"The thing we are most interested in is seeing that these restraining orders are enforced. I hope this order won't be violated, but if it is, I hope the government will take the necessary steps to see that it is enforced."

The opinion said the 38 defendants, rather than being leaders of their community, "appear to be ignorant bullies, callous of the harm they know they are doing . . ."

In issuing its injunction, the three-judge court said:

"Legal tolerance of secret societies must cease at the point where their members assume supragovermental powers and take the law in their own hands."

Federal Judge Clears St. Augustine Courts Of Demonstration Cases

Jacksonville, Fla. (UPI)—A federal judge cleared the St. Augustine courts of civil rights cases Wednesday in a sweeping order that dismissed about 1,000 charges against demonstrators, including Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

U.S. District Judge Bryan Simpson dismissed the charges against more than 400 racial demonstrators who took part in the massive and lengthy St. Augustine turbulence in 1964.

Another of the prominent demonstrators against whom the charges were dropped was Mrs. Malcom Peabody, a silver-haired grandmother and blueblood in her 80s from Massachusetts and mother of former Gov. Endicott Peabody.

The few cases that Simpson did not dismiss, he removed to federal court for trial.

The demonstrations in St. Augustine, oldest city in the United States, included swim-ins, marches, sit-ins, boycotts and infrequent violence.

The dismissals were based primarily on a U.S. Supreme Court decision that the civil rights act stopped state prosecution of sit-in cases even when the arrests were made before passage of the act.

Simpson said subsequent decisions had extended this ruling to include civil rights cases not necessarily confined to sit-ins.

The judge's order went even further than that requested by civil rights attorneys, who had agreed to remand some 25 cases to the state courts because they involved issues not covered by the civil rights act.

Some 400 to 600 integrationists were arrested during several months of demonstrations in the city which draws much of its economy from tourists.

The 25 cases pertained to sit-ins in churches and charges such as assault and battery and destroying property.

Burglar Convicted Of Double Killing

New York (AP)—Richard Robles, a baby-faced burglar and dope addict, was convicted Wednesday night of the sensational twin slayings of career girls Janice Wylie and Emily Hoffert.

He faces a mandatory life sentence for the Aug. 28, 1963, bludgeoning and knifing of the two girls in their East Side apartment.

A jury of seven men and five women received the case after a month-long trial. They returned their guilty verdict in slightly less than six hours.

Robles, 22, displayed no emotion at the verdict.

He was the second man formally accused in the mixed up case, which rocked New York off and on for two years. A previous defendant was exonerated before trial.

Bent On Careers

The two girls shared with another a third-floor furnished apartment at 57 East 88th St. Both came from good families, lived in an acceptable neighborhood, and were bent upon careers in the big city like thousands of girls before them.

Miss Wylie, 21, niece of author Philip Wylie, was a Newsweek magazine trainee. Miss Hoffert, 23 was a grade school teacher.

Robles entered their apartment to burglarize it and surprised Miss Wylie in bed. As Miss Wylie was subjected to an unnatural sex act, Miss Hoffert returned to the apartment. Both girls were clubbed over the head with soda bottles and stabbed to death with carving knives.

Their bodies were found trussed together, head to feet, upside down. Miss Wylie was nude, Miss Hoffert fully clothed.

Robles later was quoted by detectives as telling them:

"I went to pull a lousy burglary and I killed two girls."

'No Kicks'

However, in his later denial of the slayings, Robles maintained:

"I don't get my kicks by icing dames."

Orginally arrested and charged with the murders was George Whitmore, Jr., 21, a drifter from Brooklyn. He confessed but later repudiated his admissions.

The indictment against him was dropped last Jan. 27, the day after Robles was arrested in the case. However, Whitmore is still being held in two other crimes.

Robles' defense lawyers contended during the trial that he was a standing-in defendant, indicted to draw attention away from police bungling in the Whitmore arrest.

Friends' Testimony

Besides his admissions to authorities, Robles faced the trial testimony of two junkie friends of his, Nathan (Jimmy) Delaney, 36, and his wife, Marjorie, 30, a prostitute.

They told of Robles visiting their dingy six-room flat after the Wylie-Hoffert murders and confessing to them that he was the slayer.

Justice Irwin D. Davison scheduled sentencing of Robles for Jan. 11. He could hand down consecutive life sentences which would make Robles ineligible for parole for 54 years.

Cuban Exile Airlift Brings First Load To Miami

Miami, Fla. (AP) — Seventy-five Cuban men, women and children rode into U.S. exile Wednesday on the first flight of an airlift that could continue for years if Fidel Castro doesn't slam shut the gates.

Some 1,000 compatriots shouted greetings in Spanish, wept and waved from observation decks of Miami International Airport as a government - chartered airliner brought in the first batch of voluntary exiles.

All the newly arrived refugees have relatives in this country. Most of them were scheduled, after brief processing, to resume their journeys at once to cities where their kinfolk have been resettled all over the United States.

On behalf of President Johnson, a message of welcome from the U.S. State Department was read to the first airlift passengers on the plane.

It said, "Our country greets you with the sincere hope of giving you refuge. The dedication of America to our tradition as an asylum for the oppressed will be upheld. . . We promised you refuge and you will receive it."

The plane arrived at 12:59 p.m. CST, hours late from Varadero, Cuba, because of equipment replacements and red tape.

Cubans streaming down its gangway were well dressed and appeared generally healthy. The 24 children among them included many babes in arms.

Wailing Girl

Barbara Soveych arrived with a squalling, bewildered 2-year-old daughter, Cecilia, who never has seen her father. He is Jorge Soveych of the Bronx, N.Y., but Cecilia must wait awhile longer to greet him. She is scheduled to be sent to Puerto Rico for examination by an asthma specialist there.

Mrs. Soveych told newsmen, "I am so nervous I can't explain things coherently. It is a wonderful feeling to be in the United States. I brought my daughter and my grandmother to free territory, and I left four houses behind for Fidel Castro."

A passenger list provided in advance by the State Department carried 82 names, but only 75 refugees made the pioneer flight. A department spokesman said, "I can assume that for one reason or other, (the seven who did not arrive) did not want to come or were not ready."

Unlike most emotion-packed gatherings of voluble Latins, the refugees' relatives and friends talked little while awaiting their arrival. When one asked another "Do you have someone coming over?" he got only a pair of crossed fingers in mute response.

The airlift—to be shared by nine U.S. airlines under U.S. charter—is a refinement of measures that were launched when Castro startled the world Sept. 24 with an abrupt announcement that Cubans with relatives in the United States could leave Cuba if they wished. Military age men, physicians and technicians were not included.

The immediate response to Castro's offer was a motley fleet of party boats, outboards, fishing vessels and other craft never intended to ply the 90 miles of choppy Florida Straits between Key West, Fla., and an exile embarkation port Castro built at Camarioca on the island's north coast.

More than 1,000 Cubans braved this risky road to exile. Some drowned. Another 2,000 came by vessels which the U.S. government chartered when Cuba ended the Camarioca sailings as too dangerous.

Westinghouse Submits Low Bid

Westinghouse Electric Corp. of Lincoln submitted the apparent low bid of $31,726 Wednesday for two 2,000 KVA transformers for Lincoln General Hospital.

The city received five other bids on the transformers. Three firms submitting the same total bid of $44,172 were General Electric Supply Co. of Lincoln, Schneider Electric Equipment Co. of Omaha and Graybar Electric Co., Inc of Omaha.

Two other bidders, Tiney's Electric Co. of Lincoln and Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co. of Omaha, submitted the same total bid of $33,326 for the two transformers.

Korsmeyer Co. of Lincoln submitted the apparent low of $4,794 bid for two 300 KVA transformers for the city water department.

Other bidders on the 300 transformers were Dutton-Lainson Co. of Hastings, $5,-118 for the two; Tiney's, $4,-948; Graybar, $4,946; Allis Chalmers, $4,948; General Electric Supply, $4,946; and Westinghouse Electric Supply Co. of Omaha, $5,118.

Bids on arterial lighting for the Trendwood third addition near 84th and A indicated that Southeast Electric Co. of Lincoln was the apparent low at $13,890.

ABC Electric Co. of Lincoln bid $15,202 on the lighting; Energy Enterprises of Lincoln, $14,300; and Commonwealth Electric of Lincoln, $15,995.

Western Supply Corp. of Lincoln was the apparent low of two bidders bidding discounts from net trade price sheets for fire hydrants and valves. Western Supply's discount bid on what Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey described as a probable $150,-000 purchase during the year, was 24.75%.

Wright Tree Service of Des Moines, Iowa, submitted the only bid, $1,754, on a self-propelled rotary turf mower.

Capitol Supply Co. of Lincoln submitted a discount bid of 22%.

Bids also were received on aluminum sign blanks for the traffic engineer, which would total about $5,000, according to Harvey.

FOOD

the topping does it

A beautiful new caramel nut topping brings glistening good looks to this fanciful two crust raisin pie. The pie, bulging with a bountiful filling has a smidgin of cloves and a little vinegar as special accents for raisins.

To make sure that the topping does not run off the pie, build the pastry into a high fluted rim. When the pie is baked, place it on a baking sheet and spoon the caramel nut mixture over top. Return to the oven and leave it in just long enough to glaze. It takes only about 5 minutes so watch carefully that it doesn't burn.

CARAMEL GLAZED RAISIN PIE

2 cups seedless raisins
2 cups water
⅔ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cloves
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons butter
Pastry for 9-inch double crust
Caramel Glaze

Heat raisins and water to boiling. Stir in sugar blended with cornstarch, salt and cloves. Cook, stirring until mixture boils and becomes clear and thickens slightly. Remove from heat; stir in vinegar and butter. Cool to lukewarm. Turn into pastry lined 9-inch pie pan. Cover with top pastry building up a high fluted rim. Prick top 3 or 4 times with fork. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes, until pastry is browned. Remove from oven and place pie on baking sheet. Carefully spoon and spread Caramel Glaze over top of pie and return to oven. Bake 5 minutes longer or until mixture glazes top. Watch carefully to avoid burning. Serve warm. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

CARAMEL GLAZE:

Melt 2 tablespoons butter. Stir in 2 teaspoons cornstarch, ¼ cup brown sugar packed, 3 tablespoons dark corn syrup and ½ cup chopped nuts. Heat to boiling. Glaze may be used warm or cool.

CINNAMON BISCUIT COFFEE RING

Open 2 packages refrigerator biscuits anddip in ⅓ cup melted butter or margarine and then into a mixture of ⅓ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon. Stand in a well-buttered 8 inch ring mold until mold is filled. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 degrees F.) 30 minutes or until brown.

Yield: One 8-inch ring.

For Serving, Or Giving

Here is a recipe that will add a bit of the unusual to your Christmas cookie tray or your gift box. Try it.

HOLIDAY LOG

1 cup brown sugar
¾ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup finely chopped dried figs
¼ cup finely chopped candied lemon or orange peel
2 eggs, beaten
Powdered sugar

Combine sugar with flour and baking powder. Toss in Dried Figs and candied peel. Add eggs; spread quite thin on (12" x 15") greased shallow baking pan. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes at 350 degrees F. Cut into 2½ to 3-inch squares; roll up like a jelly-roll; cover with powdered sugar. Makes 24.

LIVE and LEARN

With only 30 days left until the big day—Christmas—early shoppers had better take heed so that their lists will get the final check before December 24. That something different that you might find on someone's Christmas list is a new kind of lipstick that shapes, colors and shades your lips all in one stroke. This wedge-shaped stick has a white frosted interior with a pastel shade on the outside. In one easy stroke, it lines the lip with color and fills in the center with a frosted white. It is like a lipstick with the surprise inside!

Santa may also add a new shaving unit —that can be plugged into the cigarette lighter socket — to someone's Christmas list. This shaver is only three inches high and fits quite easily into the glove compartment. The man under gift consideration for the holiday season may also enjoy a tape recorder, made to run on batteries which offers ease of operation. Its creator claims that it is the first such device to be priced at a low figure.

Another inventor has found a use for the car cigarette lighter socket that would make an excellent gift for someone. It is a high-intensity lamp that can be used as a work lamp, a map reading lamp, and because the light is so concentrated, it can be used for passengers who want to read without disturbing the driver.

For the youngster who will be unwrapping presents under the family tree this year, there is a long time favorite toy—the tinkertoy—that has gone modern. The makers of this innovation have motorized the tinkertoys with a battery. In the kit there are giant-sized nuts, bolts, pliers, screwdrivers (all made of plastic), and Tinker Beads made of wood and meant to be strung on a string.

Modern inventors have also packed up a nice kit containing all materials needed to make jeweled Christmas stockings for children. The fixings include precut felt for the stocking, sequins, gold cord, and bead crystals for the trim.

Cuban Exile Airlift Brings First Load To Miami

Miami Fla (AP) Seventy five Cuban men women and children rode into U S exile Wednesday on the first flight of an airlift that could continue for years if Fidel Castro doesn t slam shut the gates

Some 1,000 compatriots shouted greetings in Spanish, wept and waved from observation decks of Miami International Airport as a government - chartered airliner brought in the first batch of voluntary exiles.

All the newly arrived refugees have relatives in this country Most of them were scheduled after brief processing, to resume their journeys at once to cities where they Kinfolk have been resettled all over the United States

On behalf of President Johnson a message of welcome from the U S State Department was read to the mixed but passenger on the plane

It said Our country greets you with the sincere hope of giving you refuge The dedication of America to our tradition as an asylum for the oppressed will be upheld We promised you refuge and you will receive it

The plane arrived at 12:59 p.m. CST, hours late from Varadero, Cuba, because of equipment replacements and red tape.

Cubans streaming down its gangway were well dressed and appeared generally healthy The 24 children among them included many babes in arms

Wailing Girl

Barbara Sovevch arrived with a squalling bewildered 2 year-old daughter Cecilia who never has seen her father He is Jorge Sovevch of the Bronx NY but Cecilia must wait awhile longer to greet him She is scheduled to be sent to Puerto Rico for examination by an asthma specialist there

Mrs Sovevch told newsmen, "I am so nervous I can't explain things coherently. It is a wonderful feeling to be in the United States. I brought my daughter and my grandmother to free territory, and I left four houses behind for Fidel Castro."

A passenger list provided in advance by the State Department carried 82 names but only 75 refugees made the pioneer flight A department spokesman said, "I can assume that for one reason or other (the seven who did not arrive) did not want to come or were not ready

Unlike most emotion-packed gatherings of voluble Latins, the refugees' relatives and friends talked little while awaiting their arrival When one asked another "Do you have someone coming over?" he got only a pair of crossed fingers in mute response

The airlift—to be shared by nine U S airlines under U S charter—is a refinement of measures that were launched when Castro startled the world Sept 24 with an abrupt announcement that Cubans with relatives in the United States could leave Cuba if they wished Military age men physicians and technicians were not included

The immediate response to Castro's offer was a motley fleet of party boats, outboards, fishing vessels and other craft never intended to ply the 90 miles of choppy Florida Straits between Key West, Fla., and an exile embarkation port Castro built at Camarioca on the island's north coast.

More than 1,000 Cubans braved this risky road to exile. Some drowned Another 2,000 came by vessels which the U S government chartered when Cuba ended the Camarioca sailings as too dangerous

at afternoon service

In the presence of members of the family and a small group of friends, the wedding of Miss Cindy Lu Corey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Corey, and A.2C Lloyd W. Felstow, son of Mrs. Grace Felstow of St. Clair Shores, Mich., took place Saturday, Nov. 20, at the First Evangelical United Brethren Church. The service was solemnized at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Robert L. Schoeneman, wearing a daytime frock of pastel blue wool, was her sister's matron of honor. She carried a nosegay of red roses centered with a white carnation.

Serving as best man was Lonnie Corey.

The bride wore for her wedding a softly tailored suit of silk brocade in the candlelight shade. Her hat of brocade petals was veiled with illusion, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a cluster of red roses.

Mr. Felstow and his bride took a honeymoon trip to Michigan and will leave in the near future for Frankfort, Germany, where the bridegroom will be stationed with the Air Force.

Auxiliary

There will be big dolls and little dolls, stuffed rag dolls and baby dolls, at the home of Mrs. W. G. Weidman, 2701 Calvert, next Monday, afternoon when the members of the Lancaster County Medical Auixliary will meet for their December luncheon.

The collection of dolls, which will be distributed to Lincoln youngsters through the Family Service Association, is a traditional proejct of the auxiliary, and is under the direction of Mrs. Palmer Johnson and Mrs. Y. Scott Moore, co-chairmen.

Auxiliary president, Mrs. Jon Williams, will conduct the meeting, and a program of Christmas music will be presented by the Southeast High School "Noblemen."

Annual Parties

The annual Christmas party of the Sigma Kappa Mothers Club will be held Friday afternoon at the chapter house. The members will meet at 1:15 o'clock, and a highlight of the afternoon will be a cookie-exchange.

Holding a cookie-exchange on Friday will be the members of the Alpha Delta Pi Mothers Club. The group will meet for a 10 o'clock Christmas coffee at the chapter house.

The traditional Christmas party for the children of Chi Omega alumnae will be held Sunday afternoon at the chapter house. The program will begin at 2 o'clock.

To Be Hostess

Mrs. Leslie Wright will be hostess at her home, 5930 Garfield, to the members of the Phi Delta Theta Alliance on Friday.

IN the world of fashion

They are getting ready for spring out in California fashion-wise. The California designers of what the best-dressed women should wear, showed their newest spring wares to the press the other day, and here is what Joan Sweeney, UPI fashion writer, has to say about the show.

California fashions for spring are in motion.

Fluid lines for easy movement were the keynote to showings today at the final day of the California fashion creators' press week for newspaper fashion editors from across the country.

The skimmer, the flutter skirt, the easy drape and a pleat within a pleat were all prominent.

Color, masterful construction and architectural seaming were stressed, along with the fluid movement, as five courturier members of the Los Angeles fashion guild showed their wares.

Costumes were popular to create the total effect. Dresses were accompanied by coats or jackets. Suits had coordinated blouses.

Travilla liked an elongated torso giving way to a bit of a flared skirt just before the hip. He also showed matching coats in the same flared skirt style.

He made considerable use of a pleat within a pleat for added walking ease in skirts.

His evening gowns were often of beautifully-draped chiffon jersey.

One straight-lined gown draped into a carved neckline was worn beneath an Indian-inspired bombay wrap of chiffon that looked as though it might have just stepped out of the Taj Mahal.

Travilla's most intricate evening design was of white re-embroidered lace with organza ribbons puffed into flowers.

Michael Novarese led off the day with his "I believe" collection. His credo included careful seaming and construction, dramatic prints and short beaded dresses, replacing long gowns for after five.

Stanley Nelson's collection of coats, suits and costumes were sometimes outlined with braid or detailed with fringe on the pockets. His coats were more closely fitted this season, but still retained an easy line.

He unveiled a coat that leads a double life—one side of tweed which reversed to pale blue loopy wool scored in black. He introduced two designs from a new division of more moderately priced creations, which will be sold under the name of Fredley.

The Lee Herman story was one of knits: lemon knit, crocheted knit, double-double knit, and mix-and-match coats, sweaters, dresses, costumes and pants.

The lines were easy and fluid—often empire. She included a group of silk two-piece and skimmer dresses in bright colors. A standout was her peppermint pink coat of crocheted mohair bordered with matching mohair ruffle. She duplicated the style in a full-length evening coat of seaweed and white tweed crocheted mohair.

Charles Cooper used a more fitted look in many of his designs, although his collection contained its share of skimmers and empires. He also liked the elongated tunic.

For the cruise-minded, he interpreted the "Americana" look in white Douppioni Italian silk trimmed with navy and red.

Lucie Ann, the only non-member of the Los Angeles Fashion Guild who showed today, concluded press week with her collections of lingerie and at-home fashions that accentuated femininity. Her long and short peignoir and gown sets of flowing chiffon nylon floated like a soft breeze on a summer night. To add spice to the collection, there were harem pyjamas with bubble pants, puffed sleeves and scooped necks in nylon chiffon and "sassy" shorts," her version of baby dolls.

Her at-home costumes featured pyjama-gowns, tea-gowns and hostess gowns in silk chiffon, voile and polished cotton. and nylon in a brilliant roman stripe with slightly flared pants and two-toned sash belts.

One pyjama-gown, pants in front, gown in back—in shocking pink chiffon—had a tiny fitted bodice of violet, chenille lace with a single panel of bright green chiffon at the sides.

Sally Victor has reached onto the hatracks of history for some of her new winter millinery. Her "Americana" styles are copied from the pioneer bonnets that covered the head and tied under the chin.

FOOD

the topping does it

A beautiful new caramel nut topping brings glistening good looks to this fanciful two crust raisin pie. The pie, bulging with a bountiful filling has a smidgin of cloves and a little vinegar as special accents for raisins.

To make sure that the topping does not run off the pie, build the pastry into a high fluted rim. When the pie is baked, place it on a baking sheet and spoon the caramel nut mixture over top. Return to the oven and leave it in just long enough to glaze. It takes only about 5 minutes so watch carefully that it doesn't burn.

CARAMEL GLAZED RAISIN PIE

2 cups seedless raisins
2 cups water
⅔ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cloves
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons butter
Pastry for 9-inch double crust
Caramel Glaze

Heat raisins and water to boiling. Stir in sugar blended with cornstarch, salt and cloves. Cook, stirring until mixture boils and becomes clear and thickens slightly. Remove from heat; stir in vinegar and butter. Cool to lukewarm. Turn into pastry lined 9-inch pie pan. Cover with top pastry building up a high fluted rim. Prick top 3 or 4 times with fork. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes, until pastry is browned. Remove from oven and place pie on baking sheet. Carefully spoon and spread Caramel Glaze over top of pie and return to oven. Bake 5 minutes longer or until mixture glazes top. Watch carefully to avoid burning. Serve warm. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

CARAMEL GLAZE:

Melt 2 tablespoons butter. Stir in 2 teaspoons cornstarch, ¼ cup brown sugar packed, 3 tablespoons dark corn syrup and ½ cup chopped nuts. Heat to boiling. Glaze may be used warm or cool.

CINNAMON BISCUIT COFFEE RING

Open 2 packages refrigerator biscuits anddip in ⅓ cup melted butter or margarine and then into a mixture of ⅓ cup sugar and 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon. Stand in a well-buttered 8 inch ring mold until mold is filled. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 degrees F.) 30 minutes or until brown.

Yield: One 8-inch ring.

For Serving, Or Giving

Here is a recipe that will add a bit of the unusual to your Christmas cookie tray or your gift box. Try it.

HOLIDAY LOG

1 cup brown sugar
¾ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup finely chopped dried figs
½ cup finely chopped candied lemon or orange peel
2 eggs, beaten
Powdered sugar

Combine sugar with flour and baking powder. Toss in Dried Figs and candied peel. Add eggs; spread quite thin on (12" x 15") greased shallow baking pan. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes at 350 degrees F. Cut into 2½ to 3-inch squares; roll up like a jelly-roll; cover with powdered sugar. Makes 24.

LIVE and LEARN

With only 30 days left until the big day—Christmas—early shoppers had better take heed so that their lists will get the final check before December 24. That something different that you might find on someone's Christmas list is a new kind of lipstick that shapes, colors and shades your lips all in one stroke. This wedge-shaped stick has a white frosted interior with a pastel shade on the outside. In one easy stroke, it lines the lip with color and fills in the center with a frosted white. It is like a lipstick with the surprise inside!

Santa may also add a new shaving unit —that can be plugged into the cigarette lighter socket — to someone's Christmas list. This shaver is only three inches high and fits quite easily into the glove compartment. The man under gift consideration for the holiday season may also enjoy a tape recorder, made to run on batteries which offers ease of operation. Its creator claims that it is the first such device to be priced at a low figure.

Another inventor has found a use for the car cigarette lighter socket that would make an excellent gift for someone. It is a high-intensity lamp that can be used as a work lamp, a map reading lamp, and because the light is so concentrated, it can be used for passengers who want to read without disturbing the driver.

For the youngster who will be unwrapping presents under the family tree this year, there is a long time favorite toy—the tinkertoy—that has gone modern. The makers of this innovation have motorized the tinkertoys with a battery. In the kit there are giant-sized nuts, bolts, pliers, screwdrivers (all made of plastic), and Tinker Beads made of wood and meant to be strung on a string.

Modern inventors have also packed up a nice kit containing all materials needed to make jeweled Christmas stockings for children. The fixings include precut felt for the stocking, sequins, gold cord, and bead crystals for the trim.

COFFEE

is a welcoming courtesy for auxiliary

A highlight of the state Veterinary Medical Association meeting in Lincoln this week—as far as the auxiliary members were concerned, that is—was the "Shoppers' Coffee" for the ladies Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel Cornhusker.

And what could be more welcome following an afternoon of Christmas shopping, especially as the informal coffee included an exhibit of lovely and unusual china.

Other state officers are Mrs. James Edwards, Sidney, vice president; and Mrs. W. J. Kvansnicka, Hastings, secretary-treasurer. State chairmen include Mrs. Robert Sweat, entertainment chairman; Mrs. R. C. Groff, chairman of clipping committee; and Mrs. Grace, AVMA membership chairman, all of Lincoln.

The auxiliary members will hold their annual business meeting Thursday morning at the Hotel Cornhusker beginning at 9 o'clock. Mrs. Otto will preside at the meeting, during which new officers will be elected.

Nominees for office are Mrs. Edwards, president; Mrs. Kvasnicka, vice president; and Mrs. Sweat, secretary-treasurer.

The morning program also will include a fashion show of feminine costume accessories for the holiday season.

New Method For Yule Tree

—Green, moist Christmas trees reduce the fire hazard. A new preservative formula that you can make at home has been discovered to lengthen the indoor life of Christmas trees and keep them looking greener and fresher longer.

The formula doubles the indoor life of most cut evergreens and also improves greenness in many cases, said Harold C. Cook, Dixon, Ill., discoverer of the preservative.

Mr. Cook said the preservative formula is — add to 1 gallon of boiling water: 4 teaspoons of a chlorinated household bleach; 2 cups of light Karo or a homemade simple syrup; 4 tablespoons Green Garde Micronized Iron (available at most garden supply stores, florists, or hardware stores).

Before placing the tree in the holder, saw a fresh cut in the base of the trunk. Chop into the cut with an axe, or use a hammer to crush the fibers.

Place this hot solution into the tree holder carefully and allow the tree to stand in this solution about 12 hours before decorating. As the solution is absorbed, add tap water that has been warmed to room temperature, stir as added and keep tree holder filled at all times.

Mr. Cook pointed out that the combination of crushed fibers and the hot preservative will increase capillary action and enable the tree to get immediate and full benefits from the solution.

He recommended the use of large tree holders that contain at least a gallon of water. The same formula can be used to preserve cut evergreen boughs arranged in containers of water.

IN the world of fashion

They are getting ready for spring out in California fashion-wise. The California designers of what the best-dressed women should wear, showed their newest spring wares to the press the other day, and here is what Joan Sweeney, UPI fashion writer, has to say about the show.

California fashions for spring are in motion.

Fluid lines for easy movement were the keynote to showings today at the final day of the California fashion creators' press week for newspaper fashion editors from across the country.

The skimmer, the flutter skirt, the easy drape and a pleat within a pleat were all prominent.

Color, masterful construction and architectural seaming were stressed, along with the fluid movement, as five courturier members of the Los Angeles fashion guild showed their wares.

Costumes were popular to create the total effect. Dresses were accompanied by coats or jackets. Suits had coordinated blouses.

Travilla liked an elongated torso giving way to a bit of a flared skirt just before the hip. He also showed matching coats in the same flared skirt style.

He made considerable use of a pleat within a pleat for added walking ease in skirts.

His evening gowns were often of beautifully-draped chiffon jersey.

One straight-lined gown draped into a carved neckline was worn beneath an Indian-inspired bombay wrap of chiffon that looked as though it might have just stepped out of the Taj Mahal.

Travilla's most intricate evening design was of white re-embroidered lace with organza ribbons puffed into flowers.

Michael Novarese led off the day with his "I believe" collection. His credo included careful seaming and construction, dramatic prints and short beaded dresses, replacing long gowns for after five.

Stanley Nelson's collection of coats, suits and costumes were sometimes outlined with braid or detailed with fringe on the pockets. His coats were more closely fitted this season, but still retained an easy line.

He unveiled a coat that leads a double life—one side of tweed which reversed to pale blue loopy wool scored in black. He introduced two designs from a new division of more moderately priced creations, which will be sold under the name of Fredley.

The Lee Herman story was one of knits: lemon knit, crocheted knit, double-double knit, and mix-and-match coats, sweaters, dresses, costumes and pants.

The lines were easy and fluid—often empire. She included a group of silk two-piece and skimmer dresses in bright colors. A standout was her peppermint pink coat of crocheted mohair bordered with matching mohair ruffle. She duplicated the style in a full-length evening coat of seaweed and white tweed crocheted mohair.

Charles Cooper used a more fitted look in many of his designs, although his collection contained its share of skimmers and empires. He also liked the elongated tunic.

For the cruise-minded, he interpreted the "Americana" look in white Douppioni Italian silk trimmed with navy and red.

Lucie Ann, the only non-member of the Los Angeles Fashion Guild who showed today, concluded press week with her collections of lingerie and at-home fashions that accentuated femininity. Her long and short peignoir and gown sets of flowing chiffon nylon floated like a soft breeze on a summer night. To add spice to the collection, there were harem pyjamas with bubble pants, puffed sleeves and scooped necks in nylon chiffon and "sassy" shorts," her version of baby dolls.

Her at-home costumes featured pyjama-gowns, tea-gowns and hostess gowns in silk chiffon, voile and polished cotton, and nylon in a brilliant roman stripe with slightly flared pants and two-toned sash belts.

One pyjama-gown, pants in front, gown in back—in shocking pink chiffon—had a tiny fitted bodice of violet, chenille lace with a single panel of bright green chiffon at the sides.

Sally Victor has reached onto the hatracks of history for some of her new winter millinery. Her "Americana" styles are copied from the pioneer bonnets that covered the head and tied under the chin.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother refused to give my husband and me consent to marry, so when I turned 18, we eloped. We had my father's consent. In fact, he even helped us. My mother still refuses to recognize our marriage. When she writes a card or letter to me she refuses to put "MRS" in front of my name. She refuses to visit our home when my husband is home, and she won't let him in HER house. She is a very stubborn woman, Abby, but she is my mother just the same, and I still love her. I am going to have a baby. Would I be justified in refusing to let my mother see the baby until she accepts my husband?

DISTURBED

DEAR DISTURBED: Why don't you wait until you have the baby? Perhaps by then she will have recognized your marriage and accepted your husband? Don't waste your energy trying to solve a problem that doesn't exist. It may never materialize.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me get my brother back. He needs me as much as I need him only he doesn't realize it. We were very close all our lives until two years ago. Then he married a girl who ran after him for nearly four years. She is not pretty, not smart and she is always sick with something. My brother told me that her doctor called him in and told him HE would have to make a choice between HER and ME, so he was choosing HER!

He said they are moving out of the state very soon because of HER health. When they go I will take a gun and blow my brains out, and it will be all her fault. Sign this,

A LOVING SISTER

DEAR SISTER: If you had sent me your name and address I would have directed you to the nearest Mental Health Clinic in your area. I don't know how sick your brother's wife is, but you are sicker. Please tell your story to a doctor—ANY doctor.

DEAR ABBY: Please put a word of warning in your column to girls who marry an "M.O.C." (Mother's only child). I've been married to one for 16 years, and she still calls me in the morning to tell me to be sure Freddy wears his heavy coat because it's cold outside! She is always making remarks like, "I hope you haven't been keeping Freddy out too late. He looks so tired lately. And how come he's thin? Has he been eating regularly?" Abby, I am a good wife. I don't keep my husband out late and I do feed him properly. I am perfectly capable of taking care of a husband without the help of his mother. How does a wife cope with such a situation?

END OF ROPE

DEAR END: With understanding. Freddy's mother hasn't been able to break the habit of worry about him. Just say, "Thank you, Mother." (That's the least you can do for a mother who still feels the need to be needed. It may happen to you one day.)

Opening lead — queen of spades.

There is usually not much difference between playing a hand well and playing a hand perfectly, but that slight difference does occasionally have a decisive effect on the result.

South was in four hearts and West led a spade, taken with the ace. Realizing that he had four losers, one of which had to be avoided to make the contract, South decided to place his faith in the club suit. He hoped to build up an extra club trick by leading a low club from dummy towards the queen on the assumption that East had the king.

In line with this he therefore played the king of hearts, planning to enter dummy later with a trump for the first club lead towards his hand, and again later with another trump so that he could discard a loser on the ace of clubs.

This method of play would have worked out well except that East ducked the king of hearts in order to deny South an extra entry to dummy. As a result of this play, South went down one, losing a trick in each suit.

However, South could have made the contract against any defense if at trick two he had led the seven of hearts to the nine instead of leading the king. Had he done this, he could not have been stopped.

Let's assume that East takes the nine with the ace and returns a spade. In that case South wins the spade, plays the eight of trumps to the ten, and returns a low club which loses to the king. The defense can now cash its spade, but South makes the contract, after cashing the queen of clubs, by entering dummy with his carefully preserved three of hearts and discarding a diamond on the ace of clubs.

East cannot foil declarer by refusing to take the nine of hearts. South simply plays a low club from dummy and the outcome is exactly the same.

New Method For Yule Tree

—Green, moist Christmas trees reduce the fire hazard. A new preservative formula that you can make at home has been discovered to lengthen the indoor life of Christmas trees and keep them looking greener and fresher longer.

The formula doubles the indoor life of most cut evergreens and also improves greenness in many cases, said Harold C Cook, Dixon, Ill., discoverer of the preservative.

Mr. Cook said the preservative formula is — add to 1 gallon of boiling water: 4 teaspoons of a chlorinated household bleach; 2 cups of light Karo or a homemade simple syrup; 4 tablespoons Green Garde Micronized Iron (available at most garden supply stores, florists, or hardware stores).

Before placing the tree in the holder, saw a fresh cut in the base of the trunk. Chop into the cut with an axe, or use a hammer to crush the fibers.

Place this hot solution into the tree holder carefully and allow the tree to stand in this solution about 12 hours before decorating. As the solution is absorbed, add tap water that has been warmed to room temperature, stir as added and keep tree holder filled at all times.

Mr. Cook pointed out that the combination of crushed fibers and the hot preservative will increase capillary action and enable the tree to get immediate and full benefits from the solution.

He recommended the use of large tree holders that contain at least a gallon of water. The same formula can be used to preserve cut evergreen boughs arranged in containers of water.

winter wedding

Announcement is being made this morning of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sharon Faye Breitfelder to Kenneth Michael Hartz, son of Mrs. Jerry W. Hartz and the late Mr. Hartz, by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Breitfelder.

The wedding will take place in January.

Miss Breitfelder's fiance currently is stationed with the Air National Guard at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Don Dahlgren of Rosemont, Minn., who were called to Lincoln by the death of Mrs. Dahlgren's father, Albert L. Murphy, have returned to their home.

What They're Reading

Talk from book circles seems to concern itself with John Updike's newest fiction publication, "Of the Farm." Both the country and the characters will seem familiar to the author's regular readers, and the writing has been noted to be as felicitous as usual.

The novel presents four characters whose relationships are full of complications—this you will notice as you read through the conversations between mother and son, man and wife, wife and mother-in-law, stepfather and stepson, and so on in all possible combinations. Certain characters not on the scene are also important, particularly the deceased husband and father and the divorced wife with her three children. When the book ends, conflicts have been clarified but not resolved—you are left to draw your own conclusions—So why not give "Of the Farm" a try this week.

On the best-seller list we noticed two newcomers in the non-fiction category and those books and their authors are "White House Years: Waging Peace," by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and "A Gift of Joy," by actress, Helen Hayes.

The U.N. Looks At Marriage

The United Nations is hoping to establish a world-wide minimum age at which couples may marry, according to a recent report.

As a start, the U.N. has asked its 117 member nations to forbid persons under 15 from marrying, with exceptions granted only for "serious reasons." The General Assembly did not specify what reasons.

In a resolution passed unanimously by the 95 members who voted, marriage by proxy was also attached, although a move to ban such marriages altogether was defeated.

The members are to report back in 18 months the steps taken by their governments to implement the resolution.

It is said that the purpose of the minimum marriageable age proposal is to strengthen the family group as the basic unit of society by permitting only men and women of "full age" to enter into matrimony.

Bridal Shower

Miss Dorothy Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Peterson, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Lt. Michael Culwell of Ft. Worth, Tex., was announced recently, has chosen Thursday, Dec. 23, as the date for her wedding.

The ceremony will be solemnized at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Miss., where Lt. Culwell is stationed.

A Delta Zeta at Nebraska Wesleyan University, Miss Peterson will be honored at a prenuptial courtesy on Sunday, Dec. 12, when Miss Sheri Anderson will entertain at her home. The guests, former high school classmates of the honoree, will present a personal and linen shower to the bride-elect.

Miss Peterson's fiance is a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

Annual Party

Planing their annual Christmas party are the members of the Lincoln Gladioli Society, who will meet Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Walcott, 3248 T. The party will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother refused to give my husband and me consent to marry, so when I turned 18, we eloped. We had my father's consent. In fact, he even helped us. My mother still refuses to recognize our marriage. When she writes a card or letter to me she refuses to put "MRS" in front of my name. She refuses to visit our home when my husband is home, and she won't let him in HER house. She is a very stubborn woman, Abby, but she is my mother just the same, and I still love her. I am going to have a baby. Would I be justified in refusing to let my mother see the baby until she accepts my husband?

DISTURBED

DEAR DISTURBED: Why don't you wait until you have the baby? Perhaps by then she will have recognized your marriage and accepted your husband? Don't waste your energy trying to solve a problem that doesn't exist. It may never materialize.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me get my brother back. He needs me as much as I need him only he doesn't realize it. We were very close all our lives until two years ago. Then he married a girl who ran after him for nearly four years. She is not pretty, not smart and she is always sick with something. My brother told me that her doctor called him in and told him HE would have to make a choice between HER and ME, so he was choosing HER!

He said they are moving out of the state very soon because of HER health. When they go I will take a gun and blow my brains out, and it will be all her fault. Sign this,

A LOVING SISTER

DEAR SISTER: If you had sent me your name and address I would have directed you to the nearest Mental Health Clinic in your area. I don't know how sick your brother's wife is, but you are sicker. Please tell your story to a doctor—ANY doctor.

DEAR ABBY: Please put a word of warning in your column to girls who marry an "M.O.C." (Mother's only child). I've been married to one for 16 years, and she still calls me in the morning to tell me to be sure Freddy wears his heavy coat because it's cold outside! She is always making remarks like, "I hope you haven't been keeping Freddy out too late. He looks so tired lately. And how come he's thin? Has he been eating regularly?" Abby, I am a good wife. I don't keep my husband out late and I do feed him properly. I am perfectly capable of taking care of a husband without the help of his mother. How does a wife cope with such a situation?

END OF ROPE

DEAR END: With understanding. Freddy's mother hasn't been able to break the habit of worry about him. Just say, "Thank you, Mother." (That's the least you can do for a mother who still feels the need to be needed. It may happen to you one day.)

Opening lead — queen of spades.

There is usually not much difference between playing a hand well and playing a hand perfectly, but that slight difference does occasionally have a decisive effect on the result.

South was in four hearts and West led a spade, taken with the ace. Realizing that he had four losers, one of which had to be avoided to make the contract, South decided to place his faith in the club suit. He hoped to build up an extra club trick by leading a low club from dummy towards the queen on the assumption that East had the king.

In line with this he therefore played the king of hearts, planning to enter dummy later with a trump for the first club lead towards his hand, and again later with another trump so that he could discard a loser on the ace of clubs.

This method of play would have worked out well except that East ducked the king of hearts in order to deny South an extra entry to dummy. As a result of this play, South went down one, losing a trick in each suit.

However, South could have made the contract against any defense if at trick two he had led the seven of hearts to the nine instead of leading the king. Had he done this, he could not have been stopped.

Let's assume that East takes the nine with the ace and returns a spade. In that case South wins the spade, plays the eight of trumps to the ten, and returns a low club which loses to the king. The defense can now cash its spade, but South makes the contract, after cashing the queen of clubs, by entering dummy with his carefully preserved three of hearts and discarding a diamond on the ace of clubs.

East cannot foil declarer by refusing to take the nine of hearts. South simply plays a low club from dummy and the outcome is exactly the same.

GIFT TO

children's zoo by the Stewart family

Walt Disney does delightful movies which warm the heart of child and adult alike. But we doubt if Mr. Disney could have filmed his "The Wonderful World of Otters" without the help of three new residents at the Children's Zoo in Lincoln.

After that introduction it probably is needless to say that the new residents are otters, but it is quite important to know that Osseo, Odessa and Keokuk are performing otters. They were trained by their former owner, Emil Liers, who also owns Otters' Sanctuary at Homer, Minn. —on the Mississippi River—and who has served as consultant for three of the Disney animal pictures.

The three otters were presented to the zoo by members of the Don W. Stewart family in memory of the late Lt. Donald W. Stewart.

The three newcomers to the Zoo are presently receiving at their winter quarters—a pool just south of the Indoor Zoo, 1300 So. 27th St. In the spring they will be moving to the larger Otter Pool in the Children's Zoo.

We hear that Osseo, Odessa and Keokuk already have captivated the hearts of all who have made their acquaintance, but show a very special regard for the animal superintendent, Darold Fletcher. We don't mean to take anything away from Mr. Fletcher's ability to charm, but it is he who rewards the otters after they have performed. For instance, when Odessa (who may live to the ripe old age of 23) dives into the pool from a standing position she receives a choice tidbit—and the same pattern is followed for Osseo and Keokuk whose favorite sport is climbing up the steps of the slide —and then sliding down into the water.

Contrary to a general belief, the otters are not fish eaters—except for crayfish. Crayfish and frogs seem to be a great delicacy as far as the otters are concerned—and a rare one as well.

We discovered that our three new friends at the Zoo are given a very special formula which consists of ground liver, horsemeat, bran, mink developer (for their skin) and codliver oil. All of this is moistened with milk and water—plus a small amount of either carrot juice, orange juice or tomato juice.

In the background is Mr. Fletcher, and we can't tell you whether or not the performer on the slide in Osseo or Keokuk.

Prenuptial Courtesies

To be honored at a bridal shower next Monday evening, Dec. 6, will be Miss Judy McKinzie of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McKinzie of Holmesville, who has chosen a December wedding date for her marriage to Bill Wrightsman, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wrightsman.

In courtesy to the soon-to-be bride, Miss Lila Plock will be hostess at her home. A personal shower will be presented to Miss McKinzie during the informal evening.

Miss McKinzie also was the honored guest recently when Mrs. Waline Ropers, Mrs. Chet Kassing, Mrs. Russell Mason and Mrs. Lowell Frantz entertained at a miscellaneous shower. The party was held Sunday afternoon, Nov. 21, in Holmesville.

The bride-elect has announced that her wedding will take place at the South Beatrice Church of the Brethren, and the 7 o'clock evening service will be solemnized on Saturday, Dec. 18.

Miss Lila Plock of Lincoln will be her maid of honor, and her bridesmaids will be Miss Kay Kassing, Beatrice, and Miss Pat Wrightsman, Holmesville. Miss Vicki Sanderfeld of Lincoln, will be the flower girl, and lighting the chancel candles will be Miss Charlotte Jenkins and Randy Ropers, both of Holmesville.

Kenton Wrightsman of Omaha, will serve as best man, and the corps of ushers will include Larry McKinzie, brother of the bride-elect, Tom Brubaker, Ross Steele and Don Jenkins, all of Holmesville; Gary Knippenberg, Seward; and Sam White, Lincoln.

Included among recent courtesies honoring December bride-elect, Miss Eldean Mae Janousek, was the miscellaneous shower for which Mrs. Leo K. Streider and Mrs. Darrel Swanson were hostesses on Wednesday, Nov. 17. The guests were invited to the home of Mrs. Streider for the informal party.

Announcement is being made this morning of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sharon Faye Breitfelder to Kenneth Michael Hartz, son of Mrs. Jerry W. Hartz and the late Mr. Hartz, by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Breitfelder.

The wedding will take place in January.

Miss Breitfelder's fiance currently is stationed with the Air National Guard at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Dahlgren of Rosemont, Minn., who were called to Lincoln by the death of Mrs. Dahlgren's father, Albert L. Murphy, have returned to their home.

What They're Reading

Talk from book circles seems to concern itself with John Updike's newest fiction publication, "Of the Farm." Both the country and the characters will seem familiar to the author's regular readers, and the writing has been noted to be as felicitous as usual.

The novel presents four characters whose relationships are full of complications—this you will notice as you read through the conversations between mother and son, man and wife, wife and mother-in-law, stepfather and stepson, and so on in all possible combinations. Certain characters not on the scene are also important, particularly the deceased husband and father and the divorced wife with her three children. When the book ends, conflicts have been clarified but not resolved—you are left to draw your own conclusions—So why not give "Of the Farm" a try this week.

On the best-seller list we noticed two newcomers in the non-fiction category and those books and their authors are "White House Years: Waging Peace," by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and "A Gift of Joy," by actress, Helen Hayes.

The U.N. Looks At Marriage

The United Nations is hoping to establish a world-wide minimum age at which couples may marry, according to a recent report.

As a start, the U.N. has asked its 117 member nations to forbid persons under 15 from marrying, with exceptions granted only for "serious reasons." The General Assembly did not specify what reasons.

In a resolution passed unanimously by the 95 members who voted, marriage by proxy was also attached, although a move to ban such marriages altogether was defeated.

The members are to report back in 18 months the steps taken by their governments to implement the resolution.

It is said that the purpose of the minimum marriageable age proposal is to strengthen the family group as the basic unit of society by permitting only men and women of "full age" to enter into matrimony.

Bridal Shower

Miss Dorothy Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Peterson, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Lt. Michael Culwell of Ft. Worth, Tex., was announced recently, has chosen Thursday, Dec. 23, as the date for her wedding.

The ceremony will be solemnized at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Miss., where Lt. Culwell is stationed.

A Delta Zeta at Nebraska Wesleyan University, Miss Peterson will be honored at a prenuptial courtesy on Sunday, Dec. 12, when Miss Sheri Anderson will entertain at her home. The guests, former high school classmates of the honoree, will present a personal and linen shower to the bride-elect.

Miss Peterson's fiance is a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

HER
betrothal revealed

The bridegroom-elect is the grandson of Mrs. Earl J. Williams and the late Mr. Williams, and of Wilhelm J. Bauer and the late Mrs. Bauer, of Lincoln.

The wedding will be an event of February.

A graduate of Louisville Collegiate School and of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., Miss Moore made her debut in 1962 presented by the Bachelors Club of Louisville, and is a member of the Spinsters Cotillion.

Mr. Bauer is a graduate of Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., where he is a member of St. Anthony Hall. He currently is a student of architecture at the Harvard Graduate School of Design.

NEWS
of the suburban areas

Here we are again beginning the final month of the year and already counting off the number of days until Christmas—Let's see, the Christmas Day calculator tells us there are only 22 days of shopping left before the grandest holiday of the year arrives.

Several feminine shoppers report they have much of their gift buying out of the way so that they might leave themselves more time for the parties that spring up from almost nowhere during the final weeks before Christmas.

But Thanksgiving has not been gone too long and this morning's news concerns some of the festivities that took place during the past, long holiday weekend.

PARK MANOR

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lantz tell us that their Thanksgiving dinner took place on the Sunday afternoon preceding Thanksgiving Day. The couple went to Tecumseh on that Sunday and were the dinner guests of Mr. Lantz's mother, Mrs. Ivan Lantz. At the table arranged for 21 guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Madden of Lincoln who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Lantz on their trip to and from Tecumseh.

While we are centered on the activities surrounding Sunday, Nov. 21, we might mention the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brooks who arrived in Lincoln on that day. Their two-day house guests were Dr. and Mrs. McDonald Poe of Fort Smith, Ark. Just one-half hour after Dr. and Mrs. Poe left on the flight back to Arkansas Mr. Brooks' aunt, Miss Esther Autry, arrived in Lincoln via jet for a five-day visit with the Park Manor couple.

Holiday travelers from the Park Manor area included Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean and children, Tom, Bob, Ruth and Sue. The sixsome left for Sullivan, Ill. last Wednesday where they were guests until Sunday at the home of Mrs. Dean's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilber Haegen and their three sons. Twenty-four friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Haegen on Thanksgiving Day to dine on TWO turkeys and to spend the afternoon socially.

Getting away briefly from the holiday theme of guests and big dinners last Friday afternoon were the members of the Lincoln Faculty Wives Club. The members gathered at the Black Coach Supper Club for a social meeting for which Mrs. Merle McDonald was the afternoon hostess.

Listed in this week's guests book are Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Meade of Emmetsburg, Iowa. The couple arrived in Lincoln yesterday afternoon for a week to ten-day visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Adams.

Sunday was "return home" day for Mr. and Mrs. Julius Dillman who had spent the Thanksgiving holiday with relatives in Shewsbury, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Dillman and their daughters, Jennie and Suzanne left last Wednesday for their Missouri destination which was, more specifically, the home of Mr. Dillman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Dillman. Joining the two Dillman families for dinner on Thanksgiving Day was Mr. Dillman's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Frannin of Alton, Ill. and by Mr. Dillman's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Zimmer of Ottumwa, Iowa, who by the way are former Lincolnites and suburban residents.

TRENDWOOD

Extending the length of their dinner table for November 25 festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Norris. Their guest list included Mr. Norris' mother, Mrs. Nevada Norris of Mound City, Mo.; Mrs. Norris's father, Albert McKown, of Bigelow, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Norris of North Platte, and from Lincoln — Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Norris, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Norris. One late arrival to the family gatering came Friday evening from California—Charles Norris.

TALK
of the town

The town is filled with Christmas plans—and if people aren't planning for themselves they are as busy as the proverbial bee arranging a variety of affairs for philanthropic purposes.

Then—there are groups that are beginning early with Christmas Parties—There are people who are planning long and exciting trips—and there are those who are engrossed in the business of Christmas shopping.

But even though all roads lead eventually to Christmas there are other things to mention—As a matter of fact we kept a secret for so many days that we forgot to tell it at the proper time. So right now we'll tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Jenkins of Fremont were in town last weekend, and on Sunday joined Mrs. Jenkins' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lawlor, as surprise party hosts and hostesses at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawlor. The party was a dinner in celebration of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawlor.

But back to Christmas just long enough to mention that Mr. and Mrs. Jack Neely and their daughter, Ingrid, will come from St. Paul, Minn., to spend the Christmas holidays with Mr. Neely's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. Marshall Neely.

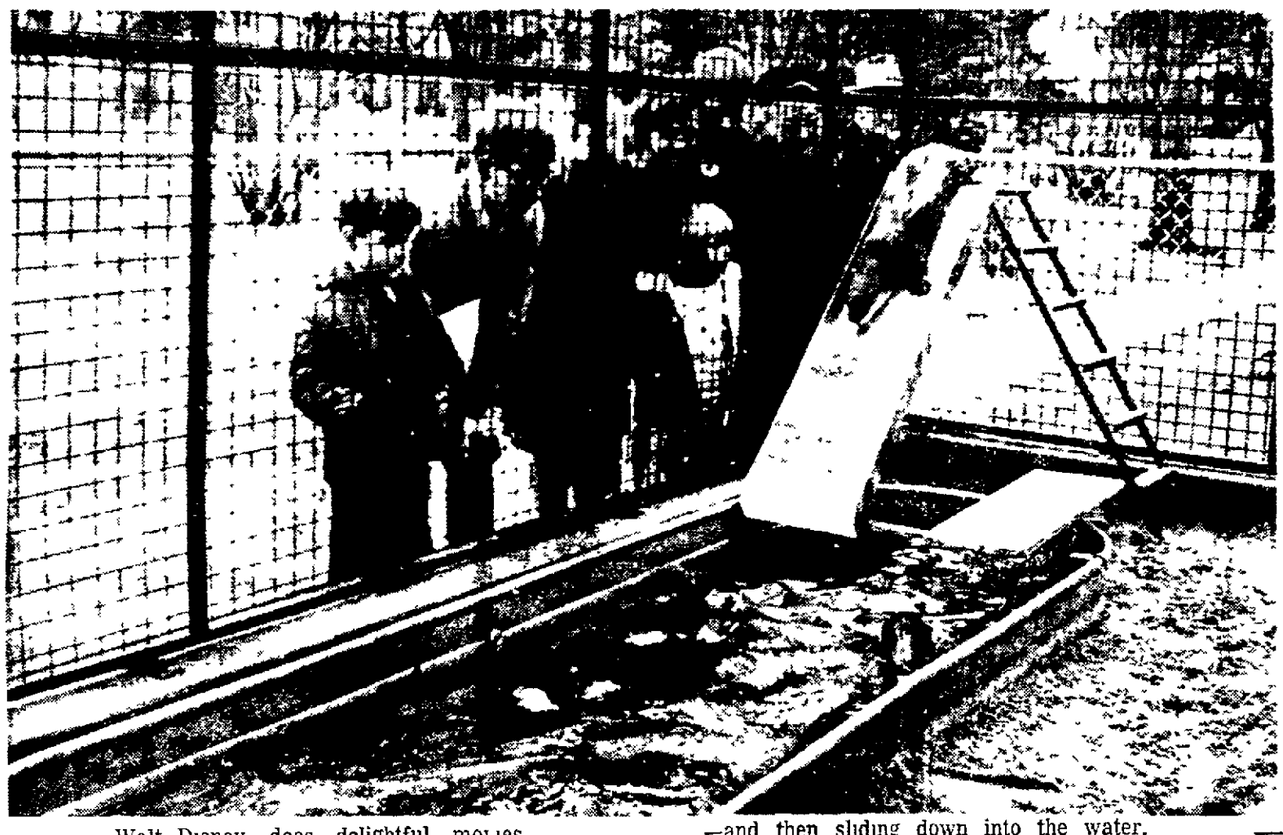
GIFT TO

children's zoo by the Stewart family



Walt Disney does delightful movies which warm the heart of child and adult alike. But we doubt if Mr. Disney could have filmed his "The Wonderful World of Otters" without the help of three new residents at the Children's Zoo in Lincoln.

After that introduction it probably is needless to say that the new residents are otters, but it is quite important to know that Osseo, Odessa and Keokuk are performing otters. They were trained by their former owner, Emil Liers, who also owns Otters' Sanctuary at Homer, Minn. —on the Mississippi River—and who has served as consultant for three of the Disney animal pictures.

The three otters were presented to the zoo by members of the Don W. Stewart family in memory of the late Lt. Donald W. Stewart.

The three newcomers to the Zoo are presently receiving at their winter quarters—a pool just south of the Indoor Zoo, 1300 So. 27th St. In the spring they will be moving to the larger Otter Pool in the Children's Zoo.

We hear that Osseo, Odessa and Keokuk already have captivated the hearts of all who have made their acquaintance, but show a very special regard for the animal superintendent, Darold Fletcher. We don't mean to take anything away from Mr. Fletcher's ability to charm, but it is he who rewards the otters after they have performed. For instance, when Odessa (who may live to the ripe old age of 23) dives into the pool from a standing position she receives a choice tidbit—and the same pattern is followed for Osseo and Keokuk whose favorite sport is climbing up the steps of the slide —and then sliding down into the water.

Contrary to a general belief, the otters are not fish eaters—except for crayfish. Crayfish and frogs seem to be a great delicacy as far as the otters are concerned—and a rare one as well.

We discovered that our three new friends at the Zoo are given a very special formula which consists of ground liver, horsemeat, bran, mink developer (for their skin) and codliver oil. All of this is moistened with milk and water—plus a small amount of either carrot juice, orange juice or tomato juice.

In the background is Mr. Fletcher, and we can't tell you whether or not the performer on the slide in Osseo or Keokuk.

Prenuptial Courtesies

To be honored at a bridal shower next Monday evening, Dec. 6, will be Miss Judy McKinzie of Lincoln, daughter of Mr and Mrs. C. L. McKinzie of Holmesville, who has chosen a December wedding date for her marriage to Bill Wrightsman, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wrightsman.

In courtesy to the soon-to-be bride, Miss Lila Plock will be hostess at her home. A personal shower will be presented to Miss McKinzie during the informal evening.

Miss McKinzie also was the honored guest recently when Mrs. Waline Ropers, Mrs. Chet Kassing, Mrs. Russell Mason and Mrs. Lowell Frantz entertained at a miscellaneous shower. The party was held Sunday afternoon, Nov. 21, in Holmesville.

The bride-elect has announced that her wedding will take place at the South Beatrice Church of the Brethren, and the 7 o'clock evening service will be solemnized on Saturday, Dec. 18.

Miss Lila Plock of Lincoln will be her maid of honor, and her bridesmaids will be Miss Kay Kassing, Beatrice, and Miss Pat Wrightsman, Holmesville. Miss Vicki Sanderfeld of Lincoln, will be the flower girl, and lighting the chancel candles will be Miss Charlotte Jenkins and Randy Ropers, both of Holmesville.

Kenton Wrightsman of Omaha, will serve as best man, and the corps of ushers will include Larry McKinzie, brother of the bride-elect, Tom Brubaker, Ross Steele and Don Jenkins, all of Holmesville; Gary Knippenberg, Seward, and Sam White, Lincoln.

Included among recent courtesies honoring December bride-elect, Miss Eldean Mae Janousek, was the miscellaneous shower for which Mrs. Leo K. Streider and Mrs. Darrel Swanson were hostesses on Wednesday, Nov. 17. The guests were invited to the home of Mrs. Streider for the informal party.

December Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Miller of Yutan, are announceing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sharon Alyce, to Dean M. Sell, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Sell.

The wedding will be an event of the holiday season.

A former student at Midland College, Fremont, Miss Miller is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a member of the Lincoln Schools faculty.

Also teaching in the Lincoln Schools, Mr. Sell is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University. Both plan to continue graduate studies for Masters degrees at the University of Nebraska.

HER
betrothal revealed

Of interest to Lincoln residents is the announcement of the betrothal of Miss Martha Edith Moore, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Condict Moore of Louisville, Ky., to Lawrence Charles Bauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald B. Bauer of Western Springs, Ill.

The bridegroom-elect is the grandson of Mrs. Earl J. Williams and the late Mr. Williams, and of Wilhelm J. Bauer and the late Mrs. Bauer, of Lincoln.

The wedding will be an event of February.

A graduate of Louisville Collegiate School and of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., Miss Moore made her debut in 1962 presented by the Bachelors Club of Louisville, and is a member of the Spinsters Cotillion.

Mr. Bauer is a graduate of Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., where he is a member of St. Anthony Hall. He currently is a student of architecture at the Harvard Graduate School of Design.

NEWS
of the suburban areas

Here we are again beginning the final month of the year and already counting off the number of days until Christmas—Let's see, the Christmas Day calculator tells us there are only 22 days of shopping left before the grandest holiday of the year arrives.

Several feminine shoppers report they have much of their gift buying out of the way so that they might leave themselves more time for the parties that spring up from almost nowhere during the final weeks before Christmas.

But Thanksgiving has not been gone too long and this morning's news concerns some of the festivities that took place during the past, long holiday weekend.

PARK MANOR

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lantz tell us that their Thanksgiving dinner took place on the Sunday afternoon preceding Thanksgiving Day. The couple went to Tecumseh on that Sunday and were the dinner guests of Mr. Lantz's mother, Mrs. Ivan Lantz. At the table arranged for 21 guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Madden of Lincoln who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Lantz on their trip to and from Tecumseh.

While we are centered on the activities surrounding Sunday, Nov. 21, we might mention the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brooks who arrived in Lincoln on that day. Their two-day house guests were Dr. and Mrs. McDonald Poe of Fort Smith, Ark. Just one-half hour after Dr. and Mrs. Poe left on the flight back to Arkansas Mr. Brooks' aunt, Miss Esther Autry, arrived in Lincoln via jet for a five-day visit with the Park Manor couple.

Holiday travelers from the Park Manor area included Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean and children, Tom, Bob, Ruth and Sue. The sixsome left for Sullivan, Ill. last Wednesday where they were guests until Sunday at the home of Mrs. Dean's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilber Haegen and their three sons. Twenty-four friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Haegen on Thanksgiving Day to dine on TWO turkeys and to spend the afternoon socially.

Getting away briefly from the holiday theme of guests and big dinners last Friday afternoon were the members of the Lincoln Faculty Wives Club. The members gathered at the Black Coach Supper Club for a social meeting for which Mrs. Merle McDonald was the afternoon hostess.

Listed in this week's guests book are Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Meade of Emmetsburg, Iowa. The couple arrived in Lincoln yesterday afternoon for a week to ten-day visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Adams.

Sunday was "return home" day for Mr. and Mrs. Julius Dillman who had spent the Thanksgiving holiday with relatives in Shewsbury, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Dillman and their daughters, Jennie and Suzanne left last Wednesday for their Missouri destination which was, more specifically, the home of Mr. Dillman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Dillman. Joining the two Dillman families for dinner on Thanksgiving Day was Mr. Dillman's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Frannin of Alton, Ill. and by Mr. Dillman's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Zimmer of Ottumwa, Iowa, who by the way are former Lincolnites and suburban residents.

TRENDWOOD

Extending the length of their dinner table for November 25 festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Norris. Their guest list included Mr. Norris' mother, Mrs. Nevada Norris of Mound City, Mo.; Mrs. Norris's father, Albert McKown, of Bigelow, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Norris of North Platte, and from Lincoln — Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Norris, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Norris. One late arrival to the family gatering came Friday evening from California—Charles Norris.

TALK
of the town

The town is filled with Christmas plans—and if people aren't planning for themselves they are as busy as the proverbial bee arranging a variety of affairs for philanthropic purposes.

Then—there are groups that are beginning early with Christmas Parties—There are people who are planning long and exciting trips—and there are those who are engrossed in the business of Christmas shopping.

But even though all roads lead eventually to Christmas there are other things to mention—As a matter of fact we kept a secret for so many days that we forgot to tell it at the proper time. So right now we'll tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Jenkins of Fremont were in town last weekend, and on Sunday joined Mrs. Jenkins' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lawlor, as surprise party hosts and hostesses at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawlor. The party was a dinner in celebration of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawlor.

But back to Christmas just long enough to mention that Mr. and Mrs. Jack Neely and their daughter, Ingrid, will come from St. Paul, Minn., to spend the Christmas holidays with Mr. Neely's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. Marshall Neely.

AMERICA'S LARGEST JEWELERS

Doctors' Association Figures 50,000 To Boycott Medicare

Chicago (AP)—The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, conducting a nationwide campaign among doctors against medicare, estimated Wednesday that more than 50,000 physicians and surgeons will refuse to take part in the health care program.

Harry E. Northam, executive director of the association, said the 50,000 figure is a "conservative estimate" based on letters received from physicians and surgeons and actions taken at county and state medical society meetings.

Northam said nonparticipating doctors will not strike or turn away their elderly patients, but will refuse to accept direct payments from the federal government for medical services.

Directors of the association, which says it represents more than 15,000 physicians and surgeons, adopted a resolution in August urging its members not to participate in medicare.

The association's two governing bodies, the house of delegates and the assembly, subsequently reaffirmed the position taken by the directors.

Northam said the association mailed 187,000 letters in June and 187,000 more in August to the nation's physicians and surgeons urging nonparticipation.

"The replies to our letters have been 20 to 1 in favor of our position," Northam said.

Antitrust Action

The American Medical Association has advised the nation's doctors they would face prosecution under the Sherman Antitrust Act if they act in concert through a medical organization to boycott the medicare program.

The AMA added, however, that its legal advisers state "an individual physician acting independently and not in concert with others can lawfully refuse to accept any person as a patient who is a beneficiary under the program."

Northam said his group's legal advisers contend that any group or organization may advocate non-participation as long as no coercion or penalties are applied to influence a decision.

He said his group has taken the position that medicare is "a scheme that will result in inferior medical care."

He said the letters also indicated that many nonparticipating doctors would bill their patients who could afford to pay, and serve without charge those who could not afford to pay.

Students 'Take Over' County Offices

Some 160 Lancaster County high school juniors invaded county offices Wednesday for the 19th annual County Government Day, co-sponsored by the county and the American Legion.

Elected to the various office posts by their respective schools, the representatives learned the duties and procedures of the respective offices they "took over."

The annual program includes administration of the oath of office, a tour of the courthouse, followed by their assuming duties as officials.

Col. Dan Casey, head of the Nebraska Safety Patrol, spoke at a luncheon for the students on the responsibilities of the Patrol.

Penal Institutions Selling Farms Used In Training

Nebraska penal institutions are in the process of selling some of the farms used for training programs in order to better prepare youth for the labor market according to their abilities and aptitudes.

Speaking before the Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth, State Institutions Director George Morris outlined the new trends in institutions for preparing the institutionalized for adjustment back into society.

He said the old meal lines have been eliminated and replaced by cafeteria lines whereby the inmates choose their food, may eat with whomever they choose and leave at will when they have finished.

He said the institutions are prevented from doing all they would like to do in this program because limited finances do not allow Nebraska to compete with surrounding states in maintaining adequate staff.

In other business, the committee reviewed the procedures used for legislative studies before the 1965 session and is seeking areas for study to be submitted for possible bills in the 1967 session.

According to Mrs. Clifford Jorgensen, chairman, the group is beginning immediately to revise the Compendium of Nebraska Laws relating to Children and Youth which was compiled in 1959.

She said the revision should be available in two to three months.

Merchants Boost Bowl Float Fund With 500 $2 Bills

Lincoln merchants have contributed $500 in two-dollar bills through the Lincoln Promotion Council for Nebraska's Orange Bowl float.

The $2 bills were given, Centennial Commission Director Don Shriner said, to point out that if only seven per cent of the 50,000 fans who crowd into Memorial Stadium for a single game were to give $2 each, the drive for the float would be well past its goal.

Council's Religious Liberty Declaration To Stand

Vatican City (UPI)—Church traditionalists apparently have failed in a last-ditch appeal to Pope Paul VI to water down the Ecumenical Council's declaration on religious liberty, informed sources said Wednesday.

At the same time, it was learned the pontiff will sing psalms and hymns together with non-Catholic Church leaders attending the council as observers at a special Christian unity ceremony on Saturday.

Council sources said conservative leaders went directly to the Pope to ask that "an explanatory note" be attached to the declaration on freedom of worship with the aim of defending Catholic claims as the only religion with full rights.

The Pope did not act on the appeal, the sources said.

The declaration, which states that all men have the right to believe and worship free from coercion by civil authorities, is scheduled to be promulgated on Dec. 7.

The council fathers gave final approval to the declaration on Nov. 19 by an overwhelming vote of 1,954 to 249.

Traditionalist prelates tried then to mount a big protest vote in the hopes of using it as grounds for appeal to the Pope to either tone down the declaration or offset it in some other way. The move to have the "explanatory note" appended was the result.

Similar Move

A year ago, the traditionalists made a similar move against the definiton of the "collegialtiy" doctrine that the bishops share direction of the church with the pontiff.

The Pope then met their requests by attaching a "theological note" to the church decree which in some ways offset too liberal interpretations of the doctrine by reasserting papal primacy.

The move against the religious liberty declaration was made by the same circles that had fought against it for four years. The group is known as the "International Committee of Fathers," with Italian Bishop Luigi Carli often acting as spokesman.

The council was in recess Wednesday. Only two more work meetings were scheduled—Thursday and Friday—before the closing ceremonies of the four-year-long church assembly next week.

Holdrege Trapper Up For Parole

A Holdrege-area trapper and construction worker who fired seven shots into the home of a Holdrege High School teacher in January 1961 will appear before the State Board of Pardons and Paroles on Jan. 19.

Frank Stagemeyer, 61, was sentenced to 15 years in the Penitentiary on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

He also received a three-year-term for malicious destruction of property and a two-year term for conspiracy to commit a felony. The latter two terms run concurrently with the 15-year sentence.

Stagemeyer had pleaded guilty to the act, saying he thought he was firing into the home of Sheriff Wilbur Gewecke with whom he had disputes.

Although no one was hit by the bullets, the sheriff's wife suffered a fatal heart attack while her husband investigated the shooting.

The incident occurred at the James Van Marter home on Jan. 7, 1961.

Stagemeyer's case will be one of 12 Penitentiary cases to be heard by the board on Jan. 19. Ten Reformatory cases will be heard the following day at that institution.

Hassles Rage Coast To Coast Over How Nude Is Lewd

By HAL COOPER

New York (AP)—Hassles raged from coast to coast Wednesday over that tricky old problem, how nude is lewd?

Is it an affront to public decency for a bare-bosomed barmaid to serve a beer? How about other bare spots?

Do nudist colonies cause site-seeking new industries to situate elsewhere?

And while a nude woman may be all right in her place, would you want your son to see one?

Sleepless Nights

Judging from a spot survey, nudity in some venues was causing more sleepless nights than how to raise the money for Junior's college fees.

So far, the battle between the bulls and the bares shaped up as a standoff.

In Portland, Ore., the city council asked for the withdrawal of liquor licenses from clubs employing girls under the age of 21 as dancers in topless costumes.

One of the girls went to court, protesting that the council's action had caused her club to fire her. The court ruled that the authorities could not cancel liquor licenses on such grounds.

Truce In LA.

In Los Angeles, a sort of armed truce was reached. The police vice squad insisted that under a state law against outraging public decency, topless waitresses were out. But the cops laid off bars where the girls cover up with bits of fabric called "pasties."

Kansas City bravely embarked on a cleanup campaign based on an amendment to its liquor code. The amendment insists that bar girls must have their upper regions fully covered by opaque clothing. A court test is awaited with interest by barflies throughout the city.

In Dania, Fla. four bar waitresses serving with nothing up front but pasties were arrested on a charge of wearing improper costumes in a public place. Fined $100 apiece, they have appealed to a higher court.

Blase Denverites

In Denver, the authorities figured they had bare bosoms firmly under control. There, a stripper was fined recently for performing topless in front of the world's most blase audience—a picnic of night club employes. And the fine stuck.

And in Everett, Wash., Snohomish County Superior Court Judge Thomas Stiger, declaring he had neither the right nor the inclination to declare the morals for the county, denied an injunction which would have stopped topless dancing. He said he didn't think the dancers "constitute a public nuisance."

Tennessee passed a law outlawing nudist colonies and the nudists counterattacked with a Federal Court petition alleging that the statute infringed their civil rights. Judge Robert L. Taylor still is thinking that one over.

Meanwhile Georgia State Sen. Roscoe Dean Jr. said he regarded nudist colonies as "a real moral and economic danger" and would seek a law against them.

"How," he asked, "would you like the idea of raising your children next door to a nudist colony? Moreover, industries and business firms usually think twice before locating near one.'

Red Tape Could Delay Soldiers' Return To U.S.

Phnom Penh, Cambodia (UPI) — Informed sources Wednesday said official red tape may delay for possibly another week the departure from Cambodia of two American soldiers released by the Vietnamese communists.

Sgt. George E. Smith of Chester, W. Va., and Spec 5 Claude E. McClure of Chattanooga, Tenn., told a news conference here Tuesday they wanted to return home, quit the Army and campaign against U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war.

LBJ Orders Slash Of 25,000 In Federal Civilian Payroll

Johnson City, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson directed Wednesday a slash of 25,000 in the government's civilian payroll.

Because of heavy retirements in November and December, it is expected that there will be no firings, but vacated jobs in many cases will not be filled.

Through Budget Director Charles L. Schultze, Johnson ordered a reduction of 1¼% in the employment ceilings of all departments and agencies were directed to cut their present ceilings by 1%.

The reductions must be put into effect by next June 30.

Doctors' Association Figures 50,000 To Boycott Medicare

Chicago (AP)—The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, conducting a nationwide campaign among doctors against medicare, estimated Wednesday that more than 50,000 physicians and surgeons will refuse to take part in the health care program.

Harry E. Northam, executive director of the association, said the 50,000 figure is a "conservative estimate" based on letters received from physicians and surgeons and actions taken at county and state medical society meetings.

Northam said nonparticipating doctors will not strike or turn away their elderly patients, but will refuse to accept direct payments from the federal government for medical services.

Directors of the association, which says it represents more than 15,000 physicians and surgeons, adopted a resolution in August urging its members not to participate in medicare.

The association's two governing bodies, the house of delegates and the assembly, subsequently reaffirmed the position taken by the directors.

Northam said the association mailed 187,000 letters in June and 187,000 more in August to the nation's physicians and surgeons urging nonparticipation.

"The replies to our letters have been 20 to 1 in favor of our position," Northam said.

Antitrust Action

The American Medical Association has advised the nation's doctors they would face prosecution under the Sherman Antitrust Act if they act in concert through a medical organization to boycott the medicare program.

The AMA added, however, that its legal advisers state "an individual physician acting independently and not in concert with others can lawfully refuse to accept any person as a patient who is a beneficiary under the program."

Northam said his group's legal advisers contend that any group or organization may advocate non-participation as long as no coercion or penalties are applied to influence a decision.

He said his group has taken the position that medicare is "a scheme that will result in inferior medical care."

He said the letters also indicated that many nonparticipating doctors would bill their patients who could afford to pay, and serve without charge those who could not afford to pay.

Students 'Take Over' County Offices

Some 160 Lancaster County high school juniors invaded county offices Wednesday for the 19th annual County Government Day, co-sponsored by the county and the American Legion.

Elected to the various office posts by their respective schools, the representatives learned the duties and procedures of the respective offices they "took over."

The annual program includes administration of the oath of office, a tour of the courthouse, followed by their assuming duties as officials.

Col. Dan Casey, head of the Nebraska Safety Patrol, spoke at a luncheon for the students on the responsibilities of the Patrol.

Merchants Boost Bowl Float Fund With 500 $2 Bills

Lincoln merchants have contributed $500 in two-dollar bills through the Lincoln Promotion Council for Nebraska's Orange Bowl float.

The $2 bills were given, Centennial Commission Director Don Shriner said, to point out that if only seven per cent of the 50,000 fans who crowd into Memorial Stadium for a single game were to give $2 each, the drive for the float would be well past its goal.

Penal Institutions Selling Farms Used In Training

Nebraska penal institutions are in the process of selling some of the farms used for training programs in order to better prepare youth for the labor market according to their abilities and aptitudes.

Speaking before the Nebraska Committee for Children and Youth, State Institutions Director George Morris outlined the new trends in institutions for preparing the institutionalized for adjustment back into society.

He said the old meal lines have been eliminated and replaced by cafeteria lines whereby the inmates choose their food, may eat with whomever they choose and leave at will when they have finished.

He said the institutions are prevented from doing all they would like to do in this program because limited finances do not allow Nebraska to compete with surrounding states in maintaining adequate staff.

In other business, the committee reviewed the procedures used for legislative studies before the 1965 session and is seeking areas for study to be submitted for possible bills in the 1967 session.

According to Mrs. Clifford Jorgensen, chairman, the group is beginning immediately to revise the Compendium of Nebraska Laws relating to Children and Youth which was compiled in 1959.

She said the revision should be available in two to three months.

Meat Packers Livestock Feeding Sharply Criticized By State Group

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Norfolk — Nebraska's 2,404-member Livestock Feeder Association sopke out against the feeding of livestock by meat packers at their annual convention here Wednesday.

Bob Ray of Norfolk, president of the National Livestock Feeders Association, in addressing the convention said, "Feeding of livestock by meat packers is of real concern to the feeding industry. The approach to the problem is not easy, but your national association is working intensely to correct the situation."

A resolution passed by the Nebraska group resolved that the association use its influence and bring the utmost in pressure to bear to discourage the meat packers from engaging in the feeding business as part of their operation and cause it to be discontinued.

M. J. Hankins, Stanton, a past president of the livestock feeders, charged that packer feeding is only for the purpose of "market manipulation". He asked that the same effort employed by the livestock industry to combat imports be utilized to discourage packer feeding.

Support Income Tax

The livestock feeders reaffirmed their support of LB797, the income tax legislation, in a resolution that read "be it resolved that the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association shall give its full and complete support, including financial support, as approved by the board of directors, to the effort of Nebraskans for Fair Taxation to retain LB797 as a law of this state.

The state Aeronautics Department met further opposition in the development of air base land as the feeders charge that the Aeronautics Department has exceeded statuatory authority by launching an extensive land improvement program at the Fairmont airfield to convert marginal land into highly productive farmland at considerable expenditure of public funds.

The feeders publicly registered their firm opposition to spending government funds on land improvements to develop productive farms by all state agencies except the Department of Public Institutions and the University of Nebraska.

Officers elected Keith Burney of Hartington, president; Elmer Schlaphoff of Waverly, 1st vice president; Melvin Kuska of Fairmont, 2nd vice president. Nebraska representatives to the national board of directors named by the group were Oscar Bredthauer of Grand Island, Arden Johnson of Exeter, and Keith Burney.

Buildings In Space Forecast Plus Planet Communication

Chicago (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, an "oldster" of 54, told the nation's youngsters Wednesday there will be buildings in space and communication between planets "before you are 30."

Speaking to the 44th 4-H Club Congress, Humphrey said the nation is just on the threshold of man's progress.

"We are just at the pioneering, primitive stages," he said. "You have quite a time ahead in your lifetime."

Humphrey spoke to 2,200 4-H'ers after briefly touring the 66th International Livestock Exposition where he visited with blue ribbon steers, hogs and lambs.

"We'll be constructing buildings in space," Humphrey said. "I've told George Meany (president of the AFL-CIO) he'd better start organizing out there."

Humphry said the "greatest foreign policy" act of the government in the last 50 years was enactment of the civil rights act of 1964.

Humphrey said American troops in Viet Nam are not fighting for land or bases.

"They are dying and fighting at this very moment for your peace and the peace of the world. And never forget it," he said. Humphrey appeared on the verge of tears at this time. His comments on Viet Nam drew the largest applause of the speech from the youngsters.

Council's Religious Liberty Declaration To Stand

Vatican City (UPI)—Church traditionalists apparently have failed in a last-ditch appeal to Pope Paul VI to water down the Ecumenical Council's declaration on religious liberty, informed sources said Wednesday.

At the same time, it was learned the pontiff will sing psalms and hymns together with non-Catholic Church leaders attending the council as observers at a special Christian unity ceremony on Saturday.

Council sources said conservative leaders went directly to the Pope to ask that "an explanatory note" be attached to the declaration on freedom of worship with the aim of defending Catholic claims as the only religion with full rights.

The Pope did not act on the appeal, the sources said.

The declaration, which states that all men have the right to believe and worship free from coercion by civil authorities, is scheduled to be promulgated on Dec. 7.

The council fathers gave final approval to the declaration on Nov. 19 by an overwhelming vote of 1,954 to 249.

Traditionalist prelates tried then to mount a big protest vote in the hopes of using it as grounds for appeal to the Pope to either tone down the declaration or offset it in some other way. The move to have the "explanatory note" appended was the result.

Similar Move

A year ago, the traditionalists made a similar move against the definiton of the "collegialtiy" doctrine that the bishops share direction of the church with the pontiff.

The Pope then met their requests by attaching a "theological note" to the church decree which in some ways offset too liberal interpretations of the doctrine by reasserting papal primacy.

The move against the religious liberty declaration was made by the same circles that had fought against it for four years. The group is known as the "International Committee of Fathers," with Italian Bishop Luigi Carli often acting as spokesman.

The council was in recess Wednesday. Only two more work meetings were scheduled—Thursday and Friday—before the closing ceremonies of the four-year-long church assembly next week.

Holdrege Trapper Up For Parole

A Holdrege-area trapper and construction worker who fired seven shots into the home of a Holdrege High School teacher in January 1961 will appear before the State Board of Pardons and Paroles on Jan. 19.

Frank Stagemeyer, 61, was sentenced to 15 years in the Penitentiary on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

He also received a three-year-term for malicious destruction of property and a two-year term for conspiracy to commit a felony. The latter two terms run concurrently with the 15-year sentence.

Stagemeyer had pleaded guilty to the act, saying he thought he was firing into the home of Sheriff Wilbur Gewecke with whom he had disputes.

Although no one was hit by the bullets, the sheriff's wife suffered a fatal heart attack while her husband investigated the shooting.

The incident occurred at the James Van Marter home on Jan. 7, 1961.

Stagemeyer's case will be one of 12 Penitentiary cases to be heard by the board on Jan. 19. Ten Reformatory cases will be heard the following day at that institution.

Veterinarians' Blood Plan To Aid Rabies Victims

Some 35 to 40 Nebraska veterinary practitioners will give blood here Thursday morning so that persons who contract rabies in the future will be spared acute pain and discomfort connected with treatment for the dread disease.

The idea for the mass blood donation from the ranks of Nebraska veterinarians came from Dr. M. J. Twiehaus, chairman of the University of Nebraska veterinary science department, and formerly head of the Kansas rabies detection program.

Persons who are bitten by animals found to be rabid must undergo either a series of 14 to 21 injections — the Pasteur treatment—or if the bite is on the face or neck, they must submit to direct injections of rabies anti-serum. This latter treatment is necessary to the life of the individual because of the short distance rabies virus travel to the brain, Dr. Twiehaus explained.

The rabies anti-serum administered in severe exposure by rabid animals, and also the milder compound containing rabies antibodies given in the Pasteur series are derived from horses and rabbits used as laboratory hosts, he said. Most persons getting either type of anti-serum develop a severe reaction, Dr. Twiehaus commented.

This is where the veterinarian comes into the picture. Because of their frequent contact and exposure with animals which are rabid or are rabies suspects, veterinarians must protect themselves at all times.

Many take a series of three injections of a vaccine developed in duck embryos, as a preventive measure against rabies. Others have taken one or sometimes two series of the Pasteur treatment, Dr. Twiehaus noted.

In either case, their blood has developed a substantial immunity to rabies through the growth of antibodies, the NU staff member said. Such blood, taken in the usual way, can be processed and given to persons who come in contact with rabies, resulting in immunity and at the same time eliminating painful side-effects from the anti-serum derived from animals.

All veterinarians giving blood are volunteers who responded after the plan was proposed some months ago, Dr. Twiehaus said. Many more were willing, but could not participate because of medical reasons and contact with other diseases, he added.

The blood is being collected by the Red Cross Omaha Regional blood bank mobile unit. It will be sent to Washington, D.C., for initial processing and then on to Camberlee, Ga., a U.S. Public Health Service facility.

The blood will then be returned to Nebraska, in the custody of Dr. E. A. Rogers of the State Health Department. Physicians treating rabies victims with severe exposure may then call for some of the special blood. It is expected to take about six weeks to process the blood and receive it back in Nebraska.

The blood will be taken from the veterinarians between 9 and 10 a.m. Thursday at the Nebraska Center, at the same time blood is being collected from NU students for use in connection with military needs in Viet Nam.

Parents 'Shouldn't Give Up Relationship For Children'

Parenthood, which is "a passing phase of adult life," can have tragic results if parents surrender their entire relationship to each other for their children, some 90 persons attending the Consultation on Christian Education in Lincoln were told.

Rather than devoting one's entire life to the every whim of a child, parents must find time to spend with themselves, guest speaker the Rev. Howard West of Lincoln told the group.

He reminded his audience that besides being parents, adults are also husband and wife and that a healthy and close personal relationship is as necessary to child development as that of the mother-father relationship.

A growing child needs, in the case of a man, someone from whom he can learn how to be a man, a husband and a father. The same is true as far as teaching girls to be women, he said.

Don't Be Alarmed

The Rev. Mr. West advised that parents do not become alarmed if suddenly their child finds a father or mother substitute, such as an older, teen-age boy or girl next door. "That is natural in a growing child," he said.

The trick is to let the substitute know how much he or she means to the child.

In the area of discipline, the Rev. Mr. West said there are times when it is better to say "sic 'em" rather than restraining disagreement among children.

"A little tussle now and then gives the child a new point of reference, a new way of identifying with his surroundings, a new perspective," he said.

Israel, Jordan Clash On Crest

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP)—Israeli and Jordanian forces clashed Wednesday on the crest of bibical Mt. Gilboa, an Israeli spokesman reported.

He said intermittent firing lasted two hours after a Jordanian position allegedly fired at an Israeli police patrol.

There were no casualties on the Israeli side, the spokesman said.

Hassles Rage Coast To Coast Over How Nude Is Lewd

By HAL COOPER

New York (AP)—Hassles raged from coast to coast Wednesday over that tricky old problem, how nude is lewd?

Is it an affront to public decency for a bare-bosomed barmaid to serve a beer? How about other bare spots?

Do nudist colonies cause site-seeking new industries to situate elsewhere?

And while a nude woman may be all right in her place, would you want your son to see one?

Sleepless Nights

Judging from a spot survey, nudity in some venues was causing more sleepless nights than how to raise the money for Junior's college fees.

So far, the battle between the bulls and the bares shaped up as a standoff.

In Portland, Ore., the city council asked for the withdrawal of liquor licenses from clubs employing girls under the age of 21 as dancers in topless costumes.

One of the girls went to court, protesting that the council's action had caused her club to fire her. The court ruled that the authorities could not cancel liquor licenses on such grounds.

Truce In LA.

In Los Angeles, a sort of armed truce was reached. The police vice squad insisted that under a state law against outraging public decency, topless waitresses were out. But the cops laid off bars where the girls cover up with bits of fabric called "pasties."

Kansas City bravely embarked on a cleanup campaign based on an amendment to its liquor code. The amendment insists that bar girls must have their upper regions fully covered by opaque clothing. A court test is awaited with interest by barflies throughout the city.

In Dania, Fla. four bar waitresses serving with nothing up front but pasties were arrested on a charge of wearing improper costumes in a public place. Fined $100 apiece, they have appealed to a higher court.

Blase Denverites

In Denver, the authorities figured they had bare bosoms firmly under control. There, a stripper was fined recently for performing topless in front of the world's most blase audience—a picnic of night club employes. And the fine stuck.

And in Everett, Wash., Snohomish County Superior Court Judge Thomas Stiger, declaring he had neither the right nor the inclination to declare the morals for the county, denied an injunction which would have stopped topless dancing. He said he didn't think the dancers "constitute a public nuisance."

Tennessee passed a law outlawing nudist colonies and the nudists counterattacked with a Federal Court petition alleging that the statute infringed their civil rights. Judge Robert L. Taylor still is thinking that one over.

Meanwhile Georgia State Sen. Roscoe Dean Jr. said he regarded nudist colonies as "a real moral and economic danger" and would seek a law against them.

"How," he asked, "would you like the idea of raising your children next door to a nudist colony? Moreover, industries and business firms usually think twice before locating near one."

Red Tape Could Delay Soldiers' Return To U.S.

Phnom Penh, Cambodia (UPI) — Informed sources Wednesday said official red tape may delay for possibly another week the departure from Cambodia of two American soldiers released by the Vietnamese communists.

Sgt. George E. Smith of Chester, W. Va., and Spec 5 Claude E. McClure of Chattanooga, Tenn., told a news conference here Tuesday they wanted to return home, quit the Army and campaign against U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war.

LBJ Orders Slash Of 25,000 In Federal Civilian Payroll

Johnson City, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson directed Wednesday a slash of 25,000 in the government's civilian payroll.

Because of heavy retirements in November and December, it is expected that there will be no firings, but vacated jobs in many cases will not be filled.

Through Budget Director Charles L. Schultze, Johnson ordered a reduction of 1¼% in the employment ceilings of all departments and agencies were directed to cut their present ceilings by 1%.

The reductions must be put into effect by next June 30.

Vietnamese Casualties In Week Number 1,505

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—Combat casualties in the South Vietnamese armed forces soared to 1,505 last week, largely as a result of the Viet Cong's destruction of the 7th Infantry Regiment, a U.S. military spokesman announced Wednesday.

The latest statistics on the toll of a war that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says "will be a long road ahead" came out on a day of relatively light ground action. U.S. planes loosed both bombs and propaganda pamphlets on North Viet Nam.

American losses Nov. 21-27 were markedly less than in the previous week, though some U.S. advisers were cut down with the Vietnamese infantrymen in their losing battle Saturday on the abandoned Michelin rubber plantation 45 miles northwest of Saigon.

The U.S. toll was 40 killed, 117 wounded and 5 missing.

Lighter

That compared with a record loss of 240 dead, 470 wounded and 6 missing in the week of Nov. 14-20, when U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and North Vietnamese regulars were locked in the Ia Drang Valley battle in the central highlands.

South Viet Nam lost 459 killed—the government's second highest toll of the war. In addition, 861 were wounded and 185 missing.

However, the spokesman said 1,539 Viet Cong were killed, giving U.S. and government troops a favorable ratio of 3-1.

The possibility that a prospective further buildup of American forces in Viet Nam may mean a rise in the 43,000-man Marine contingent seemed to be under study.

'You Can't Tell'

Adm. U.S. Sharp Grant, commander in chief of U.S. Pacific forces, told newsmen after touring Leatherneck installations at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon:

"We may have some more Marines here. You can't tell."

U.S. Marines in the Hue-Phu Bai area north of Da Nang exchanged fire with about 20 Viet Cong. A spokesman said they killed one and wounded four while taking light casualties.

U.S. Air Force pilots made their biggest leaflet drop of the war. They released 7.1 million propaganda pamphlets high over the Red River Valley with the hope the wind would deliver them to Hanoi, Haiphong and other cities along the river.

60 Million

In all, 60 million leaflets now have been dropped on the north in an effort to explain the U.S. and South Vietnamese position in the war and undermine support for Ho Chi Minh's regime.

U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderjets made bombing runs northwest of Hanoi. Pilots said they damaged a railroad bridge and cratered several highways.

Jet planes and propeller-driven Skyraiders from the carriers Ticonderoga and Bon Homme Richard dropped 30 tons of bombs on bridges, freight cars and army barracks near Vinh, 140 miles north of the border.

There was no mention here of any losses.

Hanoi's Figures Same As U.S.' List For Once

Tokyo (AP)—Radio Hanoi broadcast to claim Wednesday that Viet Cong "liberation forces in the eastern part of Nam Bo (South Viet Nam proper) wiped out nearly 4,000 American troops" in the first 20 days of November.

U.S. authorities ignore such communist utterances, but this happens to be one that can be checked against official figures announced on a weekly basis in Saigon.

These figures list 1,341 American casualties through Viet Nam—land, sea and air—in the cited period. The total includes 396 killed, 937 wounded and 8 missing in action.

U.S. Planes Fly 226,000 Pounds Of Gifts

Washington (AP) — Air National Guard and Air Force reserve planes have flown 226,000 pounds of Christmas gift parcels to Viet Nam so far, it was announced Wednesday.

In addition, the Defense Department said, the 37 guard-reserve planes which already have taken part in "Operation Christmas Star" have delivered a total of 280,000 pounds of military cargo to Viet Nam.

The Pentagon stressed that no packages can be accepted for this kind of delivery after Dec. 5.

Meanwhile the Association of American Railroads announced that railroads across the nation will be providing free transportation for goods donated by Americans to the people of South Viet Nam.

The Project America's Christmas trains and trucks will be filled and moved in cooperation with the U.S. Jaycees, the Young Democratic Clubs of America and the Young Republican National Federation.

Tools, school supplies, foods, clothes and fabrics sewing kits and personal hygiene articles are the principal items designated by the Defense Department as most needed by the South Vietnamese.

The railroads will provide freight cars at local loading sites and offer free transportation in regularly scheduled freight trains to Oakland, Calif., for loading aboard ship by Christmas Eve.

Possible Brainwashing Takes Simple Technique

Washington (AP)—Brainwashing doesn't always need exotic techniques; simple repetition can hammer down the resistance of some American prisoners — and the communists use that method, among others.

The question is brought into focus again by release by the Red Vietnamese of two U.S. Army men held captive since 1963 and their subsequent news conferences remarks Tuesday in communist-oriented Cambodia. Gen. Wallace M. Greene, Marine Corps commandant, feels that the two soldiers were brainwashed by their captors.

This raises the question of whether the Reds are now applying the brainwashing treatment used widely in both the Korean War and in World War II.

There are two schools of thought in the Pentagon: (A) The Viet Cong and the infiltrated forces of regular North Vietnamese troops are not equipped for use of the technique; (B) brainwashing can be of such simple technique that even guerrillas can use it.

However, whether or not the Reds are using that psychological tool in Viet Nam, the U.S. military is taking steps to counter it—as it did in Korea and before that in World War II.

All military personnel going to Viet Nam receive, among other things, briefings and lessons on brainwashing. The Army prepared a handbook on the subject—"Communist Interrogation, Indoctrination and Exploitation of Prisoners of War"—after studies of the Korean War. The pamphlet still is used as a textbook for American servicemen bound for Viet Nam.

If, as Greene suspects, the Viet Reds made effort to brainwash Sgt. George E. Smith and Spec. 4 Claude Donald McClure to make them believe the communist cause is right and U.S. entry into the Viet Nam war was wrong, how might it have been done?

The Army pamphlet and discussions with veteran U.S. soldiers who have had practical experience on the subject suggest some answers.

Wilson Top Pipe Man

London (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson was elected Britain's best pipe smoker by the readers of the trade journal "Tobacco." Wilson, frequently photographed pipe in mouth, was runnerup last year to television actor Rupert Davies.

Gromyko Repeats His Viet Nam Conditions

Moscow (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Wednesday warned that American bombing of North Viet Nam "must stop" and all U.S. troops must leave South Viet Nam before any peace talks could be held.

The Soviet price for peace indicated the communists were clinging to their hard line conditions. The demands for an end to the bombing of the north and a troop withdrawal are two key demands in the four-point program insisted on by the North Vietnamese as pre-conditions for peace talks.

Gromyko restated the Soviet position to British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart in a three-hour talk at the Soviet Foreign Ministry Wednesday. It was the second time the two foreign ministers have met since Stewart arrived in Moscow Monday.

Informed sources said the talks indicated both sides held firmly to their old positions concerning a Viet Nam peace.

Spacemen, Not Caeser

Prague (AP) — A Czechoslovak woman psychiatrist, Dr. Ruzena Hajnova, says Space Age schizophrenics don't think of themselves as Caesars or Napoleons — "their imagination works in more modern patterns." The CTK news agency reported she said one typical clinic patient told of speaking with inhabitants of other planets who were bald and several meters high.

Meat Packers Livestock Feeding Sharply Criticized By State Group

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Norfolk — Nebraska's 2,404-member Livestock Feeder Association sopke out against the feeding of livestock by meat packers at their annual convention here Wednesday.

Bob Ray of Norfolk, president of the National Livestock Feeders Association, in addressing the convention said, "Feeding of livestock by meat packers is of real concern to the feeding industry. The approach to the problem is not easy, but your national association is working intensely to correct the situation."

A resolution passed by the Nebraska group resolved that the association use its influence and bring the utmost in pressure to bear to discourage the meat packers from engaging in the feeding business as part of their operation and cause it to be discontinued.

M. J. Hankins, Stanton, a past president of the livestock feeders, charged that packer feeding is only for the purpose of "market manipulation". He asked that the same effort employed by the livestock industry to combat imports be utilized to discourage packer feeding.

Support Income Tax

The livestock feeders reaffirmed their support of LB797, the income tax legislation, in a resolution that read "be it resolved that the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association shall give its full and complete support, including financial support, as approved by the board of directors, to the effort of Nebraskans for Fair Taxation to retain LB797 as a law of this state.

The state Aeronautics Department met further opposition in the development of air base land as the feeders charge that the Aeronautics Department has exceeded statuatory authority by launching an extensive land improvement program at the Fairmont airfield to convert marginal land into highly productive farmland at considerable expenditure of public funds.

The feeders publicly registered their firm opposition to spending government funds on land improvements to develop productive farms by all state agencies except the Department of Public Institutions and the University of Nebraska.

Officers elected Keith Burney of Hartington, president; Elmer Schlaphoff of Waverly, 1st vice president; Melvin Kuska of Fairmont, 2nd vice president. Nebraska representatives to the national board of directors named by the group were Oscar Bredthauer of Grand Island, Arden Johnson of Exeter, and Keith Burney.

Buildings In Space Forecast Plus Planet Communication

Chicago (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, an "oldster" of 54, told the nation's youngsters Wednesday there will be buildings in space and communication between planets "before you are 30."

Speaking to the 44th 4-H Club Congress, Humphrey said the nation is just on the threshold of man's progress.

"We are just at the pioneering, primitive stages," he said. "You have quite a time ahead in your lifetime."

Humphrey spoke to 2,200 4-H'ers after briefly touring the 66th International Livestock Exposition where he visited with blue ribbon steers, hogs and lambs.

"We'll be constructing buildings in space," Humphrey said. "I've told George Meany (president of the AFL-CIO) he'd better start organizing out there."

Humphry said the "greatest foreign policy" act of the government in the last 50 years was enactment of the civil rights act of 1964.

Humphrey said American troops in Viet Nam are not fighting for land or bases.

"They are dying and fighting at this very moment for your peace and the peace of the world. And never forget it," he said. Humphrey appeared on the verge of tears at this time. His comments on Viet Nam drew the largest applause of the speech from the youngsters.

Hassles Rage Coast To Coast Over How Nude Is Lewd

By HAL COOPER

New York (AP)—Hassles raged from coast to coast Wednesday over that tricky old problem, how nude is lewd?

Is it an affront to public decency for a bare-bosomed barmaid to serve a beer? How about other bare spots?

Do nudist colonies cause site-seeking new industries to situate elsewhere?

And while a nude woman may be all right in her place, would you want your son to see one?

Sleepless Nights

Judging from a spot survey, nudity in some venues was causing more sleepless nights than how to raise the money for Junior's college fees.

So far, the battle between the bulls and the bares shaped up as a standoff.

In Portland, Ore., the city council asked for the withdrawal of liquor licenses from clubs employing girls under the age of 21 as dancers in topless costumes.

One of the girls went to court, protesting that the council's action had caused her club to fire her. The court ruled that the authorities could not cancel liquor licenses on such grounds.

Truce In LA.

In Los Angeles, a sort of armed truce was reached. The police vice squad insisted that under a state law against outraging public decency, topless waitresses were out. But the cops laid off bars where the girls cover up with bits of fabric called "pasties."

Kansas City bravely embarked on a cleanup campaign based on an amendment to its liquor code. The amendment insists that bar girls must have their upper regions fully covered by opaque clothing. A court test is awaited with interest by barflies throughout the city.

In Dania, Fla. four bar waitresses serving with nothing up front but pasties were arrested on a charge of wearing improper costumes in a public place. Fined $100 apiece, they have appealed to a higher court.

Blase Denverites

In Denver, the authorities figured they had bare bosoms firmly under control. There, a stripper was fined recently for performing topless in front of the world's most blase audience—a picnic of night club employes. And the fine stuck.

And in Everett, Wash., Snohomish County Superior Court Judge Thomas Stiger, declaring he had neither the right nor the inclination to declare the morals for the county, denied an injunction which would have stopped topless dancing. He said he didn't think the dancers "constitute a public nuisance."

Tennessee passed a law outlawing nudist colonies and the nudists counterattacked with a Federal Court petition alleging that the statute infringed their civil rights. Judge Robert L. Taylor still is thinking that one over.

Meanwhile Georgia State Sen. Roscoe Dean Jr. said he regarded nudist colonies as "a real moral and economic danger" and would seek a law against them.

"How," he asked, "would you like the idea of raising your children next door to a nudist colony? Moreover, industries and business firms usually think twice before locating near one."

Red Tape Could Delay Soldiers' Return To U.S.

Phnom Penh, Cambodia (UPI) — Informed sources Wednesday said official red tape may delay for possibly another week the departure from Cambodia of two American soldiers released by the Vietnamese communists.

Sgt. George E. Smith of Chester, W. Va., and Spec 5 Claude E. McClure of Chattanooga, Tenn., told a news conference here Tuesday they wanted to return home, quit the Army and campaign against U.S. involvement in the Viet Nam war.

LBJ Orders Slash Of 25,000 In Federal Civilian Payr

Johnson City, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson directed Wednesday a slash of 25,000 in the government's civilian payroll.

Because of heavy retirements in November and December, it is expected that there will be no firings, but vacated jobs in many cases will not be filled.

Through Budget Director Charles L. Schultze, Johnson ordered a reduction of 1¼% in the employment ceilings of all departments and a were directed to c present ceilings by 1

The reductions mus into effect by next Jun

New York (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett of Southern California and Texas Tech's Donny Anderson, a repeater, are the halfbacks on the 1965 Associated Press All-America football team named Wednesday.

Rounding out the offensive backfield are Steve Juday, the man who sparked Michigan State to No. 1 ranking, and battering Illinois fullback Jim Grabowski, first draft pick in the American League.

Notre Dame's Nick Rassas, Johnny Roland of Missouri and George Webster of Michigan State are the defensive backs selected on the 23-man squad which takes into account the two-platoon game.

The 23rd man is Charley Gogolak, the Hungarian-born, soccer-style placekicker from Princeton. The inclusion of a placement specialist does not indicate the establishment of a precedent but rather honors a player of remarkable, record-breaking ability in this field. Gogolak converted all 33 conversion tries and booted 16 field goals from as far away as 54 yards for 81 points.

The team was selected on the recommendations of the sportswriters and broadcasters who make up the eight regional boards. Performances in all games played through Nov. 27 were evaluated for the AP's 40th anniversary All-America team.

All first team players were hard pressed by other candidates but none more than at halfback and offensive center.

Syracuse's Floyd Little was an outstanding ball carrier edged by Garrett and Anderson. Pat Killorin, 1964 All-America offensive center from Syracuse, was bumped to a second team berth by once-beaten Alabama's Paul Crane. The latter is a two-way athlete who goes in at linebacker at critical stages and is tabbed by Coach Bear Bryant as Alabama's best all-around player.

For the second successive year, NFL prime pick Tommy Nobis of Texas, much better known as a linebacker, was named at offensive guard. Nobis has so much ability he is the interior lineman best suited for double duty, saw plenty of action on the attack for the Longhorns and received consideration by Southwest board members at both positions.

Nobis, picked in pro first round by Atlanta and Houston, is joined at guard by a future choice of '64, Notre Dame's versatile Dick Arrington who also worked at defensive tackle. He was drafted by Cleveland of the NFL and Boston of the AFL.

Glen Ray Hines of unbeaten, untied Arkansas and Purdue's Karl Singer, Boston Patriots' first round draftee, are at offensive tackle while the incredible Howard Twilley of Tulsa and Florida's Charles Casey operate from the ends.

On defense the linebackers are Oklahoma's Carl McAdams, Tennessee's Frank Emanuel and Dwight Kelley of Ohio State. Aaron L. Brown of Minnesota and Ed Weisacosky of Miami of Florida are the ends, Nebraska's Walt Barnes and Arkansas' Lloyd Philips the tackles and George Patton of Georgia the middle guard.

Brown (Kansas City) and McAdamas (St. Louis) were quick pro choices. The defensive line and linebackers average 227 pounds.

Nebraska split end Freeman White was a second team offensive choice and eight other Huskers made the honorable mention rolls.

The honorable mentions were tight end Tony Jeter, tackle Dennis Carlson, guard LaVerne Allers, fullback Frank Solich, halfback Harry Wilson, quarterback Fred Duda, linebacker Mike Kennedy and safety Larry Wachholtz.

Madison, Wis.—Nebraska's Cornhuskers, displaying an abundance of offensive power, whipped Wisconsin 101-88 Wednesday night in a non-conference basketball opener for both schools.

Senior Grant Simmons set Nebraska's blistering pace with 29 points and four other Cornhuskers scored in double figures. They yielded scoring honors, however, to Wisconsin sophomore Joe Franklin who sank 30.

Nebraska pulled away midway through the second half to open up a 72-65 lead on baskets by Willie Campbell and Nate Branch. The Cornhuskers broadened the margin to 91-73 for their largest lead late in the game.

The 101 points was a record for the Cornhuskers. The old record was 96, scored against Purdue last season.

The two teams had traded command in a tight first half with Nebraska leading 50-49 at intermission.

Nebraska showed a solid defense under the basket, holding Wisconsin's two pivotmen to four points while forcing the Badgers to shoot from outside.

The taller Cornhuskers controlled the backboards with ease.

Wisconsin, which had a 52 per cent shooting average in the first half, cooled off in the second half, mainly because Franklin went into a slump after scoring 19 points in the first half. Five of his 11 points in the second period were gift shots.

Nate Branch had 15 points for Nebraska and teammate Willie Campbell scored 14, while Ken Barnes of Wisconsin had 26 points.

Creighton Upsets K-State

From Press Reports

Omaha — Creighton, led by Bob Miles with 23 points and a top floor game, upset Kansas State 83-75 Wednesday night.

The big break came shortly after the mid-point of the first half. At that stage Creighton broke out of a 34-34 tie on a field goal by Neil Johnson.

Then came seven straight Creighton points on a three-point play by Miles, and goals by Tim Bowers and Miles and Creighton moved in front 41-34. At the half, Creighton led, 51-38.

K-State was never closer than seven points in the second half although Creighton lost 6-foot-7 veterans Johnson and Powers on fouls with 12 and 8 minutes to play, respectively.

The victory was the sixth for independent Creighton in eight games with K-State of the Big Eight.

Kansas State jumped to an early 7-2 lead, and the game see-sawed during the opening 10 minutes of play.

Kansas State got within seven points twice late in the game but could not catch up. The Wildcats were forced to foul and Creighton cashed in on most of the late game free throws.

Kansas State's 7-1 center Nick Pino got into foul trouble early and set out about half the contest. He fouled out with a little more than five minutes left in the game and wound up with a total of 12.

Wolverines Down Vols

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—Cazzie Russell and John Clawson combined for 49 points in leading Michigan to a 71-63 basketball victory over Tennessee Wednesday night.

Russell scored 29 points, 14 of them in the first half, as Michigan moved to a 37-34 lead. Clawson added 20.

Tennessee, top defensive team in the country this year, played deliberately against the taller Wolverines.

Michigan took an early 7-1 lead but the Vols came back to tie the score three times, the last time at 16-all.

With about six minutes remaining in the first half, Russell scored a pair of baskets pushing Michigan to a 31-25 advantage, its largest of the first half. Tennessee battled back to within a point with less than four minutes remaining. The Wolverines took command again and moved to their slim halftime lead.

—BIG MAN MISSING—

Players Short At Lincoln High

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

It's business as usual for Lincoln High basketball coach Alden Johnson this year as the big man is again missing from the lineup.

The height comes in the form of senior Steve Hanneman (6-2) and juniors Tim Domgaard (6-2) and Don Mohlman (6-2½). Half of the 12-man roster cant' reach the six foot mark.

But Johnson isn't ready to toss in the towel just yet.

"We have another good bunch of shooters and I think our rebounding will be just as good as it was last year," he says.

He looks for Hanneman and Mike Casmer, both lettermen, to take up in the rebounding department where Frank Brill and Don Crist left off last year.

Despite the loss of Brill and Joe Weyand, the top two scorers from a year ago, Johnson is confident his troops can find the basket.

"We scored 60 points in the second half of a scrimmage Monday night," he said.

Casmer and Hanneman have sewed up starting spots as have Charlie Garrett and Jack Highstreet, the other two lettermen returning from last season.

Garrett, the smallest of the Links at 5-7, is expected to be one of the prime offensive threats. He was one of the Links' most effective shooters in the last half of the 1964-65 campaign and wound up as the No. 3 scorer.

Highstreet, a 6-0, 175-pound senior, figures to help on the boards as well as bolster the outside attack.

The fifth starting spot is still up for grabs. The top contenders at present are 5-9 senior Charles King and 5-10 senior Mike Diffenderfer, up from the reserve team.

Another who could move into the picture here is Floyd Brown, a 5-11 newcomer. He's one of two sophomores on the squad, the other being Joe Casmer, Mike's younger brother.

The Links will find out quickly just how much trouble teams with a big man might cause them. Their second foe is Omaha Westside, which has 6-7 Jerry James, and their third opponent is Northeast, which has six players bigger than the 6-2½ top on the Links.

Princeton Kicking Specialist Inks Contract With Redskins

. . . NOTRE DAME BACK JOINS ATLANTA FALCONS

New York (AP)—Charlie Gogolak, Princeton's All-America kicking specialist, signed with the Washington Redskins Wednesday adding a brother act to the bitter rivalry between the two major pro leagues as the competition for draftees continued.

The Princeton star, who set seven National Collegiate Athletic Association records, was the first man to be selected in the first round of the National Football League draft solely for his kicking.

Pete Gogolak, who also played his college ball in the Ivy League at Cornell, plays for Buffalo in the American Football League but has said he is playing out his option.

Terms of Gogolak's contract with the Redskins were not announced, but Edward Bennett Williams, club president, did say he planned to insure the soccer-style kicker's right foot for $1 million. He was drafted in the AFL by Kansas City in the seventh round.

Bill Wolski, Notre Dame back, became one of the 13 who have been announced as signed by the new Atlanta Falcons of the NFL, joining teammate Phil Sheridan, Irish end. Wolski had been drafted in the fifth round by Atlanta, and in the 10th round by the New York Jets.

Many of the top selections can not be signed until after the bowl games that stretch on to New Years's Day.

Tommy Nobis, the Texas linebacker, picked No. 1 by both Atlanta in the NFL and Houston in the AFL has talked with both teams but has announced no decision. Fullback Jim Grabowski, No. 1 with both Green Bay and Miami, also has not announced any signing.

In addition to the 1965 draftees, picked last Saturday, the clubs were trying to sign men selected a year ago as futures because their original college class had graduated. Green Bay collared two of 1st year's futures, Mike Shinn, a linebacker from Kansas, and Roy Lee Schmidt, a guard from Los Angeles State.

The Baltimore Colts signed two high choices, linebacker Stas Maliszewski of Princeton, their sixth-round pick, and halfback Gerald Allen of the University of Omaha, a No. 8 pick.

AFL

NEW YORK—Fullback Emerson Boozer, Naryland State No. 6; defensive end James Jones, Omaha No. 9.

NFL

WASHINGTON—Kicker Charlie Gogolak, Prinneton, No. 1

Green Bay—Linebacker Mike Shinn, Kansas, No. 8 future, 1964; guard Roy Lee Schmidt, Long Beach State, No. 13 future 1964; tackle Fred Heron, San Jose, No. 3.

—'NOT A CRIMINAL ACTION'—

State's Suit Against Braves Ruled 'Civil'

Milwaukee, Wis. (AP)—Circuit Court Judge Elmer W. Roller ruled Wednesday that Wisconsin's antitrust case against the Atlanta-bound Milwaukee Braves and the National Baseball League is a civil and not a criminal action.

The ruling will permit the state to question Braves Board Chairman William Bartholomay, President John McHale and Business Administrator Richard Cecil.

Braves' lawyers argued Monday that the state's suit was in effect a criminal action, exempting Bartholomay, McHale and Cecil from appearing for depositions.

The date for the examination was set for Dec. 9 and 10, probably in Atlanta, Ga., where the Braves' executive offices are now located. The involved parties will meet Dec. 6 to discuss a trial date.

The ruling, based on two Supreme Court cases and a number of federal decisions, also could result in subpenas for National League President Warren Giles and former baseball commissioner Ford Frick in New York Dec. 15. Frick has already been depositioned but on advice of his counsel answered only three of eleven questions put to him by plaintiff's attorneys.

The antitrust suit seeks a court order to require the Braves remain in Milwaukee unless the National League provides a replacement franchise for the city.

Oklahoma Drills An Hour In Rain

Norman, Okla. (AP)—The Oklahoma football team worked out for an hour Wednesday in a light rain preparing for Saturday's Big Eight clash with Oklahoma State here.

Quarterback Gene Cagle, who had a shoulder injury, practiced by himself for the first time this week and end Robert Flanagan, recovering from a bone chip in his right hand, joined the session.

This was the final full length workout before the game.

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Norfolk — Nebraska's 2,404-member Livestock Feeder Association sopke out against the feeding of livestock by meat packers at their annual convention here Wednesday.

Bob Ray of Norfolk, president of the National Livestock Feeders Association, in addressing the convention said, "Feeding of livestock by meat packers is of real concern to the feeding industry. The approach to the problem is not easy, but your national association is working intensely to correct the situation."

A resolution passed by the Nebraska group resolved that the association use its influence and bring the utmost in pressure to bear to discourage the meat packers from engaging in the feeding business as part of their operation and cause it to be discontinued.

M. J. Hankins, Stanton, a past president of the livestock feeders, charged that packer feeding is only for the purpose of "market manipulation". He asked that the same effort employed by the livestock industry to combat imports be utilized to discourage packer feeding.

Support Income Tax

The livestock feeders reaffirmed their support of LB797, the income tax legislation, in a resolution that read "be it resolved that the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association shall give its full and complete support, including financial support, as approved by the board of directors, to the effort of Nebraskans for Fair Taxation to retain LB797 as a law of this state.

The state Aeronautics Department met further opposition in the development of air base land as the feeders charge that the Aeronautics Department has exceeded statuatory authority by launching an extensive land improvement program at the Fairmont airfield to convert marginal land into highly productive farmland at considerable expenditure of public funds.

The feeders publicly registered their firm opposition to spending government funds on land improvements to develop productive farms by all state agencies except the Department of Public Institutions and the University of Nebraska.

Officers elected Keith Burney of Hartington, president; Elmer Schlaphoff of Waverly, 1st vice president; Melvin Kuska of Fairmont, 2nd vice president. Nebraska representatives to the national board of directors named by the group were Oscar Bredthauer of Grand Island, Arden Johnson of Exeter, and Keith Burney.

Buildings In Space Forecast Plus Planet Communication

Chicago (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, an "oldster" of 54, told the nation's youngsters Wednesday there will be buildings in space and communication between planets "before you are 30."

Speaking to the 44th 4-H Club Congress, Humphrey said the nation is just on the threshold of man's progress.

"We are just at the pioneering, primitive stages," he said. "You have quite a time ahead in your lifetime."

Humphrey spoke to 2,200 4-H'ers after briefly touring the 66th International Livestock Exposition where he visited with blue ribbon steers, hogs and lambs.

"We'll be constructing buildings in space," Humphrey said. "I've told George Meany (president of the AFL-CIO) he'd better start organizing out there."

Humphry said the "greatest foreign policy" act of the government in the last 50 years was enactment of the civil rights act of 1964.

Humphrey said American troops in Viet Nam are not fighting for land or bases.

"They are dying and fighting at this very moment for your peace and the peace of the world. And never forget it," he said. Humphrey appeared on the verge of tears at this time. His comments on Viet Nam drew the largest applause of the speech from the youngsters.

Wesley Leads Kansas To Victory Over Hogs

. . . KU DOMINATES 81-52 WIN

Lawrence, Kan. (AP)—Eighth-ranked Kansas, led by Walt Wesley's 20 points, broke it open in the last seven minutes of the first half and overwhelmed Arkansas 81-52 in the season's basketball opener for both clubs Wednesday night.

The Jayhawks led only 17-15 after 12½ minutes, before a 10-0 spurt in a four-minute span made it 27-15. By halftime, it was 43-28. Kansas is the Big Eight title favorite.

Veterinarians' Blood Plan To Aid Rabies Victims

Some 35 to 40 Nebraska veterinary practitioners will give blood here Thursday morning so that persons who contract rabies in the future will be spared acute pain and discomfort connected with treatment for the dread disease.

The idea for the mass blood donation from the ranks of Nebraska veterinarians came from Dr. M. J. Twiehaus, chairman of the University of Nebraska veterinary science department, and formerly head of the Kansas rabies detection program.

Persons who are bitten by animals found to be rabid must undergo either a series of 14 to 21 injections — the Pasteur treatment—or if the bite is on the face or neck, they must submit to direct injections of rabies anti-serum. This latter treatment is necessary to the life of the individual because of the short distance rabies virus travel to the brain. Dr. Twiehaus explained.

The rabies anti-serum administered in severe exposure by rabid animals, and also the milder compound containing rabies antibodies given in the Pasteur series are derived from horses and rabbits used as laboratory hosts, he said. Most persons getting either type of anti-serum develop a severe reaction, Dr. Twiehaus commented.

This is where the veterinarian comes into the picture. Because of their frequent contact and exposure with animals which are rabid or are rabies suspects, veterinarians must protect themselves at all times.

Many take a series of three injections of a vaccine developed in duck embryos, as a preventive measure against rabies. Others have taken one or sometimes two series of the Pasteur treatment, Dr. Twiehaus noted.

In either case, their blood has developed a substantial immunity to rabies through the growth of antibodies, the NU staff member said. Such blood, taken in the usual way, can be processed and given to persons who come in contact with rabies, resulting in immunity and at the same time eliminating painful side-effects from the anti-serum derived from animals.

All veterinarians giving blood are volunteers who responded after the plan was proposed some months ago, Dr. Twiehaus said. Many more were willing, but could not participate because of medical reasons and contact with other diseases, he added.

The blood is being collected by the Red Cross Omaha Regional blood bank mobile unit. It will be sent to Washington, D.C., for initial processing and then on to Camberlee, Ga., a U.S. Public Health Service facility.

The blood will then be returned to Nebraska, in the custody of Dr. E. A. Rogers of the State Health Department. Physicians treating rabies victims with severe exposure may then call for some of the special blood. It is expected to take about six weeks to process the blood and receive it back in Nebraska.

The blood will be taken from the veterinarians between 9 and 10 a.m. Thursday at the Nebraska Center, at the same time blood is being collected from NU students for use in connection with military needs in Viet Nam.

Parents 'Shouldn't Give Up Relationship For Children'

Parenthood, which is "a passing phase of adult life," can have tragic results if parents surrender their entire relationship to each other for their children, some 90 persons attending the Consultation on Christian Education in Lincoln were told.

Rather than devoting one's entire life to the every whim of a child, parents must find time to spend with themselves, guest speaker the Rev. Howard West of Lincoln told the group.

He reminded his audience that besides being parents, adults are also husband and wife and that a healthy and close personal relationship is as necessary to child development as that of the mother-father relationship.

A growing child needs, in the case of a man, someone from whom he can learn how to be a man, a husband and a father. The same is true as far as teaching girls to be women, he said.

Don't Be Alarmed

The Rev. Mr. West advised that parents do not become alarmed if suddenly their child finds a father or mother substitute, such as an older teen-age boy or girl next door. "That is natural in a growing child," he said

The trick is to let the substitute know how much he or she means to the child.

In the area of discipline, the Rev. Mr. West said there are times when it is better to say "sic 'em" rather than restraining disagreement among children.

"A little tussle now and then gives the child a new point of reference, a new way of identifying with his surroundings, a new perspective," he said.

Israel, Jordan Clash On Crest

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP)—Israeli and Jordanian forces clashed Wednesday on the crest of bibical Mt. Gilboa, an Israeli pokesman reported.

He said intermittent firing lasted two hours after a Jordanian position allegedly fired at an Israeli police patrol

There were no casualties on the Israeli side, the spokesman said.

Wayne Fullback Signs Contract

Wayne (AP) — Burt Matthies 232-pound Wayne State fullback, has signed a contract to play pro football with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, a Wayne spokesman said Wednesday.

Matthies was a ninth-round choice by the Rams. In 34 games for Wayne he averaged 84.7 yards per game of 5.3 yards per try on 540 carries. His four-year scoring total was 234 points, 56.8 per season. He snared 16 passes for 240 yards and had a 43.39 yard average on punting, a chore he took over at midseason this year.

Before entering Wayne Matthies spent three years in the Air Force where he was named most valuable player in the Hawaii Armed Forces League.

Nancy Richey Unseated As 'Best' U.S. Netter

New York (AP) — Mrs. Billie Jean Moffitt King, a recent bride, has replaced Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., as the country's No. 1 ranking player in women's tennis, in the 1966 rankings of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The recommended rankings, drawn up by a USLTA committee headed by Mrs. Jeannette Chappell Kalt of New York, still need the almost automatic approval of the USLTA at its annual meeting in February. The rankings were disclosed Wednesday.

More Acerage Opening At Management Area

The State Game Commission Wednesday reported an additional 768 acres at the Sacreamento - Wilcox Game Management Area southwest of Holdrege will be re-opened to hunters Saturday.

The acreage has been closed as a refuge during the duck season, which ended Sunday. The Game Management Area totals 2,308 acres.

Strickland Top Candidate For White Sox Post

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (AP)—George Strickland became the top candidate Wednesday to manage the Chicago White Sox after owner Arthur Allyn and Mayo Smith failed to come to terms.

Strickland, now a coach with the Cleveland Indians, is held in high regard by White Sox General Manager Ed Short and Al Lopez, who resigned as manager.

Lopez, who still had one year to go on his contract, is now a White Sox consultant.

Mays Gains AP Defensive Honor

New York (AP)—When Jerry Mays decided to retire after the 1963 season, a Kansas City firm organized a fan campaign that drew 2,500 pieces of mail in protest. Fortunately for the Chiefs of the American Football League, Jerry changed his mind.

Mays switched from tackle to defensive end this year at the request of Coach Hank Stram and maintained his same steady play week after week.

When the Chiefs bombed Houston last Sunday 52-21, Mays kept the heat on the Oilers' quarterbacks and made eight tackles, seven unassisted. As a result, The Associated Press named Mays the defensive Player of the Week in the AFL.

Post-Season Bowl Warmup Matches Tennessee, UCLA

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP)—Tennessee and UCLA, similar in just about every respect except the way they get the football across the goal, met in Memphis, Tenn., Saturday in a postseason bowl warmup for each.

Seventh-ranked Tennessee, with a 6-1-2 record, faces Tulsa in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Tex., Dec. 18, while fifth-rated UCLA, 7-1-1, plays host to top-ranked Michigan State in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

UCLA will be the fifth team entered in a major post-season Bowl which Tennessee has met this year. Other opponents on Tennessee's schedule this season included Auburn and Mississippi, both in the Liberty Bowl; Alabama, in the Orange; and Georgia Tech, in the Gator.

Neither Tennessee nor UCLA was given a tumble in pre-season rankings. Coach Tommy Prothro of UCLA and Coach Doug Dickey of Tennessee were supposed to be in the second year of rebuilding programs.

But the Bruins surprised the experts by waltzing to the Pacific Coast Conference title, and the Volunteers raised some eyebrows by finishing in a tie for third place in the Southeastern Conference.

John Cooper, UCLA defensive backfield coach, scouted Tennessee in its 21-3 romp over Vanderbilt and likened the Vols to the Bruins.

"Tennessee and UCLA look something alike," he said. "Both have small players with good movement."

Vietnamese Casualties In Week Number 1,505

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—Combat casualties in the South Vietnamese armed forces soared to 1,505 last week, largely as a result of the Viet Cong's destruction of the 7th Infantry Regiment, a U.S. military spokesman announced Wednesday

The latest statistics on the toll of a war that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says "will be a long road ahead" came out on a day of relatively light ground action. U.S. planes loosed both bombs and propaganda pamphlets on North Viet Nam.

American losses Nov. 21-27 were markedly less than in the previous week, though some U.S. advisers were cut down with the Vietnamese infantrymen in their losing battle Saturday on the abandoned Michelin rubber plantation 45 miles northwest of Saigon.

The U.S. toll was 40 killed, 117 wounded and 5 missing.

Lighter

That compared with a record loss of 240 dead, 470 wounded and 6 missing in the week of Nov. 14-20, when U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and North Vietnamese regulars were locked in the Ia Drang Valley battle in the central highlands.

South Viet Nam lost 459 killed—the government's second highest toll of the war. In addition, 861 were wounded and 185 missing.

However, the spokesman said 1,539 Viet Cong were killed, giving U.S. and government troops a favorable ratio of 3-1.

The possibility that a prospective further buildup of American forces in Viet Nam may mean a rise in the 43,000-man Marine contingent seemed to be under study.

'You Can't Tell'

Adm. U.S. Sharp Grant, commander in chief of U.S. Pacific forces, told newsmen after touring Leatherneck installations at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon.

"We may have some more Marines here. You can't tell."

U.S. Marines in the Hue-Phu Bai area north of Da Nang exchanged fire with about 20 Viet Cong. A spokesman said they killed one and wounded four while taking light casualties.

U.S. Air Force pilots made their biggest leaflet drop of the war. They released 7.1 million propaganda pamphlets high over the Red River Valley with the hope the wind would deliver them to Hanoi, Haiphong and other cities along the river.

60 Million

In all, 60 million leaflets now have been dropped on the north in an effort to explain the U.S. and South Vietnamese position in the war and undermine support for Ho Chi Minh's regime.

U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderjets made bombing runs northwest of Hanoi. Pilots said they damaged a railroad bridge and cratered several highways.

Jet planes and propeller-driven Skyraiders from the carriers Ticonderoga and Bon Homme Richard dropped 30 tons of bombs on bridges, freight cars and army barracks near Vinh, 140 miles north of the border.

There was no mention here of any losses.

Hanoi's Figures Same As U.S.' List For Once

Tokyo (AP)—Radio Hanoi broadcast to claim Wednesday that Viet Cong "liberation forces in the eastern part of Nam Bo (South Viet Nam proper) wiped out nearly 4,000 American troops" in the first 20 days of November.

U.S. authorities ignore such communist utterances, but this happens to be one that can be checked against official figures announced on a weekly basis in Saigon.

These figures list 1,341 American casualties through Viet Nam—land, sea and air—in the cited period. The total includes 396 killed, 937 wounded and 8 missing in action.

Gromyko Repeats His Viet Nam Conditions

Moscow (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Wednesday warned that American bombing of North Viet Nam "must stop" and all U.S. troops must leave South Viet Nam before any peace talks could be held.

The Soviet price for peace indicated the communists were clinging to their hard line conditions. The demands for an end to the bombing of the north and a troop withdrawal are two key demands in the four-point program insisted on by the North Vietnamese as pre-conditions for peace talks.

Gromyko restated the Soviet position to British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart in a three-hour talk at the Soviet Foreign Ministry Wednesday. It was the second time the two foreign ministers have met since Stewart arrived in Moscow Monday.

Informed sources said the talks indicated both sides held firmly to their old positions concerning a Viet Nam peace.

Spacemen, Not Caeser

Prague (AP) — A Czechoslovak woman psychiatrist, Dr. Ruzena Hajnova, says Space Age schizophrenics don't think of themselves as Caesars or Napoleons — "their imagination works in more modern patterns." The CTK news agency reported she said one typical clinic patient told of speaking with inhabitants of other planets who were bald and several meters high.

U.S. Planes Fly 226,000 Pounds Of Gifts

Washington (AP) — Air National Guard and Air Force reserve planes have flown 226,000 pounds of Christmas gift parcels to Viet Nam so far, it was announced Wednesday.

In addition, the Defense Department said, the 37 guard-reserve planes which already have taken part in "Operation Christmas Star" have delivered a total of 280,000 pounds of military cargo to Viet Nam.

The Pentagon stressed that no packages can be accepted for this kind of delivery after Dec 5

Meanwhile the Association of American Railroads announced that railroads across the nation will be providing free transportation for goods donated by Americans to the people of South Viet Nam

The Project America's Christmas trains and trucks will be filled and moved in cooperation with the U.S. Jaycees, the Young Democratic Clubs of America and the Young Republican National Federation

Tools, school supplies, foods, clothes and fabrics sewing kits and personal hygiene articles are the principal items designated by the Defense Department as most needed by the South Vietnamese.

The railroads will provide freight cars at local loading sites and offer free transportation in regularly scheduled freight trains to Oakland, Calif., for loading aboard ship by Christmas Eve

Possible Brainwashing Takes Simple Technique

Washington (AP)—Brainwashing doesn't always need exotic techniques simple repetition can hammer down the resistance of some American prisoners — and the communists use that method, among others

The question is brought into focus again by release by the Red Vietnamese of two U.S. Army men held captive since 1963 and their subsequent news conferences remarks Tuesday in communist-oriented Cambodia. Gen. Wallace M. Greene, Marine Corps commandant, feels that the two soldiers were brainwashed by their captors.

This raises the question of whether the Reds are now applying the brainwashing treatment used widely in both the Korean War and in World War II.

There are two schools of thought in the Pentagon (A) The Viet Cong and the militrated forces of regular North Vietnamese troops are not equipped for use of the technique; (B) brainwashing can be of such simple technique that even guerrillas can use it

However, whether or not the Reds are using that psychological tool in Viet Nam, the U.S. military is taking steps to counter it—as it did in Korea and before that in World War II

All military personnel going to Viet Nam receive, among other things, briefings and lessons on brainwashing. The Army prepared a handbook on the subject—"Communist Interrogation, Indoctrination and Exploitation of Prisoners of War"—after studies of the Korean War. The pamphlet still is used as a textbook for American servicemen bound for Viet Nam.

If, as Greene suspects, the Viet Reds made effort to brainwash Sgt. George E. Smith and Spec. 4 Claude Donald McClure to make them believe the communist cause is right and U.S. entry into the Viet Nam war was wrong, how might it have been done?

The Army pamphlet and discussions with veteran U.S. soldiers who have had practical experience on the subject suggest some answers

U.S. TROOPS IN GERMANY—What are 260,000 GI's doing in Germany today? What do these GI's think of Vietnam and of their own mission in Europe? How likely is it that they will ever fight again? Parade's Managing Editor Ed Kiester, himself a GI in Germany 20 years ago, went to Friedberg to talk to the men and watch them in action. The answers he got were both surprising and reassuring

Q. What is the full name of the leader of Herman's Hermits? How old? Where does he come from?

Q. How many children does Jayne Mansfield have?

Q. Anne Ford, Henry Ford's daughter: who is making her wedding dress?

HOW OUR LAWS DISCRIMINATE AGAINST KIDS—Parade focuses the spotlight on outmoded laws in the U.S. that can put minors in houses of detention for such trite "offenses" as smoking a cigarette or leaving home. The shocking findings show how America's cherished "due process of law" can be an empty and mocking phrase

HOLIDAY FRUITCAKE—Now's the time to make that Christmas fruitcake. From Parade's Test Kitchen comes the recipe for a two-toned cake—two layers of dark cake with a layer of white between. The white cake is studded with brilliant red and green candied fruits. It's a perfect treat with eggnog at yuletide.

NWU Opens Tourney Against Friends

The Midwest Tourney tonight through Saturday opens basketball action for Nebraska Wesleyan.

The Plainsmen will meet Friends University of Wichita, Kan., in first round action tonight at 9:15 p.m. Other pairings pit Midland-Concordia in the opening game at 5:45 p.m., and Hastings-Dana at 7:30 p.m.

Doane, tabbed the tourney favorite by NWU coach Irv Peterson, drew a first round bye. Chubbyville, a local AAU team, will enter the losers bracket in the second round.

Peterson has named a squad of seniors to open against Friends. His only two regulars from last year, Skip Peterson and Dwight Tietjen, will team with Roger Nannen, Regy Green, and Roger O'Neill.

Leading back up men will be 6-3 Dick Hahn and 6-4 William Nasi.

Peterson's first unit averages just over 6-0 a man. Peterson and O'Neill operating at guard spots are 5-11 and 5-10 respectively. Nannen is the tallest at 6-4. Tietjen stands 6-0 and Green 6-1½.

Peterson said he may be forced to do a lot of shuffling of players because of assorted ankle and knee injuries.

He said Tietjen is still bothered by an ankle sprained during football. "He's only scrimmaged about 15 minutes with us," Peterson said. "The ankle bothers his shooting too."

He said O'Neill is bothered by a knee sprain and Peterson and Nasi each have slight ankle sprains which have slowed them during practice.

Friends, which finished in fourth place in last year's Midwest Tourney, has a veteran team back.

Coach Robert Moore says his Falcons are paced by guard Keith Raucs and center Marion Spatz. Raucs averaged 29 points a game for the last nine games of the season for Friends. He missed the first half of the year that ended 9-14 for the Falcons.

Spatz had a 10-point per game average over the entire 23-game season.

Raucs, a senior is the shortest man on the Falcon squad at 5-9. His running mate, Steve Groninga, is a 5-10 junior. Spatz stands 6-4, the tallest Falcon along with forward Wayne Witcomb, 6-4 and Odus Isaacs, 6-2.

Midland won the tourney last year with a 69-68 victory over Hastings in the final game.

Clark Graebner Whips Aussie Davis Cupper

Melbourne, Australia (AP) — Giant-killer Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, who describes himself as a "top rank second rater," turned in another first-rate performance Wednesday when he defeated Australian Davis Cupper Tony Roche in the third round of the men's singles in the Victorian Tennis Championships.

Arthur Ashe, the top-seeded American from Los Angeles and Herb FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.Y., split the first two games of the first set before rain halted their third round match. The development was viewed as a break for Ashe, who is bothered by a toe injury.

N. Dakota State Takes Small College Crown

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

A X Y D L B A A X R
to L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's. X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. New York (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett of Southern California and Texas Tech's Donny Anderson, a repeater, are the halfbacks on the 1965 Associated Press All-America football team named Wednesday.

Rounding out the offensive backfield are Steve Juday, the man who sparked Michigan State to No. 1 ranking, and battering Illinois fullback Jim Grabowski, first draft pick in the American League.

Notre Dame's Nick Rassas, Johnny Roland of Missouri and George Webster of Michigan State are the defensive backs selected on the 23-man squad which takes into account the two-platoon game.

The 23rd man is Charley Gogolak, the Hungarian-born, soccer-style placekicker from Princeton. The inclusion of a placement specialist does not indicate the establishment of a precedent but rather honors a player of remarkable, record-breaking ability in this field. Gogolak converted all 33 conversion tries and booted 16 field goals from as far away as 54 yards for 81 points.

The team was selected on the recommendations of the sportswriters and broadcasters who make up the eight regional boards. Performances in all games played through Nov. 27 were evaluated for the AP's 40th anniversary All-America team.

All first team players were hard pressed by other candidates but none more than at halfback and offensive center

Syracuse's Floyd Little was an outstanding ball carrier edged by Garrett and Anderson. Pat Killorin, 1964 All-America offensive center from Syracuse, was bumped to a second team berth by once-beaten Alabama's Paul Crane. The latter is a two-way athlete who goes in at linebacker at critical stages and is tabbed by Coach Bear Bryant as Alabama's best all-around player.

For the second successive year, NFL prime pick Tommy Nobis of Texas, much better known as a linebacker, was named at offensive guard. Nobis has so much ability he is the interior lineman best suited for double duty, saw plenty of action on the attack for the Longhorns and received consideration by Southwest board members at both positions.

Nobis, picked in pro first round by Atlanta and Houston, is joined at guard by a future choice of '64, Notre Dame's versatile Dick Arrington who also worked at defensive tackle. He was drafted by Cleveland of the NFL and Boston of the AFL.

Glen Ray Hines of unbeaten, untied Arkansas and Purdue's Karl Singer, Boston Patriots' first round draftee, are at offensive tackle while the incredible Howard Twilley of Tulsa and Florida's Charles Casey operate from the ends.

On defense the linebackers are Oklahoma's Carl McAdams, Tennessee's Frank Emanuel and Dwight Kelley of Ohio State. Aaron L. Brown of Minnesota and Ed Weisacosky of Miami of Florida are the ends, Nebraska's Walt Barnes and Arkansas' Lloyd Philips the tackles and George Patton of Georgia the middle guard.

Brown (Kansas City) and McAdamas (St. Louis) were quick pro choices. The defensive line and linebackers average 227 pounds

Nebraska split end Freeman White was a second team offensive choice and eight other Huskers made the honorable mention rolls.

HUSKERS WHIP WISCONSIN

NU Cagers Set Point Record

. . . 101-88 FINAL SCORE

From Press Reports

Madison, Wis.—Nebraska's Cornhuskers, displaying an abundance of offensive power, whipped Wisconsin 101-88 Wednesday night in a non-conference basketball opener for both schools.

Senior Grant Simmons set Nebraska's blistering pace with 29 points and four other Cornhuskers scored in double figures. They yielded scoring honors, however, to Wisconsin sophomore Joe Franklin who sank 30.

Nebraska pulled away midway through the second half to open up a 72-65 lead on baskets by Willie Campbell and Nate Branch. The Cornhuskers broadened the margin to 91-73 for their largest lead late in the game.

The 101 points was a record for the Cornhuskers. The old record was 96, scored against Purdue last season.

The two teams had traded command in a tight first half with Nebraska leading 50-49 at intermission.

Nebraska showed a solid defense under the basket, holding Wisconsin's two pivotmen to four points while forcing the Badgers to shoot from outside

The taller Cornhuskers controlled the backboards with ease.

Wisconsin, which had a 52 per cent shooting average in the first half, cooled off in the second half, mainly because Franklin went into a slump after scoring 19 points in the first half. Five of his 11 points in the second period were gift shots.

Nate Branch had 15 points for Nebraska and teammate Willie Campbell scored 14, while Ken Barnes of Wisconsin had 26 points.

—BIG MAN MISSING—

Players Short At Lincoln High

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

It's business as usual for Lincoln High basketball coach Alden Johnson this year as the big man is again missing from the lineup.

The height comes in the form of senior Steve Hanneman (6-2) and juniors Tim Domgaard (6-2) and Don Mohlman (6-2½). Half of the 12-man roster cant' reach the six foot mark.

But Johnson isn't ready to toss in the towel just yet

"We have another good bunch of shooters and I think our rebounding will be just as good as it was last year." he says.

He looks for Hanneman and Mike Casmer, both lettermen, to take up in the rebounding department where Frank Brill and Don Crist left off last year.

Despite the loss of Brill and Joe Weyand, the top two scorers from a year ago, Johnson is confident his troops can find the basket.

"We scored 60 points in the second half of a scrimmage Monday night," he said.

Casmer and Hanneman have sewed up starting spots as have Charlie Garrett and Jack Highstreet, the other two lettermen returning from last season.

Garrett, the smallest of the Links at 5-7, is expected to be one of the prime offensive threats. He was one of the Links' most effective shooters in the last half of the 1964-65 campaign and wound up as the No. 3 scorer.

Highstreet, a 6-0, 175-pound senior, figures to help on the boards as well as bolster the outside attack

The fifth starting spot is still up for grabs. The top contenders at present are 5-9 senior Charles King and 5-10 senior Mike Diffenderfer, up from the reserve team.

Another who could move into the picture here is Floyd Brown, a 5-11 newcomer. He's one of two sophomores on the squad, the other being Joe Casmer. Mike's younger brother.

The Links will find out quickly just how much trouble teams with a big man might cause them. Their second foe is Omaha Westside, which has 6-7 Jerry James, and their third opponent is Northeast, which has six players bigger than the 6-2½ top on the Links.

Princeton Kicking Specialist Inks Contract With Redskins

. . . NOTRE DAME BACK JOINS ATLANTA FALCONS

New York (AP)—Charlie Gogolak, Princeton's All-America kicking specialist, signed with the Washington Redskins Wednesday adding a brother act to the bitter rivalry between the two major pro leagues as the competition for draftees continued

The Princeton star, who set seven National Collegiate Athletic Association records, was the first man to be selected in the first round of the National Football League draft solely for his kicking.

Pete Gogolak, who also played his college ball in the Ivy League at Cornell, plays for Buffalo in the American Football League but has said he is playing out his option.

Terms of Gogolak's contract with the Redskins were not announced, but Edward Bennett Williams, club president, did say he planned to insure the soccer-style kicker's right foot for $1 million. He was drafted in the AFL by Kansas City in the seventh round

Bill Wolski, Notre Dame back, became one of the 13 who have been announced as signed by the new Atlanta Falcons of the NFL, joining teammate Phil Sheridan, Irish end. Wolski had been drafted in the fifth round by Atlanta, and in the 10th round by the New York Jets.

Many of the top selections can not be signed until after the bowl games that stretch on to New Years's Day.

Tommy Nobis, the Texas linebacker, picked No 1 by both Atlanta in the NFL and Houston in the AFL has talked with both teams but has announced no decision. Fullback Jim Grabowski, No. 1 with both Green Bay and Miami, also has not announced any signing.

In addition to the 1965 draftees, picked last Saturday, the clubs were trying to sign men selected a year ago as futures because their original college class had graduated. Green Bay collared two of last year's futures, Mike Shinn, a linebacker from Kansas, and Roy Lee Schmidt, a guard from Los Angeles State.

The Baltimore Colts signed two high choices, linebacker Stas Maliszewski of Princeton, their sixth-round pick, and halfback Gerald Allen of the University of Omaha, a No. 8 pick.

—'NOT A CRIMINAL ACTION'—

State's Suit Against Braves Ruled 'Civil'

Milwaukee, Wis. (AP)—Circuit Court Judge Elmer W. Roller ruled Wednesday that Wisconsin's antitrust case against the Atlanta-bound Milwaukee Braves and the National Baseball League is a civil and not a criminal action.

The ruling will permit the state to question Braves Board Chairman William Bartholomay, President John McHale and Business Administrator Richard Cecil.

Braves' lawyers argued Monday that the state's suit was in effect a criminal action, exempting Bartholomay, McHale and Cecil from appearing for depositions.

The date for the examination was set for Dec 9 and 10, probably in Atlanta, Ga., where the Braves' executive offices are now located. The involved parties will meet Dec. 6 to discuss a trial date.

The ruling, based on two Supreme Court cases and a number of federal decisions, also could result in subpenas for National League President Warren Giles and former baseball commissioner Ford Frick in New York Dec. 15. Frick has already been deppositioned but on advice of his counsel answered only three of eleven questions put to him by plaintiff's attorneys.

The antitrust suit seeks a court order to require the Braves remain in Milwaukee unless the National League provides a replacement franchise for the city.

Creighton Upsets K-State

From Press Reports

Omaha — Creighton, led by Bob Miles with 23 points and a top floor game, upset Kansas State 83-75 Wednesday night

The big break came shortly after the mid-point of the first half. At that stage Creighton broke out of a 34-34 tie on a field goal by Neil Johnson.

Then came seven straight Creighton points on a three-point play by Miles, and goals by Tim Bowers and Miles and Creighton moved in front 41-34 At the half, Creighton led, 51-38.

K-State was never closer than seven points in the second half although Creighton lost 6-foot-7 veterans Johnson and Powers on fouls with 12 and 8 minutes to play, respectively.

The victory was the sixth for independent Creighton in eight games with K-State of the Big Eight.

Kansas State jumped to an early 7-2 lead, and the game see-sawed during the opening 10 minutes of play.

Kansas State got within seven points twice late in the game but could not catch up. The Wildcats were forced to foul and Creighton cashed in on most of the late game free throws.

Kansas State's 7-1 center Nick Pino got into foul trouble early and set out about half the contest. He fouled out with a little more than five minutes left in the game and wound up with a total of 12

Wolverines Down Vols

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—Cazzie Russell and John Clawson combined for 49 points in leading Michigan to a 71-63 basketball victory over Tennessee Wednesday night.

Russell scored 29 points, 14 of them in the first half, as Michigan moved to a 37-34 lead. Clawson added 20.

Tennessee, top defensive team in the country this year, played deliberately against the taller Wolverines.

Michigan took an early 7-1 lead but the Vols came back to tie the score three times, the last time at 16-all.

With about six minutes remaining in the first half, Russell scored a pair of baskets pushing Michigan to a 31-25 advantage, its largest of the first half. Tennessee battled back to within a point with less than four minutes remaining. The Wolverines took command again and moved to their slim halftime lead.

Ron Widby paced the losers with 23 points.

Oklahoma Drills An Hour In Rain

Norman, Okla. (AP)—The Oklahoma football team worked out for an hour Wednesday in a light rain preparing for Saturday's Big Eight clash with Oklahoma State here.

Quarterback Gene Cagle, who had a shoulder injury, practiced by himself for the first time this week and end Robert Flanagan, recovering from a bone chip in his right hand, joined the session.

This was the final full length workout before the game.

Kennedy Seeks Latin Policy Review

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., returning from a 20-day trip to the area, said Wednesday he would push for a review of U.S. policy in Latin America.

Kennedy was careful not to openly criticize the Johnson administration. But he said he would push for a new look in U.S. policies in Latin America and that he would make his request in a speech to the U.S. Senate when Congress reconvenes in January.

Kennedy spoke to reporters here shortly after his arrival from New York City, where he said this country must provide a "general leadership" for South America or face a policy disaster there.

"I noted serious reservations about U.S. policy in Latin America," he told reporters at the Washington airport, "some of it based on misconceptions."

He said progressive elements in Latin America were "unanimously" opposed to U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic. "Whatever they may think of the initial steps," Kennedy said, "I tried to explain to them that U.S. forces are in the Dominican Republic in order to ensure free elections."

The Alliance for Progress, said Kennedy, placed too much emphasis on anticommunism and on bilateral aspects of the alliance.

Although Latin Americans had some strong reservations about U.S. policies, Kennedy said they displayed "a tremendous affection toward the United States.

Looking deeply tanned after his 20-day visit to Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru and Venezuela, the senator told reporters at Kennedy International Airport upon his return to this country that South America "needs the assistance of the United States—but not just material aid."

He said the political trend in South America is "toward progress. . . toward reform, and if the United States does not align itself (with these trends), then it will stand for nothing in Latin America."

Drunk Charge Is Dropped; Ohioan Dies Of Attack

Toledo, Ohio (AP)—John A. Glatz, 61, had turned up in court on drunk and disorderly charges 105 times since 1963.

When he came up in court again Wednesday, he begged Municipal Judge Robert D. Franklin for mercy, saying, "Give me a break and I'll never come back here again."

Franklin suspended Glatz' $50 fine and 30-day jail sentence.

Glatz walked out of the building and dropped dead, apparently of a heart attack, in front of the jail he had left only Monday after a year's sentence.

Hoover Labels Demonstrators Halfway Citizens

Washington (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover Wednesday labeled most participants in demonstrations protesting U.S. involvement in Viet Nam as "halfway citizens."

"The small, but highly vocal, minority which is staging these anti-Viet Nam demonstrations is, for the most part, composed of halfway citizens who are neither morally, mentally, nor emotionally mature," Hoover said.

In a letter to a former FBI employe serving with the Marines in Viet Nam, Hoover added, "This is true whether the demonstrator be the college professor or the beatnik."

Hoover's letter, published in the FBI monthly magazine, was written Oct. 22 to Marine Lt. George M. Connell.

"I sincerely hope that you and the brave men with whom you serve understand that those who protest, degrade and shame the excellent representation you are making for us do not speak for patriotic Americans," Hoover wrote.

Washington State Man Given Grant

The Rev. George Mink, Wesley Foundation director at Washington State University, was named as first recipient of the new Harvey C. Brown Research Grant.

The announcement came at a meeting Wednesday of the Association of Wesley Foundations at Nebraska Center.

The grant is named for a retired leader in the Methodist student movement and is intended for research concerning Christian faith and life communities on American campuses.

The grant will carry a stipulation of $1,500, $1,000 of which will come from the Association of Wesley Foundations and the remaining $500 from the Methodist Board of Education.

The Rev. Paul Stopenhagen of Purdue University presided at the meeting which was attended by various representatives of Wesley Foundations throughout the U.S.

According to Bill Hearn, publicity chairman for the association, it was also decided to contribute $1000 to "Motive" magazine which is closely related to the Methodist student movement.

Federal Tax Cut Largely Nullified, Declares Hruska

Omaha (AP) — Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., said Wednesday the federal tax cut provided by the Revenue Act of 1964 will be largely nullified by the increase in Social Security taxes to finance medicare, by increases in state and local taxes, by proposed new levies for unemployment compensation and by inflation.

In an address before the Omaha Real Estate Board Hruska said the 1964 income tax cut gave relief to corporations at the rate of about $2.2 billion per year. "That was almost immediately offset by the cost of the medicare program which taxes employers at the rate of about $2 billion a year."

"And we must not forget that for every dollars paid by the employer another dollar is paid by the worker," he added.

And he said that if President Johnson's proposals for broadening unemployment compensation are enacted," not only will federal taxes on employers be more than doubled, there will be a sharp rise in state matching taxes."

Nebraska-Trained Psychiatrist Eyed For Hastings Post

State Institutions Director George Morris said Wednesday a Nebraska-educated psychiatrist will visit Nebraska later this month to look over the facilities at the Hastings State Hospital.

Morris, who declined to identify the man, said he is a possible candidate for the vacant superintendent's job at the hospital.

He said he may appoint the man if the outcome of the visit is favorable.

The superintendent's post has been vacant since last summer when Dr. Finn Lunde resigned to take another post in California.

Morris, meanwhile, said the hospital is operating smoothly under the supervision of Dr. Carl Gouldman, acting superintendent, and Carl Rinker, administrator.

He said the hospital is rapidly moving toward re-accreditation.

Wayne Fullback Signs Contract

Wayne (AP) — Burt Matthies 232-pound Wayne State fullback, has signed a contract to play pro football with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, a Wayne spokesman said Wednesday.

Matthies was a ninth-round choice by the Rams. In 34 games for Wayne he averaged 84.7 yards per game of 5.3 yards per try on 540 carries. His four-year scoring total was 234 points, 56.8 per season. He snared 16 passes for 240 yards and had a 43.39 yard average on punting, a chore he took over at midseason this year.

Before entering Wayne Matthies spent three years in the Air Force where he was named most valuable player in the Hawaii Armed Forces League.

Nancy Richey Unseated As 'Best' U.S. Netter

New York (AP) — Mrs. Billie Jean Moffitt King, a recent bride, has replaced Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., as the country's No. 1 ranking player in women's tennis, in the 1966 rankings of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The recommended rankings, drawn up by a USLTA committee headed by Mrs. Jeannette Chappell Kalt of New York, still need the almost automatic approval of the USLTA at its annual meeting in February. The rankings were disclosed Wednesday.

More Acerage Opening At Management Area

The State Game Commission Wednesday reported an additional 768 acres at the Sacreamento - Wilcox Game Management Area southwest of Holdrege will be re-opened to hunters Saturday.

The acreage has been closed as a refuge during the duck season, which ended Sunday. The Game Management Area totals 2,308 acres.

Strickland Top Candidate For White Sox Post

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (AP)—George Strickland became the top candidate Wednesday to manage the Chicago White Sox after owner Arthur Allyn and Mayo Smith failed to come to terms.

Strickland, now a coach with the Cleveland Indians, is held in high regard by White Sox General Manager Ed Short and Al Lopez, who resigned as manager.

Lopez, who still had one year to go on his contract, is now a White Sox consultant.

Mays Gains AP Defensive Honor

New York (AP)—When Jerry Mays decided to retire after the 1963 season, a Kansas City firm organized a fan campaign that drew 2,500 pieces of mail in protest. Fortunately for the Chiefs of the American Football League, Jerry changed his mind.

Mays switched from tackle to defensive end this year at the request of Coach Hank Stram and maintained his same steady play week after week.

When the Chiefs bombed Houston last Sunday 52-21, Mays kept the heat on the Oilers' quarterbacks and made eight tackles, seven unassisted. As a result, The Associated Press named Mays the defensive Player of the Week in the AFL.

Post-Season Bowl Warmup Matches Tennessee, UCLA

Knoxville, Tenn. —Tennessee and UCLA, similar in just about every respect except the way they get the football across the goal, met in Memphis, Tenn., Saturday in a postseason bowl warmup for each.

Seventh-ranked Tennessee, with a 6-1-2 record, faces Tulsa in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Tex., Dec. 18, while fifth-rated UCLA, 7-1-1, plays host to top-ranked Michigan State in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

UCLA will be the fifth team entered in a major post-season Bowl which Tennessee has met this year. Other opponents on Tennessee's schedule this season included Auburn and Mississippi, both in the Liberty Bowl; Alabama, in the Orange; and Georgia Tech, in the Gator.

Neither Tennessee nor UCLA was given a tumble in pre-season rankings. Coach Tommy Prothro of UCLA and Coach Doug Dickey of Tennessee were supposed to be in the second year of rebuilding programs.

But the Bruins surprised the experts by waltzing to the Pacific Coast Conference title, and the Volunteers raised some eyebrows by finishing in a tie for third place in the Southeastern Conference.

John Cooper, UCLA defensive backfield coach, scouted Tennessee in its 21-3 romp over Vanderbilt and likened the Vols to the Bruins.

"Tennessee and UCLA look something alike," he said. "Both have small players with good movement."

Thus the records, ranking and personnel are much alike. But there's where the similarity ends.

NWU Opens Tourney Against Friends

The Midwest Tourney tonight through Saturday opens basketball action for Nebraska Wesleyan.

The Plainsmen will meet Friends University of Wichita, Kan., in first round action tonight at 9:15 p.m. Other pairings pit Midland-Concordia in the opening game at 5:45 p.m., and Hastings-Dana at 7:30 p.m.

Doane, tabbed the tourney favorite by NWU coach Irv Peterson, drew a first round bye. Chubbyville, a local AAU team, will enter the losers bracket in the second round.

Peterson has named a squad of seniors to open against Friends. His only two regulars from last year, Skip Peterson and Dwight Tietjen, will team with Roger Nannen, Regy Green, and Roger O'Neill.

Leading back up men will be 6-3 Dick Hahn and 6-4 William Nasi.

Peterson's first unit averages just over 6-0 a man. Peterson and O'Neill operating at guard spots are 5-11 and 5-10 respectively. Nannen is the tallest at 6-4. Tietjen stands 6-0 and Green 6-1½.

Peterson said he may be forced to do a lot of shuffling of players because of assorted ankle and knee injuries.

He said Tietjen is still bothered by an ankle sprained during football. "He's only scrimmaged about 15 minutes with us," Peterson said. "The ankle bothers his shooting too."

He said O'Neill is bothered by a knee sprain and Peterson and Nasi each have slight ankle sprains which have slowed them during practice.

Friends, which finished in fourth place in last year's Midwest Tourney, has a veteran team back.

Coach Robert Moore says his Falcons are paced by guard Keith Raucs and center Marion Spatz. Raucs averaged 29 points a game for the last nine games of the season for Friends. He missed the first half of the year that ended 9-14 for the Falcons.

Spatz had a 10-point per game average over the entire 23-game season.

Raucs, a senior is the shortest man on the Falcon squad at 5-9. His running mate, Steve Groninga, is a 5-10 junior. Spatz stands 6-4, the tallest Falcon along with forward Wayne Witcomb, 6-4 and Odus Isaacs, 6-2.

Midland won the tourney last year with a 69-68 victory over Hastings in the final game.

Clark Graebner Whips Aussie Davis Cupper

Melbourne, Australia (AP) — Giant-killer Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, who describes himself as a "top rank second rater," turned in another first-rate performance Wednesday when he defeated Australian Davis Cupper Tony Roche in the third round of the men's singles in the Victorian Tennis Championships.

Arthur Ashe, the top-seeded American from Los Angeles and Herb FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.Y., split the first two games of the first set before rain halted their third round match. The development was viewed as a break for Ashe, who is bothered by a toe injury.

RENAULT RENAULT

"The gasoline mileage during our test with both cars was above 30 miles to the gallon on regular fuel. Its handling in traffic, running in-and-out, was great. If you're in the market for a car of this type, you'd have to go a long way to beat it . . ."
We didn't say it, Tom McCahill of Mechanix Illustrated Magazine did.

Kennedy Seeks Latin Policy Review

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., returning from a 20-day trip to the area, said Wednesday he would push for a review of U.S. policy in Latin America.

Kennedy was careful not to openly criticize the Johnson administration. But he said he would push for a new look in U.S. policies in Latin America and that he would make his request in a speech to the U.S. Senate when Congress reconvenes in January.

Kennedy spoke to reporters here shortly after his arrival from New York City, where he said this country must provide a "general leadership" for South America or face a policy disaster there.

"I noted serious reservations about U.S. policy in Latin America," he told reporters at the Washington airport, "some of it based on misconceptions."

He said progressive elements in Latin America were "unanimously" opposed to U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic. "Whatever they may think of the initial steps," Kennedy said, "I tried to explain to them that U.S. forces are in the Dominican Republic in order to ensure free elections."

The Alliance for Progress, said Kennedy, placed too much emphasis on anticommunism and on bilateral aspects of the alliance.

Although Latin Americans had some strong reservations about U.S. policies, Kennedy said they displayed "a tremendous affection toward the United States.

Looking deeply tanned after his 20-day visit to Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru and Venezuela, the senator told reporters at Kennedy International Airport upon his return to this country that South America "needs the assistance of the United States—but not just material aid."

He said the political trend in South America is "toward progress. . . toward reform, and if the United States does not align itself (with these trends), then it will stand for nothing in Latin America."

Drunk Charge Is Dropped; Ohioan Dies Of Attack

Toledo, Ohio (AP)—John A. Glatz, 61, had turned up in court on drunk and disorderly charges 105 times since 1963.

When he came up in court again Wednesday, he begged Municipal Judge Robert D. Franklin for mercy, saying, "Give me a break and I'll never come back here again."

Franklin suspended Glatz' $50 fine and 30-day jail sentence.

Glatz walked out of the building and dropped dead, apparently of a heart attack, in front of the jail he had left only Monday after a year's sentence.

Hoover Labels Demonstrators Halfway Citizens

Washington (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover Wednesday labeled most participants in demonstrations protesting U.S. involvement in Viet Nam as "halfway citizens."

"The small, but highly vocal, minority which is staging these anti-Viet Nam demonstrations is, for the most part, composed of halfway citizens who are neither morally, mentally, nor emotionally mature," Hoover said.

In a letter to a former FBI employe serving with the Marines in Viet Nam, Hoover added, "This is true whether the demonstrator be the college professor or the beatnik."

Hoover's letter, published in the FBI monthly magazine, was written Oct. 22 to Marine Lt. George M. Connell.

"I sincerely hope that you and the brave men with whom you serve understand that those who protest, degrade and shame the excellent representation you are making for us do not speak for patriotic Americans," Hoover wrote.

The platform, as big as two football fields, was owned by BIPM-Shell.

The missing men include a number of Dutch Shell personnel.

Washington State Man Given Grant

The Rev. George Mink, Wesley Foundation director at Washington State University, was named as first recipient of the new Harvey C. Brown Research Grant.

The announcement came at a meeting Wednesday of the Association of Wesley Foundations at Nebraska Center.

The grant is named for a retired leader in the Methodist student movement and is intended for research concerning Christian faith and life communities on American campuses.

The grant will carry a stipulation of $1,500, $1,000 of which will come from the Association of Wesley Foundations and the remaining $500 from the Methodist Board of Education.

The Rev. Paul Stopenhagen of Purdue University presided at the meeting which was attended by various representatives of Wesley Foundations throughout the U.S.

According to Bill Hearn, publicity chairman for the association, it was also decided to contribute $1000 to "Motive" magazine which is closely related to the Methodist student movement.

Federal Tax Cut Largely Nullified, Declares Hruska

Omaha (AP) — Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., said Wednesday the federal tax cut provided by the Revenue Act of 1964 will be largely nullified by the increase in Social Security taxes to finance medicare, by increases in state and local taxes, by proposed new levies for unemployment compensation and by inflation.

In an address before the Omaha Real Estate Board Hruska said the 1964 income tax cut gave relief to corporations at the rate of about $2.2 billion per year. "That was almost immediately offset by the cost of the medicare program which taxes employers at the rate of about $2 billion a year."

"And we must not forget that for every dollars paid by the employer another dollar is paid by the worker," he added.

And he said that if President Johnson's proposals for broadening unemployment compensation are enacted," not only will federal taxes on employers be more than doubled, there will be a sharp rise in state matching taxes."

Nebraska-Trained Psychiatrist Eyed For Hastings Post

State Institutions Director George Morris said Wednesday a Nebraska-educated psychiatrist will visit Nebraska later this month to look over the facilities at the Hastings State Hospital.

Morris, who declined to identify the man, said he is a possible candidate for the vacant superintendent's job at the hospital.

He said he may appoint the man if the outcome of the visit is favorable.

The superintendent's post has been vacant since last summer when Dr. Finn Lunde resigned to take another post in California.

Morris, meanwhile, said the hospital is operating smoothly under the supervision of Dr. Carl Gouldman, acting superintendent, and Carl Rinker, administrator.

He said the hospital is rapidly moving toward re-accreditation.
